BRITISH MINERS FAVOR A BALLOT ON DIRECT ACTION

REJECT GOVERNMENT PLAN

WILL PRESS LLOYD GEORGE

Proposal Made That King George Appeal to Labor at Coming Congress.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The coal miners, in conference here today, declared themselves in favor of taking a ballot on the question of direct action, and resolved to vote in favor of such ballot at tomorrow's meeting of the Triple Alliance of the transport workers, miners and railway men.

The miners adopted in its entirety the recommendation of the National Executive Committee that the Government scheme for dealing with coal miners be rejected, and decided to agitate for nationalization of the mines at the Trades Union Congress at Glasgow on Sept. 8.

Robert Smillie, the miners' leader, declared that the miners generally were convinced that nationalization of the mines was essential in the interests of national industry and the poorer consumers.

William Brace, Member of Parliament for Monmouthshire and President of the South Wales Miners' Federation, said that "coal is more valuable than gold." He asked why the Government trifled with a product so essential to the reconstruction of the nation, and asserted that the only solution of the problem was the nationalization of the mines.

The National Executive Committee, in recommending that the delegates reject the Government scheme, declared that a strike at this time was not urged to secure adoption of the Sankey report. It asserted, however, that the Trades Union Congress next week at Glasgow would be invited to urge that "the fullest and most effective action shall be taken" to assure the Government's adoption of the Sankey plan for future governance of the industry.

The committee rejected the scheme of Premier Lloyd George, under which the Government would buy out the owners of coal lands who receive royalties from mining companies, give the miners a share in the control of the mines, organize the mines into districts, and establish a fund for improving the living conditions of miners, as "wholly impracticable" and one creating "great trusts."

The coming Trades Union Congress at Glasgow promises to be the largest ever held. Already 848 delegates have been appointed, representing more than 2,225,000 workers.

A suggestion has been made that King George, who is at Balmoral, be invited to attend the opening session, some of the labor leaders believing that a personal appeal from the sovereign to the workers to make a special effort in the national interest would have a great effect.

The Parliamentary Committee of the Congress yesterday considered a request for representation at the International Labor Congress at Washington in October.

It is believed that the controversy between the alternatives of direct action and constitutional agitation will be fought out during the coming fortnight. The belief is expressed generally that the decision will be against direct action.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The decision of the Miners' Federation Conference to support at the meeting of the Triple Alliance a ballot on direct action came as a surprise.

As the miners form the larger part of the Triple Alliance, it seems assured that the alliance will decide in favor of proceeding with the ballot, which is on political issues—to force the Government to withdraw British troops from Russia, to repeal the Military Service acts and to release conscientious objectors.

It is suggested that the intention is to hold the Triple Alliance strike ballot over the head of the trade union congress with a view to persuading it to favor the extreme measures which are still hankered after by the direct action wing.

Justice Sir John Sankey, after considering the question of coal legislation, recommended nationalization of the mines, royalties for the State, and just compensation for the owners. His report proposed the immediate application of local administration of mines through local, district and national mining councils and legislation for acquiring mines after the plan had been worked for three years, with just compensation for the owners.

Germans Resent the Demand to Alter New Constitution

BERLIN, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—The Tägliche Rundschau says today that the demand by the Entente that the German Constitution be altered is hardly calculated to induce the German people to respect their new charter, and warns the Supreme Council of the danger of precipitating a new internal disruption.

The Vossische Zeitung says that a flat refusal is the only possible answer to the demand of the Entente, while the Kreuz-Zeitung remarks that "the amateurs of Weimar must now put up with the constant intervention by the Entente in Germany's internal affairs."

NOTIFY ACTORS TO PREPARE TO WORK

Meanwhile Managers Continue Conferences Looking Toward Strike Settlement.

FAVOR EQUITY RECOGNITION

Call for Meeting of Vaudeville Performers Regarded as a Move to Extend Fight.

Managerial conferences looking toward a settlement of the actors' strike were in progress yesterday all afternoon and evening in the Cohan & Harris offices, but no formal statement was given out.

Conflicting reports came from the conference room, but the preponderance of outside opinion continued to favor an early settlement. Arthur Hopkins denied early in the day that the association was ready to extend recognition to the Actors' Equity Association, but another member of the Managers' Association stated unequivocally that a settlement was imminent on the basis of Equity recognition.

Further indication that a crucial moment has arrived was contained in the fact that the full membership of the association was summoned to yesterday's two meetings. William A. Brady, who has been acting a rôle in "At 9:45," placed an understudy in the part last night so as to be present at the meeting. It was admitted, also, that the managers have conferred with representatives of the stagehands' union.

In the afternoon A. H. Woods, expecting an early settlement, ordered Hazel Dawn to return to Chicago so as to be ready to resume her rôle in "Up in Mabel's Room" in that city. Miss Dawn came to New York when the strike closed the Chicago run of the play.

The managers are going ahead with their plans for the opening and reopening of attractions, but this fact is not in itself proof that a settlement is near, since strikebreakers will be used if an adjustment of the strike is not effected. John Cort announced yesterday that he will offer two musical comedies in New York the week after next—"Just a Minute" at the Knickerbocker Theatre on Sept. 15, and Eddie Leonard in "Roly Boly Eyes" at the Cort Theatre on Sept. 16.

Assuming that there is no settlement of the strike before tomorrow night, interest will centre in the reopening of "The Challenge" at the Selwyn Theatre. The Selwyns announce that the play will positively resume its run "with loyal stagehands," which, it is said, has reference to the Knights of Labor, an organization which has a permanent injunction against the American Federation of Labor, restraining that body from interfering with them.

"Scandals" Not to Reopen.

George White said that his plan is not to resume performances of "Scandals of 1919" at the Liberty Theatre, but that he is preparing a revue for the Century Theatre roof, which probably will be opened some time next week. There, practically no change of scenery will be required, and the musical accompaniment, assuming that the strike is not yet settled, will be supplied by a pianist and a harmonica player.

The Ziegfeld "Follies" are preparing to reopen at the New Amsterdam Theatre next week, and "Friendly Enemies" is scheduled to resume at the Manhattan Opera House probably on Monday night.

Charles C. Shay, head of the stagehands, when asked about the managers' plans to reopen their playhouses whether or not the strike is settled, said merely that such a course would be taken care of when it comes to pass.

Considerable significance is believed to attach to the calling of a public meeting of the vaudeville branch of the Associated Actors and Artists of America, to be held tomorrow night at [illegible] at the Amsterdam Opera House in West Forty-fourth Street. This is the old White Rats organization, which called the vaudeville strike two years ago, and has not held an open meeting for a long period. It is this body with which the Equity affiliated itself when it entered the American Federation of Labor, and the Equity's strike, it is said, has now given assurance to the vaudeville branch.

Although the membership of the White Rats was at one time very low, it is reported that they have been secretly recruiting members for two years, and it is possible that they may be in position to cause trouble for the vaudeville interests. At the United Booking Offices no concern was expressed, as the actors and stage hands, it was said, are

ALLIES WILL ORDER THE RUMANIANS TO QUIT HUNGARY

Ultimatum May Be Delivered by Senator Jonnart, Who Ousted the King of Greece.

LOOT MUST BE GIVEN UP

Payment to be Made to the Entente for What Cannot Be Returned.

COUNCIL THREATENS BREAK

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The Supreme Council today decided to send an ultimatum to the Rumanian Government regarding her course in Hungary.

The ultimatum, couched in drastic terms and with a time limit, will be delivered by an envoy of the Council. Should Rumania refuse to comply with the terms within a given time, diplomatic relations will cease and the allied envoy will bring away with him from Bucharest the allied diplomatic representatives there.

The text of the ultimatum will not be given out until it is delivered to Rumania. It is understood, however, that it will deal mainly with the subject of reparation and the evacuation of Hungary by the Rumanian Army.

With regard to reparation, the Allies, it is indicated, will insist that Rumania recognize that all goods, rolling stock, &c., requisitioned by the Rumanian Army in Hungary must be handed over to the Allies to be distributed among the States having claims against Hungary in a proportion to be assigned by the Peace Conference. Rumania must undertake to pay the Allies for such requisitioned material, foodstuffs, &c., as she is unable to return.

The envoy has not yet been selected, but it is believed he will be a Frenchman. The name of Charles Jonnart, formerly Governor General of Algeria, is mentioned for the mission.

Simultaneously the Rumanian diplomatic representatives in the various allied capitals will be summoned by the Foreign Ministers, who will explain to them the very drastic character of the ultimatum and the extreme gravity of the situation that will arise if Rumania refuses to comply.

Mention of the name of Charles Jonnart in connection with the allied mission to Rumania recalls his eminently successful work in solving a difficult political problem at a crucial period in the European war.

In June, 1917, Senator Jonnart was sent to Greece with plenary powers as representative of the three nations protecting that country, Great Britain, France, and Russia. The course of Greece under King Constantine, with that nation refusing to comply with its treaty obligations toward Serbia and otherwise acting as an obstacle to the carrying out of the Allies' plans in the Balkans, seemed to call for drastic action, and Senator Jonnart was selected as the man to handle the situation.

Within a few days after Senator Jonnart's arrival in Greece the abdication of King Constantine and the succession to the Greek throne of Prince Alexander were announced.

Signatories of London Treaty Said to Have Cabled to the President.

PARIS, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—Satisfaction is expressed in Italian circles at the outcome of Signor Tittoni's trip to Deauville, from which place he returned yesterday after a conference with the British Prime Minister, David Lloyd George.

While no official communication has been given out, it is learned from reliable authority that an agreement has been reached from which a solution of the Italian problem is expected. According to this information the three Governments which are parties to the Treaty of London have decided to send a collective note to President Wilson asking him to give his assent to a compromise which the signatories consider adequate.

Some doubt is expressed, however, as to the probability of President Wilson modifying his attitude on the Adriatic question, but it is said that the compromise opens the way for the President to agree without receding from his former position.

AMERICANS BUYING MARKS.

Frankfurter Zeitung Reports Big Purchases in Neutral Countries.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 3.—The Frankfurter Zeitung says that enormous purchases of marks are being made by Americans in neutral countries and remitted to Berlin banks. The Zeitung is uncertain whether these sums are merely invested in speculation or whether American trade is getting ready to resume business and wishes to have credit in marks, which appears probable, as at some banks Americans credits in marks run into the millions.

Our National Debt Rises to $26,596,701,648

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The United States owed $706,668,111 more at the close of Treasury business Aug. 30 than on the last day of July, making the total national debt $26,596,701,648.

Issuance of additional Treasury certificates in anticipation of forthcoming payments on taxes and the Victory Loan accounted for the large increase.

ALL STATES TO JOIN WAR ON PROFITEERS

PLAN CONCERTED ATTACK

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 3.—The Attorneys General of all the States in the Union are to make an immediate attack on profiteering and living costs. This crusade is to be simultaneous, and the first step will be to obtain uniform State laws, without which no concerted action can be taken. This was decided upon today at the closing session of the twelfth annual gathering of the National Association of Attorneys General.

Clifford L. Hilton, Attorney General of Minnesota, who was again chosen President of the association, was instructed in a resolution to appoint a committee of five which will meet with United States Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer and other Federal officials. Mr. Hilton will name his committee tomorrow, and will call a meeting soon. Meanwhile copies of the resolution are to be sent to Attorneys General all over the country. Suggestions will be sought from all, especially those unable to attend the conference, and in case any State has existing or pending laws that tend to check the profiteering evil these will be sent to the committee for inspection and guidance.

Palmer Also Urged Same Step.

It is a coincidence that when such a committee had been proposed yesterday after the business of the day had ended, and the resolution had been roughly drafted, President Hilton received from Attorney General Palmer a telegram stating that illness would prevent him from visiting Boston to address the association today. The telegram also recommended the appointment of such a committee to confer with the Federal authorities. Attorney General Palmer was to have talked on "legislation as affecting the high cost of living," and the members of the association had agreed to wait until after his address before maping out the course which they are to take.

In fact, today's program was disrupted entirely. John W. McAllister, Attorney General of Missouri, who was to have led the discussion that was to follow Mr. Palmer's talk, telegraphed that the recent death of his father would prevent him from being present.

Accordingly, a Committee on Resolutions, headed by Attorney General E. H. Sturgis of Maine, and a Nominating Committee, headed by Attorney General Dan B. Shields of Utah, went into session. Immediately afterward the election of officers was held and the resolutions adopted. These include a message of thanks to Attorney General Henry A. Wyman of Massachusetts for the courtesies extended the association, and the following resolution regarding the campaign against profiteering:

> Resolved, By the National Association of Attorneys General at its twelfth annual session in Boston, Mass., this third day of September, 1919, that the incoming President be instructed to appoint a special interim committee of five, of which he shall be a member and ex officio its Chairman, to propose uniform legislation for the purpose of preventing the taking of extortionate and unreasonable profits in the sale and furnishing of food, clothing and other necessities of life; the curbing of profiteering and the effecting of a general reduction of the high cost of living.
>
> That said committee meet at the call of its Chairman as soon as advisable at some convenient city, to take up its labors and, if found expedient, meet with the United States Attorney General at Washington, D. C., for the purpose of working out plans for co-operation along the lines indicated between the State and Federal authorities.
>
> That a full report of this committee's activities, together with copies of the proposed legislation, be sent to the Attorney General of each State.
>
> That the Executive Committee be instructed to pay from the association's funds such sums as it deems necessary for postage and stenographic services required by such special interim committee.

List of New Officers.

The officers elected are: President, Clifford L. Hilton, Attorney General of Minnesota; Vice President, G. H. Sturgis, Attorney General of Maine; Secretary and Treasurer, J. Q. Smith, Attorney General of Alabama; Executive Committee, Attorney General Dan B. Shields of Utah, Attorney General Oscar L. Young of New Hampshire, Attorney General Charles D. Newon of New York.

Attorney General Palmer's suggestion, embodied in his telegram, was:

> Perhaps your association might name a committee to confer with us at Washington with the purpose of working out plans for co-operation. And if such plans could be evolved, the committee could report back to the several States so that close team work could be maintained between Federal and State authorities.

At present some States have anti-trust laws; some have legislation that controls cold storage houses; others have laws dealing with unlawful combinations, &c. It is planned by the Attorneys General to make every effort to have passed laws that will be the same in every State, and thus enable them to take concerted action against those who are keeping prices up.

SENATE TACTICS ASSAILED

Republican Criticism of Fight Against Treaty Grows.

SEE LACK OF LEADERSHIP

Belief That Wilson Appeal Is Likely to Have a Marked Effect.

WATCHING PARTY LINEUP

Fear Expressed by Chiefs That Chances for 1920 Will Be Impaired.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—With President Wilson's departure tonight on a tour of the country in the interests of the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations covenant, the contest between the President and the Senatorial group which seeks to complicate the work done by the allied peace delegations in Paris assumes a more acute phase. The Senate has had the first innings; it is now the President's opportunity to test the sentiment of the country with reference to treaty and covenant.

One striking feature of the situation presented by the opposition in the Senate is the concern that is being manifested by Republicans over the political effect of this opposition. In the minds of many of them there is doubt as to the wisdom of the course that Republican Senators are pursuing.

Among these there is no disposition to show sympathy for the President. Very generally they hold the opinion that he has been tactless in his attitude toward Republican Senators and it is a common expression that if he had shown a desire to accord to the Senate superior rights to participation in the preparation of the treaty and the covenant he would have had easy sailing in his present effort to have the treaty ratified without change. But there is no way of remedying the past and among a good many Republicans who have the interest of both their party and their country at heart the feeling is growing, if expressions heard here are any criterion of general opinion in the party outside the opposition group in the Senate, that the situation in the world at large demands that the Versailles convention, League covenant included, should be ratified without change in the shortest possible time.

See Opportunity for Wilson.

Agreement seems to be general in Democratic as well as Republican quarters that as matters now stand the treaty cannot be ratified unless the ratifying resolution embraces, at the very least, interpretative reservations. Yet among some whose opinion is entitled to consideration it is conceded that President Wilson may succeed in convincing a large portion of the American people that the demands of Republican Senators for changes in the treaty or even qualifying interpretations are the outcome either of bad judgment or intensive partisanship and in reality are not based on sound principles or justified by reason of actual danger to American interests.

It seems to be well within the facts to say that a considerable number of political observers in Washington, and this number includes many Republicans, are obtaining the impression that the American people are becoming tired of the character of the treaty opposition in the Senate and find cause on that account to show a certain amount of sympathy for President Wilson which would not have been manifested if the opposition had appeared to be based more on patriotic considerations than on personal dislike born largely of the manner in which the President had disregarded the Senate in the drafting of treaty and covenant.

Up to this time the Senate had made the news concerning the treaty. The opposition has taken an aggressive position and in consequence of its attitude has had the benefit of getting its case before the country in Washington dispatches, displayed under large headlines. This display was a natural consequence of the situation.

Shifts Alignment of Debate.

The defenders of the treaty had little opportunity to make their position clear or else have failed to take the best advantage of that opportunity when it was presented. The tables have now been turned, according to views expressed here. President Wilson will hold the centre of the stage during his swing around the circle and those who hear him and the immensely greater number who read what he says, will be better able to understand his contention that the good of the world demands the ratification of the treaty and the covenant without change.

However much capital the treaty opponents may seek to make out of the statement of the President that he was not opposed to reasonable interpretations by the Senate, if they were contained in a resolution separated from the treaty itself, the fact remains that the President believes that interpreta-

Republicans of Committee Fix on 4 Reservations; That on Article X. Not Acceptable to 'Mild' Group

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Republican members of the Foreign Relations Committee met late today and came to a virtual agreement upon four principal reservations to the Peace Treaty. These cover Article X., touching upon the guarantee of territorial integrity of nations in the League; the Monroe Doctrine, the matter of purely domestic questions, such as tariff and immigration, and the right to withdraw from the League.

The majority reservation upon Article X. is understood to follow the proposal of Elihu Root, which would mean its elimination from the treaty. This would go further than the reservation proposed by the so-called "mild reservationists," who would merely stipulate that participation of American forces in any foreign war should be dependent upon action of Congress. They oppose striking the provision from the treaty.

The Republican majority will reach a final vote on their reservations not later than Friday, it was said today. If this is done, the treaty will be reported to the Senate on Saturday. Efforts are under way by the "mild reservationists" to have reservations kept within bound so that they can support them in the Senate. If this fails, the "mild reservationists" will have reservations of their own and fight for them on the Senate floor.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—The tentative reservation on Article X., said to have been drawn by Senators demanding "strong" reservations, is understood to declare emphatically that the United States will "not" and "refuses" to undertake the obligation of territorial guarantees in advance of specific action by Congress, as required by the Constitution. Those favoring a more moderate reservation are said to be urging instead that it declare the limitations of Congress under the Constitution without making blunt denials.

Three reservations on which the radical and moderate Republican groups are said to have reached an agreement propose that the United States shall be the sole interpreter of the Monroe Doctrine, shall decide all domestic policies without intervention by the League, and shall be privileged to withdraw from the League upon deciding, without judgment of the League, that national obligations have been fulfilled.

HITCHCOCK ASSAILS KNOX ON TREATY

RATIFICATION A NECESSITY

Amendments Would Involve United States in Enormous Losses and Great Dangers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—In a speech in the Senate today, which preceded his call at the White House to see the President, Senator Hitchcock said:

"I want to impress upon Senators these two facts:

"First, that any amendment means to kill this treaty, as far as the United States is concerned; and

"Second, that such an act will involve the United States in enormous losses and great dangers.

"Suppose the Senate should vote in favor of the Shantung amendment or any other. What would happen? Either the President would refuse to go further with the treaty and put it in one of the pigeonholes of the State Department occupied by other treaties that have been abandoned, or he would submit the amendment to the nations associated with the United States in the war for consideration.

"Let us suppose for argument that he submitted the amendment to the other nations associated with the United States. What would they do with it? Does any one believe that they would accept it? Does any one believe that Great Britain, which has already ratified the treaty and which is under a pledge to Japan with regard to Shantung, would accept this amendment? Does any one think that France, which is soon to ratify the treaty and which is also under a pledge to Japan with regard to Shantung, would ratify this change? Does anyone suppose that Japan herself would submit to this humiliation before the eyes of the world?

"I cannot conceive that any intelligent and candid man would assume any such thing as a possibility. Japan is now in control of the German rights and possessions in Shantung. She acquired them by war at the invitation of Great Britain, France, and Italy, and holds them under treaties exacted from China and negotiated with Great Britain, France, and Italy. She has held them for five years, and it is preposterous to assume that Japan would knuckle down to a majority of the United States Senate in this matter just as it is preposterous to assume that France, Great Britain, or Italy would ask her to do so.

Position of the United States.

"It is therefore evident that if such a proposition were submitted to the nations associated with us in this war it would be met by instant refusal to accept the amendment, and then where would the United States find itself in this international settlement? The answer is obvious. We would find ourselves out in the cold, isolated from the rest of the world. The work of ratify-

WILSON HAS NEW PLAN FOR THRACE

Involves Its Incorporation with the Area Surrounding Constantinople.

UNDER INTERNATIONAL RULE

Greece to be Conciliated by Representation on the Governing Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Facts obtained today fully bear out the statement made in a special cablegram printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning to the effect that the settlement of the Thracian problem is farther off than ever before.

President Wilson, who has been opposed to giving Eastern or Western Thrace to Greece, has proposed to the Peace Conference the creation of a State which would not only embrace Constantinople and the surrounding territory but also include both Eastern and Western Thrace. France and England are opposed to the creation of such an international State if it means that either one or the other is to receive a mandate over it and are understood to have insisted that if such a State were created the United States should act as mandatary over it. President Wilson has been unable to give any assurances to the British and French Governments that the United States would take such a course, not only because the Senate has not acted finally on the Versailles treaty, but also because he has learned that there would be considerable opposition in the Senate to an American mandate for Constantinople.

Efforts have been made in the Supreme Council to find some sort of common ground for an agreement between this country, England, France, and Greece over the Thracian question. The objections raised by England and France were of such a character that they could not well be challenged by the American representatives in Paris. Greece, of course, has wanted both Eastern and Western Thrace annexed to Greece and has been opposed to setting up an international State such as was originally proposed by President Wilson. Greece, however, was on the verge of agreeing to such a settlement of the Thracian question as would have given Eastern Thrace to Greece and internationalize Western Thrace, which was wanted by Bulgaria.

The compromise plan now being considered contemplates meeting the objections of England, France, and Greece by setting up an international commission Government to take over the control of a State of Constantinople, which would include Eastern and Western Thrace. It is understood to be the idea that France, England, Greece, the United States, and perhaps other nations would be represented on this international commission, and that the scheme of government combine some of the features of the Danzig and Sarre Basin arrangement, as well as of the proposed Fiume settlement.

The plan, if accepted as now proposed, would have the Government adapted to

President Settles Some Dates of West Coast Engagements

ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Sept. 3.—President Wilson definitely decided tonight that his review of the Pacific Fleet at Seattle, about which uncertainty had arisen, should take place at 3 P. M. on Sept. 13. This arrangement will give him two days at San Francisco, Sept. 17 and 18, as originally planned.

Uncertainty regarding arrangements on the Pacific Coast had led the President to consider postponing the review until Sept. 15, and cutting a day from the stop in San Francisco.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—President Wilson left Washington tonight for his nation-wide speaking tour in behalf of the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations.

Accompanying him were Mrs. Wilson, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, his physician; Joseph P. Tumulty, his private secretary; Thomas W. Braheny, chief clerk at the White House; Charles L. Swem, the President's personal stenographer; a staff of Secret Service men, twenty newspaper men, and photographers.

The President appeared to be in excellent health. He arrived at his private car shortly before 7 P. M., the hour of departure, and laughed and joked with Bernard M. Baruch, Raymond T. Baker, Director of the Mint, and Norman Davis of New York, one of the economic advisers of the Peace Commission in Paris.

The President wore a straw hat, a blue coat, white trousers, and white shoes. Mrs. Wilson wore a blue silk traveling dress with a small, close-fitting hat.

The special train on which the President left for Columbus, Ohio, the first stop, is perhaps the most elaborate ever provided for a Presidential tour. For the first time an "office car," in which much of the White House business will be carried on en route, was attached. Each of the twenty newspaper men was provided with a compartment. Representatives of telegraph companies were also on board in order to arrange wire facilities at the stopping places.

The Secret Service men, under Joseph Murphy, occupied a car next to that of the President. The staff is practically the same as that which accompanied Mr. Wilson on his trips abroad.

Cheered by Crowd at Station.

When Mr. and Mrs. Wilson arrived at Union Station a crowd was gathered in the concourse. As the President walked through from his official room in the station there were outbursts of cheers and handclapping. He walked directly to the train.

Before the special left the station the regular 7 o'clock Pennsylvania Railroad train started. Without any flurry the special left immediately behind, running as a second section under white flags. All across the continent the train will either run as a second section or will be preceded by a pilot engine.

The President has not prepared his addresses in advance because of the mass of other business at the White House. He will be kept in touch with happenings in Washington, and particularly at the White House, and will make his own shorthand notes from time to time. Some of these notes he will make the bases for propared speeches which he will dictate. In other cases the President will speak extemporaneously from his notes.

More newspaper men accompanied the President than have ever made a Presidential tour. There were also representatives of four motion-picture concerns on board the special.

Confers on Treaty With Hitchcock.

Shortly before starting on his tour President Wilson talked for an hour at the White House with Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, acting minority leader of the upper house, on the treaty situation in the Senate, once more expressing the hope that the treaty would be ratified without any change that would involve its reconsideration by the Paris Conference. The President told Mr. Hitchcock that in his speeches he intended to emphasize the point that if amendments or drastic reservations were made to the treaty, it would open the way for interminable debate among the allied powers.

In the end, the President said, the Allies undoubtedly would reject changes that appreciably amended the treaty, this resulting in the United States being put outside of participation in it, and forcing this country to make an independent peace with Germany.

President Wilson spoke of the United States being "isolated from the rest of the world" if it held aloof from ratifying the treaty and aiding in the task of world readjustment.

Senator Hitchcock outlined the Senate situation as encouraging from the Administration viewpoint. He assured the President that all amendments would be defeated by the Democratic Senators, reinforced by appreciable support from Republican Senators who do not want the treaty put in jeopardy. Rather than vote for amendments that would necessitate recommitting the treaty to the Paris Conference, Mr. Hitchcock said, a group of Republicans would vote against them.

As to reservations, Mr. Hitchcock said he believed that any which assumed the form of changes requiring the reopening of the treaty negotiations would be beaten.

Confident That Fight Will Be Won.

"The President expressed satisfaction with the situation in the Senate," said Mr. Hitchcock after the conference. "He believes that the much-discussed amendments will be defeated and that no reservations approaching the character of amendments will be adopted. The President goes away satisfied that the fight for ratification will be won."

Mr. Wilson told Senator Hitchcock that he would discuss the treaty in his speeches with relation to economic problems, including the labor situation and the high cost of living. He would tell his audiences, the President said, that the practical solution of America's home problems rested upon speedy ratification of the treaty, and with it, the beginning of a concerted effort throughout the world to readjust chaotic conditions brought about by the war.

Senator Hitchcock quoted the President as satisfied that the attempt of majority leaders to put through a program of drastic reservations and amendments had brought the treaty issue squarely before the public. The fight, the President said, ought to be carried on along the line, with the friends of the treaty insisting upon ratification without change.

The President felt, Mr. Hitchcock said, that the country wanted the treaty ratified at once, and that there was a strong sentiment for accepting the League of Nations, along with the rest of it.

Firm Stand on Shantung.

Mr. Wilson denounced the Shantung amendment as threatening the treaty. If adopted by the Senate, he said, it would be rejected by the allied powers, and the United States would find itself out of the treaty.

"How about interpretative reservations?" Mr. Hitchcock was asked.

"The President did not speak of them," replied Mr. Hitchcock. "He wants the fight to be made on ratification of the treaty without reservations of any character."

The move of Irish-Americans to have Irish independence recognized in the treaty was taken up at the conference, Mr. Hitchcock said, the Senator expressing his own opinion to the President that Irish "agitators" were back of it. Mr. Hitchcock believed, he said, that the "intelligent Irish" in America, as he put it, were not in sympathy with American interference with the British-Irish controversy. What attitude the President expressed Mr. Hitchcock did not reveal, but the President intimated that he would discuss the Irish question on the trip.

Cities on Speech Making List.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson's tour will carry him as far West as the Pacific coast, almost to the Canadian border on the north and almost to Mexico on the south. He will speak in every State west of the Mississippi except four, and will make up for the omission of these by speeches in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and Tennessee.

In point of distance covered the tour will be almost on a par with the President's trip to France and return. The members of his party expect it to be much more strenuous because of its continuity and the long, fast rides through the West.

Although the detailed schedule was held in confidence in the interest of the safety of the Presidential train, it is understood that most of the stops will be for only three or four hours. In Des Moines, Seattle, Los Angeles, and Louisville, however, where Sunday stops are to be made, the President will have opportunity for brief respites. In Seattle he will review the Pacific fleet.

The speech-making schedule is a vigorous one from the start. After his address at Columbus tomorrow Mr. Wilson will go to Indianapolis in time for an evening mass meeting. Then he will continue westward, with short stops at St. Louis and Kansas City, reaching Des Moines Saturday for the week-end.

The following week will take him far into the Northwest, with speeches at Omaha, Sioux Falls, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Bismarck, Billings, Helena, Coeur d'Alene, Spokane, Tacoma, and Seattle. After that will come stops at Portland, San Francisco, San Diego, Los Angeles, Reno, Salt Lake City, Cheyenne, Denver, Pueblo, Wichita, Oklahoma City, Little Rock, Memphis, and Louisville. The return to Washington will be on Sept. 30.

Long Trip in Northwest.

In addition to the scheduled addresses Mr. Wilson is expected to make some shorter speeches from his train at intermediate stops. It has been pointed out that much of his itinerary lies through parts of the Northwest, where labor and social unrest has been pronounced. After the manner in which he went to the country for his preparedness measures, his advisers say he is ready to make now the fight of his political life, if necessary, for the Peace Treaty.

Senator Hitchcock told the President today that the plans of Republicans to follow the Executive on his trip and reply to his speeches had been abandoned because, Senator Hitchcock said, he understood that "important influences in the Republican party had killed the plan."

WANTS SENATE TRAILERS PAID

Newton Asks $15,000 Appropriation for Anti-League Speakers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—On the eve of President Wilson's departure for the West to speak in favor of the League of Nations, Representative Newton of Missouri, Republican, today proposed a joint resolution providing that $15,000 be appropriated to defray the expenses of those Senators who wish to "trail" the President in opposition to the League.

The resolution reads:

"Whereas, There is now pending in the Senate of the United States a treaty which contains therein a covenant providing for a League of Nations to be comprised of various nations of the earth and to become a super-State, of which it is proposed that this nation shall be a member; and

"Whereas, In the judgment of some of the ablest Senators now in the Senate, as well as in the judgment of many other able and patriotic American citizens, the covenant of the League of Nations, as now proposed and pending before the Senate, means the surrender by this country of national sovereignty and independence into the hands of such super-State, in which this nation would have a small minority vote, and

"Whereas, A change so radical in our national life and so unprecedented in our history is of vital concern to every American citizen, and to generations yet to come, and

"Whereas, The President of the United States has entered upon a tour extending twice across the continent, advocating the adoption of such covenant, in order that he may be able to convert the American people to his views, and with the apparent purpose of inducing them to demand of their Senators that they ratify and adopt such covenant and bind this nation as a part of such super-State, and

"Whereas, In order to be fair to the Senate of the United States and to enable the people of the United States to judge intelligently and impartially the great problems involved in such proposed League covenant, it is necessary for the people to hear all of the arguments, both for and against such covenant; and

"Whereas, The President's expenses upon such tour are being defrayed out of an annual traveling fund of $25,000 appropriated by Congress out of the Treasury of the United States; and

"Whereas, No funds are available from any appropriations heretofore made out of which to defray the traveling expenses of those Senators of the United States who believe that national sovereignty is seriously endangered in the proposed League covenant; and

"Whereas, Public policy and the best interests of the nation demand that the people should hear the views of Senators who believe that national sovereignty is endangered in the provisions of such League covenant before they conclude to urge its adoption by the Senate of the United States, therefore be it

"Resolved, By the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring therein, that the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States be and he is hereby authorized and directed to pay out of any moneys in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated the sum of $15,000 to defray the expenses of Senators who are opposed to the provisions of the proposed League covenant while such Senators are traveling and appearing before the American people to discuss such covenant and point out those features of such covenant which, in their judgment, would endanger American sovereignty and independence."

FRENCH DEPUTY URGES REJECTION OF TREATY

Franklin-Bouillon, Radical Socialist, the First to Pledge His Vote Against It.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—Deputy Franklin-Bouillon, the fourteenth speaker in the debate in the Chamber of Deputies on ratification of the German Peace Treaty, declared today that he would vote against the treaty. He is the first member of the Chamber to make known his determination to vote adversely on the document.

M. Franklin-Bouillon expressed doubt of the efficacy of America's intervention, saying that such intervention would be subordinate to the approval of Congress.

"The violation of the neutrality of Belgium," he continued, "was a most flagrant crime against humanity, yet three years were needed before America intervened."

He ridiculed France's position in the League of Nations "on terms of equality with Panama and Cuba."

The Deputy said he was deeply concerned over France's financial situation, as France remained with a debt of 350,000,000,000 francs.

"Will America, which profited one hundred billion in the first three years of the war," he asked, "leave France crushed under the load of its victory?"

Louis Barthou, Chairman of the Peace Ratification Committee of the Chamber, took up the military terms of the treaty today. He said moral strength was insufficient to enforce peace; there must be collective and organized force.

President Wilson, he said, changed his attitude after January, 1917, when he advocated the creation of such a superior force that no nation would be able to attack or resist it. At the Peace Conference, however, M. Barthou added, President Wilson laid down only general principles and proposed vague methods.

M. Barthou insisted upon the necessity of exacting reparations for cruelties perpetrated by Germans in countries occupied by them during the war. He demanded that rigid execution of the treaty be required. The treaty as a whole, he added, contained measures satisfactory to France in the matter of financial reparations, but he said that the document was lacking in clearness. He announced that he would vote for ratification.

Deputy Henry Franklin-Bouillon is President of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Deputies. He is a Radical and was elected to the Chamber from the Department of Seine-et-Oise.

In March last M. Franklin-Bouillon in a vigorous speech in the Chamber of Deputies said that the right bank of the Rhine must not belong to Prussia. He charged that because of the silence of the Government and the laxness of its methods Germany was beginning to raise her head. He also attacked the Government's Russian policy as weak and uncertain.

At a meeting of the Radical Socialist group in July, Deputy Franklin-Bouillon violently assailed the Ministry, declaring that the Cabinet ought not to be allowed to preside over the forthcoming election, and that the Radical Socialist Party should endeavor to overthrow the Government.

CZECHOSLOVAK DAY AT SENATE HEARING

ALAND ISLANDS ALSO UP

Inhabitants Want to Go to Sweden, Not to Finland, the Committee Is Told.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Czechoslovakia's side of the quarrel with the Magyars of Hungary was given to the Foreign Relations Committee today, as a sequel to yesterday's plea by the Hungarians. The Czechoslovak representatives were as insistent that Hungary should be partitioned as were the Magyar representatives that it should not be.

Edward Vaczy of Brooklyn, representing the Slovak League and the Bohemian National Alliance, told the committee that he and his compatriots spoke for the 1,600,000 Czechs and Slovaks in the United States.

In their behalf, as well as for those in Hungary, Mr. Vaczy said, the committee ought to know that the Magyar claims presented yesterday were misleading. They were as misleading, he said, as a recent full page advertisement which appeared in New York Sunday newspapers at a cost, Mr. Vaczy estimated, of $6,500.

"Where is this large sum of money coming from?" he asked. "This is a very serious question. Are the purse-strings of Bela Kun loosed, and is this money coming from there, or perhaps from the millionaire Magyar lords? Propaganda as extensive as it is false is being used to advance the claims of these who falsely call themselves Hungarians. They are Magyars.

"While the Czechs and Slovaks in the United States were raising a force of 3,500 men to fight the Central Powers, what were the Magyars here doing? They were fomenting strikes, and seeking to hinder the Entente's war work. You remember Dr. Dumba, the gentleman to whom we bade a fond farewell as Austrian Ambassador? He was a Magyar."

Ven Svarc of Cleveland, representing the same organizations, told the committee that the Magyars themselves had compiled statistics showing that Upper Hungary was populated almost entirely by Slovaks, and that, therefore, the Magyars admitted the justice of Slovakia's claims to that section of the country. "The partition which has been agreed on is just and fair to all the people represented, including the Hungarians inhabiting the Danubian plain," Mr. Svarc said.

He told how, on a recent trip into Czechoslovakia, he had obtained fresh evidence of the Magyar determination to force all the other nations living in Hungarian borders to become Magyar.

"The Magyars," he said, "are trying to force upon 12,000,000 people the language, customs, art, and national characteristics of their 8,000,000. They have not succeeded. The Magyars claim they were in the country originally, and that the Czechs and Slovaks came in later. The Magyars themselves are foreigners in the country, having arrived no earlier than the tenth century. They have no proper claim to being the aborigines, therefore."

Mr. Vaczy announced to the committee before leaving that he wished to "serve notice on the Magyars in the United States that we intend to prosecute those responsible for their vicious propaganda and drive them entirely from these shores."

The Aland Island question was presented to the committee briefly by Alexander J. Johnson of Chicago, a native of Sweden, but now an American citizen. Mr. Johnson declared that the Peace Treaty did not recognize the right of the Alandese to determine under whose sovereignty they should live. They are all Swedish, he said, and naturally wish to belong to Sweden rather than to Finland.

"In the hands of a peace-loving nation like Sweden, the Aland Islands would be a much greater guarantee of peace than if given to Finland, whose history as an independent nation is an unwritten page," said Mr. Johnson.

He pointed out the strategic importance of the islands, which dominate Stockholm. Properly fortified, they would menace that city's security, if held by a hostile power, he said, though he did not know that Sweden had advanced that at the Peace Conference as a reason for awarding the islands to her. He asked the committee to pass a resolution expressing the hope that the Aland Islands would be given the right to vote on their future.

tions are not only unnecessary but are dangerous, and will seek to have the people of the country set their faces against any changes that the Senate critics desire to make.

Wide difference of opinion exists in Washington as to whether the country is interested in the details of points made in the Senate criticism of the treaty and covenant provisions. Some of those who have been studying the political situation contend that people generally are well educated in the intricacies of the opposing contentions. Others hold that most of the people have merely a passive interest in the controversy and that the greater number of them wish to have the treaty and covenant ratified quickly and peace formally proclaimed. Reports from different localities show conflicting estimates of public sentiment.

In Kansas and Western Missouri, for example, opinion is said to be drifting steadily toward resentment over the character of the Senate opposition and a growing desire to have the treaty ratified without delay is supposed to exist there. In the rest of Missouri, it is held, opposition to the treaty and covenant is becoming more marked.

In this connection the allegation is being made by Democrats that some of the Republican opponents of the treaty and covenant are delaying action in the belief that each day strengthens the position of the critics in the public mind. It is not doubted here that President Wilson will ask some pertinent questions on his intercontinental tour as to why the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations is taking such a long time in its consideration of the treaty's terms prior to reporting it to the Senate.

The group in the Senate that insists upon changes that would send the treaty back to the signatory nations for amendment, that refuses to listen to the plea that the world will not be restored to normal until the Versailles covenant is put into effect, is giving much concern to Republican well-wishers. There can be no doubt that a widespread belief exists that the Republican Party has every reason to expect victory in next year's Presidential and Congressional elections. But manifestations of uneasiness over the course of the uncompromising group of Republican Senators are becoming apparent.

Some political observers are convinced that political capital cannot be made of undoing the work of President Wilson and the other treaty makers in Paris, no matter how imperfect that work may appear to be. They think that the wiser policy to follow is to leave well enough alone, being satisfied that Republican success is assured without making an issue of international affairs.

In opposition to portions of the treaty and covenant they see danger to the party's success. They fear that the people of the country will become disgusted in the belief that rather cheap politics is being played by men who have been represented to be leaders of statesmanlike qualities and that it may be worth while to look into the matter of whether it is well to intrust the government of the nation to them.

The lack of leadership in the Senate is a cause of concern to many Republicans. They feel that the opposition to the treaty and covenant has been badly handled. They are intimating that some of the most prominent Republican Senators are seeing red in their personal hatred of the President and cannot visualize the impression which their course is making or likely to make upon the voting population.

This lack of leadership is becoming recognized even in the Senate. One Republican Senator, a member of the so-called Progressive element, which sought to prevent the selection of Penrose of Pennsylvania as Chairman of the Committee of Finance, indicated his apprehension when he said to a friend from Pennsylvania: "Can't something be done to bring Penrose back here to take charge of the Republican side of the Senate?" But Senator Penrose is credited with taking the position that the Republican members of the Committee on Foreign Relations should attend to their own knitting; his function as Senate leader is apparently to be confined to handling domestic questions.

The effect produced by President Wilson's speeches undoubtedly will find reflection in the Senate. If the President appears to be rousing the American people to a realization of their international obligations and convincing them that opposition to the treaty and the covenant by Republican Senators is a detriment to the effort made in Paris to provide a means of maintaining a permanent peace, those Senators whose opposition to certain provisions of these documents is of a mild character may find that their apprehension over dangers to American interests likely to arise from the ratification of these provisions is not well-founded.

So intense, however, is the feeling of the small group of uncompromising opponents of the President, that it is doubted that they will be able to realize the temper of the American people even if it is displayed in strong resentment over their course. They are daily showing unmistakable signs that their usually good judgment is warped in anything that pertains to President Wilson's work in Paris.

ing the treaty would proceed without us, and within a period of a few weeks after France and Japan had ratified the treaty it would be in working order; it would become an established settlement, and operations under it would be commenced. The treaty itself provides that when three nations in addition to Germany have signed it, it shall go into effect. The machinery it creates would be set in motion, and the United States would be left high and dry, without any settlement with Germany.

"It is easy for one to see the enormous benefit which Great Britain and France will derive from this treaty. I think no one will dispute that those two nations at least will do nothing to imperil it. They will not take any chances. Japan is in a more independent, possibly a more indifferent, position, but it is preposterous to suppose that Japan will either delay the ratification of this treaty or yield up the provisions relating to Shantung which this treaty contains. I think, therefore, the result is beyond all question that these three countries at least will put the treaty into operation at the earliest possible date.

"What, then, will the United States do? What will those American statesmen propose who stand for this method of killing the treaty? Some of them will say that Congress can pass a joint resolution declaring a state of peace with Germany. Others say the United States can negotiate a separate and independent treaty of peace with Germany. Those who talk this way evidently have no conception of the enormous benefits and advantages which the United States derives from this treaty, which we wrung from Germany at the cannon's mouth. Neither have they any conception of the difficulties involved in negotiating a new treaty with Germany to establish the terms of peace and settle the controversies of the war.

"Take the mere matter of responsibility for the damages caused by the war. In Article 231 of this treaty Germany is compelled to accept full responsibility for all damage and loss which the associated and allied governments signing the treaty, or their nationals, have suffered. That is an acknowledgment of tremendous importance, not only to France and Great Britain, but in a lesser degree to the United States.

"Does any one think if we undertook to negotiate a treaty with Germany separate from the other treaty Germany would make any such concessions to the United States? Does any one think Germany would be willing to tell the United States that she accepts responsibility for the war so far as the United States is concerned? Germany might very well under such conditions say to the United States that she had not declared war with the United States; that she had never declared war on the United States; that it was the United States which forced war upon her; and she might very well claim that the United States and not Germany should be responsible for the damages of the war.

"As long as we remain a party to this treaty we get the benefit of that acknowledgment which Germany was forced to make under compulsion, but if we cease to be a party to the treaty, as we will if we insist on amending it, we lose the benefit of that acknowledgment and we will be forced to discuss with Germany, perhaps for fifty years, the question of responsibility for war damages and war losses.

What This Country Would Lose.

"Under this treaty the United States acquired from Germany in shipping more than we lost in the war. Does any one suppose that Germany will voluntarily agree to make that concession to us if we fail to hold our rights by remaining a party to the treaty?

"Again, take the matter of private property owned by German nationals in the United States when the war broke out. Under acts of Congress that property was seized, much of it has been sold and liquidated. In the aggregate its value runs into hundreds of millions of dollars, or not less than $750,000,000, and possibly over one thousand million dollars. Under this treaty all acts of the United States and of the Alien Property Custodian, with regard to that property, are validated, unless Germany can show actual fraud. Is any one insane enough to suppose that Germany will voluntarily make that concession to us if we lose the hold upon her which this treaty gives?"

Senator Hitchcock pointed out that if the treaty were defeated the United States would have no representative upon the Reparations Commission, which is vested with broad powers involving the payment of indemnities imposed upon Germany. To a large extent, he said, this commission would control the imports and exports of textiles, cotton, dye stuffs, and other commodities between Germany and other nations.

"To my mind it would be suicidal for the United States to throw away the advantages and benefits provided in this treaty," Senator Hitchcock continued. "It would be disastrous commercially and financially. It would put us at an enormous disadvantage in our international relations, not only with Germany, but with those nations which we would thus desert. They would remain bound together by ties of mutual interest. They would enjoy the benefits of the treaty and would not be slow to take every advantage of them. They would resent our desertion."

After saying that the Republican majority on the Foreign Relations Committee was intent on adopting "killing amendments" the effect of which would be to kill the treaty, Mr. Hitchcock declared that Senator Knox had gone further than any one else in the Senate in urging that the "entire treaty" be rejected out of hand.

"To say that he has amazed the country is to put it mildly—he has shocked the country," said Mr. Hitchcock. "Strangely enough, after months of time and a number of speeches in which his attack on the treaty has been on account of Article 1, which contains the League of Nations, he now takes a new position. He formerly favored taking the League of Nations out of the treaty and ratifying the peace settlement with Germany. Now he suddenly changes front, declaring in favor of deserting the nations associated with us in the war and advocating an unconditional peace or a negotiated peace with Germany.

"What has become of the high professions of last year? Last October, when Germany sought terms for an armistice, what were the utterances in this Chamber and outside by Senators now seeking to kill this treaty and to abandon the nations associated with us in this war? They could not talk long enough nor loud enough in warnings to the President. They shouted for unconditional surrender. They demanded terms of peace dictated to Germany. They protested against a negotiated peace. They insisted that the United States should to the last maintain the closest co-operation with the allied Governments. They said it would be a breach of faith on our part if we failed to stand by Poland and other nations to be formed as the result of the war. They declared for retributive and punitive justice against Germany. They promised that the United States and the allied nations would tell Germany the terms on which she could have peace.

"They said this and much more, because they assumed that President Wilson was disposed to be too easy on Germany.

Complete Change of Front.

"Now, what a change! The treaty has been negotiated. Germany has signed it. Germany has ratified it. Great Britain and Belgium have done the same. France, Italy, and Japan will do so in rapid succession. The treaty dictates the terms of peace to Germany just as these Senators demaded it should. It forces Germany to assume full responsibility for the war and pay to the limit of her capacity for the damage done. It requires her to cede conquered territory and to recognize Poland and other new nations.

"Instead of supporting this treaty the same Senators who insisted on a 'dictated' peace now propose to abandon it and negotiate a peace settlement on terms acceptable to Germany.

"Instead of ratifying this joint treaty agreed to between the nations associated with us in the war it is now suggested that we desert our associates and negotiate a separate treaty.

"Instead of uniting with friendly nations to make permanent and secure the fruits of victory it is proposed that we adopt a policy of quit and scuttle.

"Instead of standing in good faith back of Poland and other reconstructed nations as we promised, it is proposed that we repudiate our obligations and like cravens leave them to be performed by the nations lately associated with us.

"Was there ever a more insane international policy proposed? In the mixture of poltroonery and folly it is difficult to see which predominates.

"The Senator from Pennsylvania (Mr. Knox) goes the limit. He not only proposes that we desert our friends and abandon our obligations, but he suggests that we release Germany from all promises of indemnities and reparations. Why not go further and propose that we compensate Germany? That would be a still stronger appeal to German sentiment."

Treaty Ratified by New Zealand.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Sept. 2.—The peace treaty with Germany was unanimously ratified today by Parliament, after members of the Labor Party had criticised its terms.

SAYS PEOPLE WANT TREATY RATIFIED

W. R. Boyd, Jr., Declares 85 Per Cent. of Voters Favor the League Covenant.

SEES IMPATIENCE GROWING

Tells League to Enforce Peace That Business Men Are Anxious for Settlement.

If the question were submitted to a popular referendum, 85 per cent. of the American people would vote to ratify the peace treaty, including the League of Nations covenant, without amendment or substantial reservation, William R. Boyd, Jr., national campaign manager of the League to Enforce Peace, told that organization in a special report he submitted yesterday.

He based his conclusion on personal investigation in fifteen States and on reports from league representatives in every State in the Union.

"The position of the irreconcilables in the Senate—Borah, Johnson, Fall, Poindexter, Brandegee, Reed, Knox and Sherman"—he said, "is nowhere supported by public sentiment. They have no substantial following in either of the political parties. The consensus is that the men comprising this small group are blindly partisan and are digging their own political graves.

"I have held conferences with men and women in groups and singly in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Utah, California, and New Mexico. I. T. Jones, assistant campaign manager of the League to Enforce Peace, has been engaged for several weeks in a like manner in Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, and Nebraska. Other representatives of the League have traveled through New Jersey, Delaware, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and New York. Reports are coming in by mail regularly from all the forty-eight States.

Sees Women for the League.

"For ratification of the League covenant there is a substantial unanimity among women, church people of all denominations, educators, laboring men, and farmers. These groups among our citizens cannot conceive that the Senate will reject the treaty in whole or in part, and if such a thing should happen, those responsible for it would likely suffer retirement to the quiet of civil life.

"Among business men there is an ever-growing impatience over the postponement of ratification. The general feeling seems to be that the treaty is going to be ratified anyhow, so why dilly-dally along and continue the strain of waiting for the actual war status to be finally and definitely settled.

"Not one editor with whom I have conferred, whether for the League, for its amendment, for reservations, or otherwise, has expressed to me the opinion that the Senate would reject the treaty, or that it would be amended in substantial form. On the contrary, all have said that they believed the people favored the League and that the Senate would ratify. The directing spirits of two leading Republican papers, both located in the same Western city, told me they had served notice on Chairman Will Hays that their newspapers would not support the Republican party in opposition to the League of Nations and that they would not support any Republican candidate for office who opposed the League.

Not an Issue in Swope's District.

"Within the past few days I have made a personal investigation of the causes entering into the election of King Swope to the National House of Representatives from a Kentucky district. I was led to make the investigation because of reiterated charges by certain newspapers opposed to the League of Nations that the covenant was the principal issue and that it was defeated by the popular vote in an erstwhile Democratic district. Neither the treaty nor the League covenant was an issue in that campaign. King Swope says so and he ought to know. He has repeatedly said so and continues to say so.

"Throughout the country generally there exists a spirit of unrest. Congress is in session and the Senate still debates a Peace Treaty that almost every one believes it is going to ratify. Progress moves onward. If halted, things sometimes explode. There are stumbling blocks in the pathway, and those blocks are in the Senate of the United States.

"The attention of the people is being more and more directed toward the left wing of the Capitol. Following the President's tour of the country there exists a general feeling that the pressure of public sentiment will become so great that ratification cannot longer be denied."

BARS AUSTRO-GERMAN UNION

Clause in Austrian Treaty Is Effective to Prevent It.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—One clause of the treaty submitted to the Austrian delegation yesterday has the effect of prohibiting the annexation of Austria by Germany. This clause reads:

"The independence of Austria is inalienable otherwise than with the consent of the Council of the League of Nations. Consequently, Austria undertakes, in the absence of the consent of said Council, to abstain from any act which might directly or indirectly by any means whatsoever compromise her independence, particularly until her admission to the League of Nations, by the participation in the affairs of another power."

Only one change from the original territorial terms of the Austrian peace treaty appears in the final draft of that document. The alteration is in the case of the town of Radkersburg, in the Marburg Basin, southeast of Graz, Radkersburg remaining Austrian, although the basin is attached to Jugoslavia.

Commenting upon the action of the Peace Conference yesterday in simultaneously handing Austria in final form the peace terms framed for her acceptance and delivering to Germany the note demanding a change in the German Constitution, to eliminate the provision for the selection of Austrian representatives to the German Parliament, the Paris newspapers this morning assert that this was not a simple coincidence. It means, the press argues, at once a firm resolution by the Allies to insist upon respect for the terms of the German treaty as regards Austria and the definite end of the Danubian monarchy.

100,000 GERMAN DESERTERS

Those Held Abroad Are Included—40,000 Stayed in Switzerland.

GENEVA, Sept. 2.—Nearly 100,000 officers and men are regarded as deserters from the German army during the war, according to Munich advices. Included in this number are many thousands who were in America and England at the outbreak of the war, and were prevented from joining the German army, "although advised beforehand to join the colors," the dispatch says.

Switzerland leads the neutral countries with 40,000 deserters. A proclamation of amnesty to these men has been issued if they will return to Germany this year, but many former German soldiers in this country refuse to go back, fearing that they will be placed in the ranks once more because the Allies have permitted Germany to retain her army on a war footing until the end of 1919. The amnesty proclamation does not apply to those accused of treason.

WILSON HAS NEW PLAN FOR THRACE

what are regarded as the special needs and circumstances of the regions involved in the new State. The local populations, as well as certain vital interests in the region involved, are regarded as being extremely mixed, and it is understood to be the American position that such an international State, if the plan could be adjusted to the satisfaction of England, France and Greece, in a fair compromise, would meet the requirements of the situation.

It is learned that there is a feeling in American peace delegation circles in Paris that it may be necessary to satisfy Greek desires in the matter on account of the prospective inclusion of Eastern Thrace as well as Western Thrace in the proposed State; but the idea appears to be that this may be done by giving Greece representation in the Government now being suggested as a basis or compromise. Greece is still insisting on her right to annex Eastern Thrace. Greek authorities here assert that Greece has had the support of England and France in this aspiration, and that only the United States has been hostile to her demands.

WILSON REPORTED OVERRULED ON THRACE

But Washington Has No Confirmation of Authorization of Greek Occupation.

A settlement of the Thracian section of the peace treaty with Bulgaria now before the Peace Conference at Paris was reported yesterday in two cable dispatches "from a reliable source," published in The Greek National Herald of New York. According to the dispatches, Premier Venizelos of Greece gained practically all of his demands in the face of opposition, presumably from President Wilson, and "Greek troops will occupy the whole of Thrace immediately."

Under date of Sept. 2, the Greek daily was advised as follows: "Conference does not favor Wilson's Thracian scheme. Accepts Venizelos's proposal, according to which only small parts of Northwestern Thrace remain Bulgarian.'

The second dispatch, dated yesterday, said:

"According to Wilson's opinion, Bulgaria should get three-fifths of Western and a good portion of Eastern Thrace. Venizelos pronounced proposal impossible and demanded immediate solution. Anglo-French strongly uphold Venizelos's proposition; Italians supporting. Venizelos announced willingness to leave Bulgaria one-third of Northwestern Thrace. Council accepted proposition fixing definitely Bulgarian frontiers. Bulgarians to renounce all territory southward from new boundary. Bulgaria gets nothing of Eastern Thrace and definitely barred from the Aegean. Venizelos willing to allow Bulgaria only economic outlet. Greek troops will occupy the whole of Thrace immediately. Venizelos stated today that Greece demands Xiros-Midia."

A special cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES, published yesterday, reported the Bulgarian treaty as likely to be rushed through without delay from debate on the question of Thrace and also indicated that Frank Polk's plan to internationalize Thrace had been discarded by the Council of Five.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A Paris cablegram to the Greek National Herald of New York City, crediting the Peace Conference with disliking President Wilson's Thracian proposals and accepting the plan of Premier Venizelos, making only small parts of Northwestern Thrace Bulgarian, did not create any real surprise in well-informed quarters in Washington. When it became apparent that the President's suggestion was not acceptable to England, France, and Greece the counter-suggestion for the setting up of an international commission Government for the proposed Constantinople State, including both Eastern and Western Thrace, was made. What action was taken on this counter-suggestion, if any, could not be learned in Washington.

Of the report contained in another dispatch received by the Greek National Herald from Paris that President Wilson favored granting to Bulgaria three-fifths of Western and a goodly portion of Eastern Thrace, it was impossible to gather from any official source any authoritative confirmation. However, in view of the known vigorous opposition of Premier Venizelos to granting any such stretch of land to Bulgaria, and the fact that President Wilson has favored including both Eastern and Western Thrace in the proposed international State of Constantinople, it is doubted that President Wilson was willing to grant so much of both Eastern and Western Thrace to Bulgaria.

No confirmation has reached Washington of the reported definite determination of Bulgarian-Thracian frontiers, and the further report that Greek troops will immediately occupy the whole of Thrace. If there is such occupation it is believed that it will be with the approval of the Peace Conference for the purpose of occupying such territory as is to be yielded by the Bulgarians.

Premier Venizelos is known to have been demanding that both Eastern and Western Thrace should go to Greece. He has insisted that Greece should receive all of Thrace as far east as the Enos-Midia line, which runs from Midia, on the Black Sea, to Enos, on the Aegean. He has been willing to grant to Bulgaria a port on the Aegean, with the understanding that Bulgaria should merely have commercial rights in such port and no sovereignty. He has also been willing that four northern districts of Thrace, in which there are about 9,000 Greeks and 35,000 Bulgarians, should go to Bulgaria.

Senator King of Utah, who has been taking a deep interest in the settlement of the Balkan and Thracian questions, has offered this resolution in the Senate:

That it is the sense of the Senate that, in the treaties of peace with Bulgaria and Turkey, Western or Bulgarian Thrace to the line of the Arda River, and Eastern or Turkish Thrace, including Adrianople, to the line from Enos, on the Aegean Sea, to Midia, on the Black Sea, should be awarded to Greece, proper facilities for Bulgarian commerce to be reserved at Saloniki, Kavala, and Dedeagatch; and be it

Resolved, That the residue of European Turkey, including Constantinople, the coasts of the Sea of Marmora, and the Peninsula of Gallipoli, should be constituted a free State under the protection of the League of Nations.

VENIZELOS FIRM FOR LEAGUE.

Denies That His Faith Has Been Shaken by Balkan Disappointments.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A categorical denial of reports which credited him with having lost his confidence in the League of Nations as a consequence of the failure of the Peace Conference to decide Balkan questions, including that of Thrace, has been made by Premier Venizelos, who heads the Greek delegation at the Peace Conference. In a letter to the American Embassy in Paris M. Venizelos has stated that, despite published reports to the contrary, he is a firm believer in the League of Nations.

In his letter, which was forwarded to Washington by the embassy, to be laid before President Wilson, and the text of which was given out today by Secretary Lansing, the Greek Premier said:

"My Dear Ambassador:

"I take the liberty of occupying a few moments of your valuable time with a question which has of late been brought quite prominently before the American public.

"It has been reported in the American press that as a 'consequence of the failure of the Peace Conference to decide Balkan matters, and particularly in view of the American position with reference to the disposition of Thrace,' I had publicly stated my loss of confidence in the League of Nations. This news was cabled from Paris to the American press, and even such responsible and representative journalists as Frank Simonds have believed it and commented on it, and, as you are doubtless aware, the question went so far as to even occupy the Senate.

"I desire, therefore, in view of the importance attached to the above news, to state categorically that I have not made the above statement, and it really grieves me to know that I could have been thought capable of it. Notwithstanding the disappointment I may feel because of the Thracian situation—a very vital one for Greece—my views regarding the League of Nations, a world-wide structure to which I have also contributed in the measure of my ability, have not and could not change.

"I will be very obliged to you, my dear Ambassador, if you will be so good as to acquaint President Wilson of the true standing of the case.

"Believe me, yours very sincerely,

"E. X. VENIZELOS."

MUST PUT OUR NATION FIRST

Finlay Brings British Greeting—Praises Supreme Court for Furthering World Law.

FINDS RECALL 'SOCIALISTIC'

Means Destruction of the Judiciary, Committee Tells Boston Session—Hill Attacks League.

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—The need of Americanization of the foreign population of this country, better education of the native-born residents in the meaning of government, and harmonizing of the interests of capital and labor was emphasized by George T. Page of Peoria, Ill., President of the American Bar Association.

"We must take up intelligently," he said, "and with courage and determination the seemingly impossible tasks that are all about us and reconstruct and readjust the broken and disturbed condition of things produced, on the one hand, by war, and on the other hand by what seems to be our utter diregard of some of the fundamentals necessary to establish and perpetuate a democratic form of government."

He characterized as "a most dangerous difficulty" the fact that lack of Americanization work had left most of the great body of foreigners in this country "wholly incapable of even becoming students of our form of government."

Mr. Page declared that the immigrants should be taught that they have no right "to place America and American institutions second to any other nation or proposed nation on earth" and that an immigrant incapable or refusing to become an American should be "driven back to the country from whence he came."

Turning to the need of better education of the native born in their duties to society, he said:

"All our people should have proper instruction as to the meaning of the citizen's right to 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness' under our Constitution.

Brings England's Greetings.

The greetings of the bench and bar of England were brought to the American Bar Association today by Viscount Finlay, former Lord Chancellor of England. The famous jurist, who has been mentioned as likely to be Great Britain's choice for presiding officer at the trial of William Hohenzollern, if the former German Emperor is brought before an international tribunal, said that the legal profession of England was proud of the development which the common law of England had received in the United States.

"It is, indeed, a great heritage, that of the Common Law of England, to which we of both sides of the Atlantic have fallen heir," Viscount Finlay said. "You, like ourselves, are proud of its traditions, and of the spirit of liberty which it breeds.

"The recent war," he continued, "has given a signal illustration of what international law owes to the Supreme Court of the United States. It was by that court that the doctrine of continuous veriage in its application to cenutraband and blockade, was worked out at the time of your civil war on the lines originally traced by Lord Storey in another connection. These decisions of the Supreme Court formed the subject of a great deal of controversy, but after the lapse of more than half a century and the experience of this last war, I think we may say that the doctrine there laid down has been finally established as part of the international law of the world."

Viscount Finlay said that the relations between the judiciary bench in England and the judiciary bench in America have ever been most cordial, and that the same was true of the relations of the bars of the two countries.

"We recognize to the full," he added, "the assistance which reference to American decisions in the illustration of points of difficulty has afforded."

The remarks of Viscount Finlay were loudly applauded by the convention. As the cheers died away there were cries for "Elihu Root; we want Root," and the former Secretary of State made response to the greetings of the English jurist.

"I agree," he said, "that the friendship and united action of the two great English-speaking peoples, from whose fathers came the heritage of liberty and a system of laws under which the happiness and peace of the people are promoted, must be the safeguards of the democracy of the world.

"Believe, my Lord, and say to the bar of England upon your return, that under all the doubt and distressing confusion following the great disturbance of habit produced by that great struggle, America, which rose above all thought of ease, comfort, wealth, and property, by her loyalty to the principles of the British and American Constitutions receives those inestimable gifts and has made them guide and guardian of the growth of prosperity and liberty."

Sees Socialism in Recall.

The judicial recall which has been adopted by several States was declared to be a measure of socialism, in the report of a special committee made to the Bar Association. The committee said that the object of judicial recall "was the destruction of the judiciary, and thereby a step to the elimination of the safeguards vouchsafed by Constitutional limitations upon the legislative powers of government.

"The fight which this association made, through its committee, against judicial recall was a fight against socialism," the report continued.

"Socialism feeds and fattens upon the disorganization, famine, and unrest necessarily following war conditions. The destructive doctrines of socialism were never more widely advocated than at the present time, and there was never so much danger as now that its converts might become, for a time at least, a majority of the voters in many States and communities, or even in the nation as a whole.

"Socialism is working in this country under many disguises. There is the straight out-and-out Socialist, the disciple of Marx, who is rampant and fights hand-in-hand with the anarchist and the up to date Bolshevist.

"Then there is the parlor Socialist, the step-by-step Socialist, who pretends to shrink from this or that particular doctrine of Marxian Socialism, while advocating allied doctrines no less dangerous than those he pretends to oppose."

The committee characterized the "so-called Townleyism movement in the West" as an "outcrop of pure Socialism" and added that "Townley is the leader and dictator of this anti-constitutional movement. He is a Socialist pure and simple, and so are his coworkers. And this Townley movement is allied with similar movements, under different names, working in Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and other States. If the conditions in North Dakota were as favorable to the success of Bolshevism as they are in Russia, Townley would today be the Lenin of the Northwest and his Soviet Government would go to all the extremes of tyrannical dictatorship that are now suffered by the Russian people.

"If you wish to know what is the ultimate goal of the Socialists in this country, and the means by which they would attain their objects, you have only to look to Russia. The 'nationalization' of Government, of industry, of society, of woman herself, which has been accomplished under Lenin in Russia, is the very same sort of nationalization which has for years been advocated, and is today more than ever agitated, for adoption in this country."

The committee reported its opinion that "the only protection against the doctrines and schools of treason, sedition, and revolution," which it said were never so numerous in this country, "lies in a widespread and persistent campaign of education."

Criticism of the League of Nations covenant as lacking a definite pledge that the nations will uphold international law, was made by Dr. David Jayne Hill, former Ambassador to Germany. Speaking on "The Nations and the Law," Dr. Hill said:

"The fundamental issue of world order is not the possibility of forming a union of powers strong enough to impose its will upon other States, but the question whether the powers entering into such a combination are disposed to bind themselves to the acceptance and observance of definite legal principles, irrespective of their commercial interests and military strength.

"We must repudiate, as inconsistent with the nature of a truly constitutional State, any form of international association that does not assume as its first postulate the authority of international law over all nations. It would be an error to suppose that imperialism is essentially dynastic. Its present phase is that of race domination and economic control. Imperialism is not so much a form of government as it is a lust for power.

"The greatest danger to the peace of the world today is the menace of the socialized state, which is based on a crassly materialistic philosophy, and if generally realized would transform whole nations into industrial and commercial corporations claiming absolute sovereign authority, pitted against one another in rivalry to possess the wealth of the world.

Fought for International Law.

"The object of our participation in the great war as a belligerent nation was the preservation of the rights of our fellow citizens secured to them under international law. No other official reason for engaging in the war has ever been given. We turn then with more than historical interest to inquire what have been the fortunes of international law in the settlements of peace.

"An examination of the fourteen conditions of peace proposed by the President on January 8, 1918, eight months after the declaration of war, discloses the fact that there is in these rubrics no reference to international law as having been violated, or as something to be vindicated and re-established. In fact, it is not there stated that the United States ever had any reason for entering the war, unless that may be implied in the second rubric, which demands 'absolute freedom of navigation upon the seas, outside territorial waters, alike in peace and in war,' a principle for which our enemy professed to be contending.

"In the proposal of a League of Nations, made on Sept. 27, 1918, the restoration of the law of nations was not included among the five objects to be obtained in the peace. In the correspondence with the Imperial German Government regarding terms of peace, which led up to the acceptance of the armistice, and in the armistice itself international law was not made a subject of discussion.

"That the vindication of violated law required not only a peace of victory, but a peace distinctly punitive of such violations, is clearly evident. Was it not for that crime that Germany was to be punished?

"We discover, to our disappointment, that the covenant of the League of Nations, which we are told is to be the instrument for the maintenance of peace, contains no declaration that the sovereign States as such possess any rights whatever. We find in it no provision of law by which their conduct toward one another may be judged; no promise of a court before which their wrongs may be broght and their legal rights judicially determined; no method by which a weak State may legally enforce its rights against a great power, if that power is indisposed to recognize its claim.

"It is true that there is, in the preamble, a reference to 'understandings of international law,' but it contains no pledge to observe the law or to adopt it as a judicial rule, or to accept it otherwise than as a subject of separate 'understandings.'

"There is a vital necessity for the continued union and consultation of the powers which have been the victors in the great war, but it is equally essential that their aim should be the rehabilitation and enforcement of law, rather than a combination of legally unregulated forces."

MUST PUNISH A. W. O. L. MEN

General O'Ryan Says That Was the Chief Court-Martial Trouble.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commanding the New York National Guard, appeared today before a Senate military subcommittee considering the Chamberlain bill proposing a general revision of the system of military justice.

Under interrogation by Senator Chamberlain, author of the bill, General O'Ryan said he agreed that the "meat of this thing" lay in the creation of an appellate power somewhere which could relieve soldiers of the stigma of conviction if that appeared the fair thing to do, instead of leaving it as at present, a question for executive clemency, which could take away the punishment but not the conviction.

He agreed with the board's view, however, that enforcement of discipline was a function inseparable from command and should therefore be administered in the name of the President, not by the Judge Advocate General or any other official as an independent power.

Speaking of his experience in command of the 27th Division in France, the officer said the greatest demoralizing agency in any army was the men who shirked battle by being absent without leave without any intention of deserting. Many of the severe sentences imposed, he said, were due to the fight against that element of the forces. In his own division, he said, he had met the problem by seeing that short sentences to hard labor with the division were performed in the front lines, which meant even increased danger. This he had found effective, he added.

Officers had no thought, General O'Ryan said, that the "absurd" sentences imposed in the new army would be carried out, but left it to higher authority to correct matters later. The effect on the men as a whole was secured when sentence was imposed, he said.

What Federal Operation Has Done to the Railroads.

The American Mining Congress, in an analysis of the Government's handling of the railroad problem, shows that constantly rising costs have resulted in lessened labor efficiency and serious neglect of the properties. PLAN MORE SEATS AT PERSHING PARADE

BAKER TO GREET GENERAL

War Secretary and Congressmen to Welcome Commander on Arrival Monday Morning.

General John J. Pershing, Commander in Chief of the American Expeditionary Forces, should be back on American soil at 10 o'clock next Monday morning. By that hour, it was announced yesterday, the Leviathan is expected to have docked at Hoboken, and within a few minutes thereafter the leader of America's millions who fought in France should be, perhaps almost literally, in the arms of a grateful nation.

Even while the greatest transport noses up the bay, Pershing is sure to know the country awaits him. This he may learn officially, according to plans now under consideration by the War Department, if he is met at the Narrows by a welcoming and escorting fleet of armored cruisers and warships. If it is decided to send such an escort, Secretary of War Baker and such other Government officials as come to New York to greet the General will be aboard.

If it is determined to await the returning warrior at the pier, he will learn less formally and officially, but none the less certainly, as he approaches his landing place, that America is glad to have him back, for there is sure to be a great din of greeting from the sirens of passing craft and the whistles of countless factories.

Almost every hour sees an elaboration of the plans to make the Commander in Chief's few days as the guest of the city as genuine a tribute as the occasion merits. At the same time the city grows perceptibly more eager for the parade of the veteran all-American 1st Division which General Pershing, who took that division to France, is to lead upon its return. So that the spirit of "finding something more to do for General Pershing" is matched by that of providing ever more liberally for the thousands of officers and enlisted men who are to be just as truly, if less formally, the city's guests at the same time.

To add to the national character of the welcome it was announced that a joint committee of the Senate and House will come to New York and will meet the General either at Quarantine or at Hoboken.

This committee will be headed by Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York, Chairman of the Senate Military Committee. Others will include Senator Warren of Wyoming, Pershing's father-in-law; Representative Julius Kahn of California, Chairman of the House Military Committee; Republican Leader Mondell of Wyoming, and Democratic Leader Champ Clark of Missouri, Pershing's home State.

To Plan Congress Ceremony.

This committee is expected to reach New York Sunday night, at the same time as the War Department officials. One of the purposes of the trip, aside from that of offering the country's official welcome—that duty having been delegated to them yesterday by a joint Congressional Committee arranging the legislative department's participation in the homecoming—will be to consult with General Pershing himself about the ceremonies to attend his visit to the capital. It already has been decided to hold a parade there of the 1st Division, Sept. 16, and it is highly probable the General will lead this, as will he the procession in New York.

The committee also is anxious to learn Pershing's attitude toward various plans for Congressional recognition of his services. Among those discussed by the joint committee was a joint session of Congress, to be attended by leading Government officials and foreign diplomats, at which the leader of the A. E. F. would be the honor guest. There also is a tentative plan to present to him an ornate sword and to confer upon him some form of Congressional decoration, together with appropriate resolutions.

While in a general way the program for the General's stay in this city already is fairly well mapped out, it is expected to take more definite form today, when Major Gen. James M. McAndrew, commandant of the War College and formerly Chief of Staff of the A. E. F., reaches New York. General McAndrew will open headquarters at the Waldorf, and will have full charge of arrangements, from the military side, of the Pershing reception, while Major Gen. Edward F. McGlachlin will continue in charge of the parade of the 1st Division, which he commands.

While General McAndrew's plans will be based upon the docking of the Leviathan Monday morning, as now is expected, they will be sufficiently elastic to permit of ready alteration if fog or other ill luck on the way should delay the big transport until Tuesday. Among the matters which will receive the attention of General McAndrew and his staff will be the quarters for General Pershing, who also is to dwell at the Waldorf. At the hotel preparations are in progress not only to receive one of the most distinguished guests the hostelry has sheltered, but to make the dinner in the grand ballroom on the night of the parade, at which the city will be host to General Pershing and his staff, the largest and most elaborate function of its kind yet staged in New York.

Picked Regiment to Lead Parade.

A big feature was definitely added to the parade when the War Department made known that the composite regiment which is returning on the Leviathan will parade as Pershing's guard of honor. This regiment of 3,600 men was picked from all seven of the American army regular divisions in France and has come to be known as Pershing's own. It was loudly acclaimed when it paraded with the commander in Paris.

It is thoroughly representative of the Regular Army, there being two companies from each regiment of the divisions represented, the companies, in turn, being made up of one squad from each company in the regiment. Whether this huge regiment will parade with full combat equipment like the First, or whether the men will carry only rifles and sidearms is not yet known.

It is at the head of this regiment and, of course, at the head of the parade, that General Pershing is expected to ride. Efforts to communicate with him by wireless to learn his exact plans in this regard are thus far unsuccessful. Those arranging the parade are anxious to know whether he will ride mounted or in an automobile and, if mounted, whether he is bringing his own charger from France. If not, Lieut. Col. T. H. Shanton of the First Field Artillery, New York National Guard, has offered the choice of his two private mounts, said to be among the handsomest military saddle horses in the city.

Many invitations of a private or semi-public nature await General Pershing's pleasure, and he is sure to find upon his arrival that far more tribute in the way of hospitality is offered him than he possibly can accept. Among the invitations is one from the New York Rotary Club, which has invited him to meet with it on the night of Thursday, Sept. 11, the General being a Rotarian.

While those directly in charge of that end of the celebration were busy yesterday arranging the reception to General Pershing, plans for the parade itself and for the entertainment of the men of the division and of "Pershing's own" regiment went steadily forward. The vexed question of seats for spectators particularly entitled to them—notably wounded men, out-of-town visitors, and relatives of officers and men who will be in the parade—received attention both from General McGlachlin and his staff, and from the Mayor's Committee of Welcome for Homecoming Troops, which has the city's part of the celebration in hand.

Promise More Stands.

At least partial relief from the threatened seat shortage is in sight, with an excellent prospect that even more liberal provision for spectators than has been definitely offered will be forthcoming in time. The appeal that patriotic citizens should provide the money or the lumber, and the accompanying promise that the 1st Engineers, who hold the record for throwing a bridge across the Rhine, would erect stands faster than anything ever has been built in this city, brought two definite responses. These were contributions of $100 each from Frank Ford of 115 Broadway and Daniel Daley of 115 Nassau Street.

Alexander Allen of 643 West Forty-second Street offered to erect 10,000 portable seats for $2,000, which, he said, represented actual cost with no profit. Another firm offered to furnish seats for 60,000 and to donate 30,000 of them for the free disposition of the First Division provided its engineers would do the erecting and the firm would be allowed to sell the other 30,000. It is unlikely this offer will be accepted.

At a conference between Major Paul Daly and members of the Mayor's Committee, the committee yielded to the division officers' protest that the city's first plan to build only 5,000 seats was totally inadequate, by agreeing to erect at least double that number. The additional stands are to be added at the sides of those already under construction, in front of the main entrance of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, between Eighty-second and Eighty-third streets, on Fifth Avenue. Two seats in these are to be given to each officer and enlisted man, present or former, in the First Division. Application for these should be made quickly, preferably by mail, to the Biltmore headquarters.

About twenty-seven hundred members of the division about to be demobilized are from Southern New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware and Eastern Pennsylvania. John F. Sinnott, secretary of the committee, at first proposed that seats for 3,000 should be provided by lining up park benches along the Fifth Avenue curb. The military men were dissatisfied with this, believing that, short of a policeman to each bench, there would be no means of assuring the seats to their proper holders.

The question of seats will be considered further tomorrow afternoon at a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen, when an effort will be made to obtain an appropriation which not only will insure adequate seating, but will finance other projects in connection with the reception. In the words of a statement from the Mayor's office, "if the money can be procured to carry out the plans already decided upon, New York's expression of appreciation to General Pershing will be unparalleled in the history of the city." The meeting was decided on yesterday at a conference of the Mayor with President Moran of the Board of Aldermen, Deputy Controller Hahlo, and Mr. Sinnott.

Army Men Not Pleased.

There is manifest on the part of some former officers of the division a feeling that the City's failure to provide grandstands extending along Fifth Avenue from Sixtieth to 110th Streets, as it did for previous divisional parades, is indicative of comparative indifference by the city to a division not strictly its own. Deputy Public Service Commissioner Ryan said that the fact that the division is so widely representative of the whole country meant there would not be nearly so many relatives or close friends in New York entitled to preferred positions to view the parade.

A compilation by the Publicity Bureau of the Army Recruiting Service shows in the personnel of the division are represented forty-seven States and many insular possessions, while on its roster are 4,000 "old timers," whose only recorded home is "United States Army."

There is to be at least one brand new feature of the parade. For the first time in New York troops will parade wearing the French fourragere, the red and green cord, signifying that the Croix de Guerre with palm has been twice conferred. This was assured yesterday when Colonel Charles A. Hunt arrived with the major portion of the 18th Infantry, which he commands, on the army transport Mobile. The fourragere was conferred on the regiment by Brigadier Gen. Bracquet of the French Army, while officers and men were lined up on the decks of the transport just before it sailed from Brest.

The 18th earned its distinction for its share in the Soisson and the second Marne offensives. The 28th Regiment also twice has had the honor of the Croix de Guerre being fastened to its colors, but the fourragere was not conferred at the same time. The War Department has asked the French Government to confer the privilege at once.

The 28th found another cause for pride yesterday in the arrival of Lieut. Col. Clarence Huebner, who was a Sergeant in the regular army when the war began. He was made a Second Lieutenant at once and is one of four men out of a class of 411 at the Fort Leavenworth Infantry School to attain the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. He was wounded at Soissons, but though he received a month's leave after five weeks' stay in the hospital, he insisted upon returning at once to the fight. Another hero of the 28th who is here for the parade is Supply Sergeant Powell of M Company, a Pole, who, despite his noncombatant duties, frequently volunteered his way into the fighting. Once when he took part in an assault, every ranking officer and enlisted man of his unit became a casualty, and he led his fellows to the victorious taking of their objective.

Fired First American Shot.

One unit which will be in the parade is Battery C. of the Sixth Field Artillery, which, Oct. 23, 1917, from its emplacement near Bathelemont-Bauzement, fired the first American artillery shot of the war, and which, just a few weeks ago, before quitting Germany, fired in manoeuvres, the last American shot.

The widow of Colonel John W. French, formerly of the United States Army, and the mother of Major John W. French, now of the 24th Infantry, will present to the 26th and the 28th a new regimental color containing silver bands, showing their service in Europe. The 26th and 28th were organized under the direction of Colonel French in 1901. When the 26th went to France, Major French commanded one battalion. He was promoted to Lituetnant Colonel and served with the 28th. The colors will be presented at Camp Merritt at a date to be determined. The offer was accepted by Major Gen. McGlachlin on behalf of the regiments.

Says Pershing Will Quit Army in Order to Go Into Business

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

COBLENZ, Sept. 3.—General Pershing will leave the army soon and go into business, according to a statement credited to a man in very close intimate touch with the Commander in Chief of the American Expeditionary Force.

This man, a civilian, made a recent visit to Coblenz. His statement with regard to the plans of General Pershing were related to me by army officers who said he made it to them. He is now on his way home in company with the American Commander.

General Pershing is 59 years old and thus would have five years before reaching the retirement age of 64.

SOLDIERS GLAD TO PARADE.

Transports Bring 230 Officers and 4,616 Men of First Division.

Three transports arrived yesterday from France, bringing 230 officers and 4,616 men of the 1st Division, who cheered lustily when they heard the news that they were to parade down Fifth Avenue, Sept. 10, with General Pershing riding at their head. They came on the Mobile, Suwanee, and Amphion and landed at the army piers in Hoboken.

Brig. Gen. Frank Parker of Charleston, S. C., commander of the 1st Infantry Brigade, 1st Division, came on the Mobile. He commanded the division through the heaviest action in the Argonne-Meuse, until the armistice, and then went to Coblenz with the Army of Occupation, until he was relieved by Major Gen. McGlachlin, and then returned to his brigade.

When this country entered the war Brig. General Parker went to Paris as military attaché and joined the 18th Infantry Regiment as Colonel in December, 1917. He went into action on the Lorraine front with the first batch of American troops in February, 1918. He was decorated with the Croix de Guerre, with two palms, D. S. M., appointed a Commander of the Legion of Honor and a Commander of the Order of the Crown of Leopold.

Another officer of the 1st Division on the Mobile was Major Oliver Allen of the 1st Battalion of the 18th Infantry, who was a public accountant in Brooklyn before the war, and went to France as a First Lieutenant. He was severely wounded in the fighting around Soissons and has been decorated with the Croix de Guerre, with palms and bronze star, D. S. C., and made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor and the Crown of Belguim.

Among the units on the Mobile were the 1st Infantry Brigade Headquarters, Headquarters Suppy, and machine gun companies, 1st Battalion of the 18th Infantry, 2d Machine Gun Battalion, and 2d Battaion of the 7th Field Artillery.

There were forty-nine brides on board the transport and ten girl telephone operators, headed by Miss Grace D. Banker of Passaic, N. J., who was decorated with the D. S. M. for serving under fire with the First Army all through the St. Mihiel drive. The Mobile, which was the German liner Cleveland, will make no more voyages as a troopship, it was stated in Hoboken yesterday.

One death occurred on the voyage from France. That was Private Floyd Law of Cutler, a member of Company C, 18th Infantry, who was ill when he came on board at Brest.

DE VALERA ATTACKS CARSON

Says 80 Per Cent., and Not Ulster's 20 Per Cent., Should Rule Ireland.

Eamonn de Valera, so-called President of the Irish Republic, discussed yesterday the speech delivered Tuesday by Sir Edward Carson at Belfast. Mr. de Valera, who is at the Waldorf-Astoria, said that no home rule solution could be lasting, as either the Irish or the English would end it, "for every political act" of either would be suspected of having been prompted by the desire to "do one or the other."

When asked if he agreed with the statement made by Sir Edward that "Colonial home rule" is the same thing as Sinn Fein, Mr. de Valera stated that "Colonial home rule," as applied to British measures for Ireland, "is a term purposely chosen to deceive the so-called self-governing dominions of Great Britain and also those who might not be awake in Ireland." He said England would never consent to such a wide constitution for Ireland, and therefore it is a waste of time to discuss it. He said that Ireland could never enjoy the freedom of the dominions with a paper constitution, for the reason that Ireland is not yet "that 500 miles further distant from Britain which George Washington wrote would 'speedily and materially change for the better the cause of Ireland with respect to Britain.'"

Mr. de Valera said that he agreed with Sir Edward Carson "that all sections of Irishmen are entitled to resist British law, because British law is not morally binding; it is no law at all in Ireland. Every Irishman is justified in resisting British-made law. It is quite wrong to say that Sir Edward Carson is a traitor to England. Sir Edward Carson can be guilty of treason to no country but to Ireland."

He said Sir Edward Carson was blamed by Irishmen "only when he proves himself less an Irishman and more an Englishman; when he allows himself to be used by the British Government for interests which are not Irish interests." "As against the union advocated by Sir Edward Carson and his 20 per cent. minority, we urge the claim of the remaining 80 per cent. majority who demand 'separation,'" Mr. de Valera added.

BELGIAN RULERS' VISIT.

Will Arrive in Washington Oct. 1 and Be Wilson's Guests.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belguim will arrive in Washington about Oct. 1 and will be guests of the President and Mrs. Wilson at the White House, probably remaining for three days.

The King and Queen will arrive in this country late this month and will go directly to Washington to visit the President and Mrs. Wilson before beginning a tour of the country.

It was learned today that the tentative itinerary provides for their return to New York from Washington for a public reception. Afterward they will start on a journey that will carry them to the Pacific Coast. The cities to be visited en route have not been determined on.

STEEL WORKERS TO MEET.

Labor Council to Discuss "Defensive Action" Against Corporation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—"Defensive action" in the controversy between the steel workers and the United States Steel Corporation will be discussed at a meeting here tomorrow of the Special Committee of the Steel Workers' Council.

Frank Morrison, Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, was advised today of the calling of the meeting by Secretary Foster of the committee. The telegram said that all meetings of steel workers along the Monongahela Valley, Pennsylvania, had been prohibited, and that speakers at meetings at McKeesport, Penn., had been arrested, and that in view of this further defensive action by the workers was imperative.

FIRE IN BROOKLYN THEATRE.

1,800 Persons Had Just Left Building as Blaze Starts in Basement.

Within fifteen minutes after the 1,800 people had left the Bushwick Theatre last night, at Broadway and Howard Avenue, Brooklyn, fire started in the basement of the building, sending dense volumes of smoke into the streets and enveloping the place. Three thousand residents of the district soon crowded the neighborhood, some lightly clad.

Policeman Joseph Voigler of the Ralph Avenue Station was passing the theatre when he saw the smoke coming from a grating over the basement on the Howard Avenue side of the building. He ran to the corner and turned in an alarm, and then he forced an entry into the basement. He discovered that the fire was caused by some burning rubbish which had been left there by one of the workmen during the day. By the time the fire fighting apparatus had arrived the officer had extinguished the blaze. Damage to the structure was slight.

NAMES PERSHING TO PERMANENT RANK

President Rushes General's Commission That It May Be Presented to Him Here.

INTERRUPTS BAKER'S TENNIS

Will Make Commander Ranking Officer of the Army for the Next Five Years.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Virtually the last piece of executive business which President Wilson did before his departure for the West tonight was the signing of the bill authorizing him to appoint General Pershing with the permanent title of General, and creating him ranking officer of the American Army as long as he remains in active service. The delivery of General Pershing's commission immediately upon his return to America was assured when the President signed the document.

The bill authorizing the President to appoint a permanent General, which was hurried through the House and Senate during the last two days, reached the White House this afternoon. The President immediately approved it.

Contrary to general belief, the bill did not contain General Pershing's name. It merely gave the President authority to name a General from among these officers of the army who had distinguished themselves in France. A proviso stipulated that only one General should be named "under this act."

The President, without delay, sent word to the War Department to prepare a new commission for General Pershing. Secretary of War Baker at the time was seeking recreation on a nearby tennis court. He was communicated with and hurried back to his office. In the meantime the President went for a short automobile ride with Mrs. Wilson, advising his office force that he would be ready to sign the commission on his return.

A few minutes before the President came back, Secretary Baker hurried to the White House. He was dressed in white duck trousers, an outing shirt, tennis hat, and white shoes. Under one arm he carried his racquet and under the other the roll of parchment bearing General Pershing's name.

Secretary Baker gave the commission to Rudolph Forster, Executive clerk, who carried it to the White House to await the President. With him Mr. Forster also took the printed form used to send a nomination to the Senate.

It was just 6 o'clock, an hour before his train was due to depart, when the President got back. He signed the commission, told Forster to send the nomination to the Senate, and when notified that the body had confirmed the appointment, to return the commission to Secretary Baker for delivery to General Pershing on his arrival. Shortly afterward Mr. Wilson left the White House for the Union Station to start on his transcontinental tour. He expects to meet General Pershing somewhere in the West and personally felicitate him upon the distinguished honor.

General Pershing is the fourth officer of the United States Army to hold the permanent rank of General, and the eleventh American upon whom the rank has been conferred. Seven of these officers held the rank in the Confederate service.

The first American General was George Washington, whose appointment really antedated the formation of the United States, as it was made by the Continental Congress. The other ten, all of them, like Pershing, West Pointers, were U. S. Grant, W. T. Sherman, and Philip H. Sheridan of the Union Army, and Robert E. Lee, Albert Sidney Johnston, Joseph Johnston, John B. Hood, Braxton Bragg, Pierre G. T. Beauregard, and Samuel Cooper of the Confederacy.

General Pershing is 59 years old. As he will not be eligible for retirement until he becomes 64, he may, if he desires, remain at the head of the army for the next five years, when he can retire with the rank given him by the President today.

There is a possibility of a dispute over who shall present the new commission to the General. The Senate and House Military Committees—or at least the Republican members of these committees—have intimated that they should have the privilege. Secretary Baker may elect to present the commission himself, which he has a right to do. A compromise is expected through which the Congressional committees and the Secretary jointly will present the coveted sheepskin to the General when he sets foot on American soil. In any event they all will be there when the presentation is made.

NOTIFY ACTORS TO PREPARE TO WORK

now working under mutually satisfactory agreements.

Francis Wilson to Preside.

Francis Wilson, International President of the Associated Actors and Artists, will preside at the vaudeville meeting, and the speakers will include James William Fitzpatrick and Harry Mountford, President and Executive Secretary, respectively, of the vaudeville organization.

The Actors' Equity Association issued a general denial of reports that its strike is now largely in the hands of the stage hands, while the Actors' Fidelity League affirmed its charge that the conduct of the strike had been taken out of the hands of the Equity. Grant Stewart issued the following statement on behalf of the Equity:

"In view of certain misleading statements that have appeared in the press, we wish to state as emphatically as possible that there is no truth whatever in the statement that the Actors' Equity Associaion is being ruled by any of its affiliated branches. The Musicians' Union, the Theatrical Mechanics, and the Actors' Equity Association are working together in absolute harmony. No move of any kind is made without first receiving the sanction of all three bodies. Harmony is the keynote throughout all our operations. This harmony extends throughout our entire organization. It makes us feel proud and at the same time very humble when we realize that even our chorus girls, who are working for half salaries at our various entertainments, come by the dozens when they are paid on Saturday night to return $2, $3, and $5 apiece to our Treasurer, saying they 'can manage on a little less this week.' It is this spirit that is sustaining us in our fight. It is this spirit that is going to make us win."

The Fidelity, in its statement, cited the closing of the Hippodrome, the Gallo company, and Mrs. Chauncey Olcott's "Lusmore" company to prove that the stage hands' union is closing theatres over the heads of the Equity officials. The Fidelity charges also that the Equity is in favor of the closed shop. Both Equity officials and President Shay yesterday denied that such a stand was contempalted.

The Stage Writers' Protective Association, through Channing Pollock, denied that it intends to serve an ultimatum upon the managers or to attempt to obtain a radical contract. Statements to this effect came on Monday from one of the association's most prominent members.

The Equity Association is preparing to open three shows out of town in the next few days. "The Equity Revue," now at the Second Avenue Theatre, will be seen at the Savoy Theatre in Newark on Friday night and Saturday afternoon and evening. On Friday, also, a vaudeville show will open in Boston. This show will be made up largely of players who were appearing in Boston when the strike came, among them Donald Brian, William J. Kelly, Florence Moore, Will Deming, and part of the "Hitchy-Koo" company.

The third out-of-town venture will be a musical comedy, scheduled to open at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia on Tuesday of next week.

Demands on Paris Managers.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The Federation of Theatre Workers met this afternoon and empowered a committee to choose some means by which to enforce the granting of the claims presented to the managers. The committee will meet the managers tomorrow. The theatres were open this evening as usual. Most of the prominent actors are members of the federation.

"Wild Man" and "Fat Lady" Strike.

WINDSOR, Me., Sept. 3.—The actors' strike has spread to the midways of the country fairs. A "fat lady" appearing at a nearby fair last week demanded more pay and upon being refused went to her home in Connecticut today, saying she would stay there until the showman met her terms. Joseph Ruggiero, announced by a barker at the Windsor fair as a "Wild Man from Borneo," was in court. "I can't be a wild man for nothing?" he told the Judge after saying he had asked for more money before leaving the show. The charges against him were adjusted and he left for his home in Boston.

Dr. Reinsch to Start Home Sept. 15.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Dr. Paul S. Reinsch, American Minister to China, who recently sent his resignation to President Wilson, will leave Peking for the United States on Sept. 15, it was announced today at the State Department. His successor has not yet been appointed.

Painting the Lily

For years folks have struggled to explain to other folks "the wonderful power of advertising."

Comparisons with electricity, Niagara Falls and trans-Atlantic flights are frequent, and certainly the explanations would seem to add mystery to the power.

Perhaps the difficulty of definition lies in the fact that advertising is so simple and so neutral.

For example, if Du Pont offered a million Cadillacs at the price of a Ford, "the power of advertising" this fact would probably be said to be stupendous. But, if with the same identical advertising expenditure, a million Fords were offered at the price of a Cadillac, that particular application of "the power of advertising" would certainly be termed an advertising failure.

The two campaigns could be as alike as two peas and yet the results diametrically opposite.

Advertising is a message addressed to many persons about goods, ideas or service.

Do not confound the message and the method of its transmission.

BRITISH AT WORK TO REDUCE NAVY

PLANS TO SCRAP OLD SHIPS

Admiral Scott Says Huge Battleship Is Doomed—Admiralty Yards to Build Merchantmen.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The Daily Mail says that within the next fortnight Walter Long, First Lord of the Admiralty, will report to the Premier exactly how far he is prepared to go with the reduction of the fleet and Admiralty staff. It is probable that Mr. Long will try to bring the present expenditure of £140,000,000 down to something below £70,000,000. It is likely that the personnel of the fleet will be reduced to pre-war numbers, but the greatest reduction and saving will be in ships.

In future the navy will consist only of battleships, battle cruisers, light cruisers, destroyers, and submarines. All other types of vessels, such as the older class of cruisers, are to be ruthlessly scrapped, and no new ships are to be built in the immediate future, the work of the Admiralty yards being confined to the general upkeep of the fleet and the reconditioning of merchant vessels for handing them back to their owners. There will, therefore, be fewer ships in the navy than before the war, but they will all be fighting ships and, class for class, all of greater speed and gun-power, and equipped in every detail in order to meet modern war conditions.

It has now been decided to complete the construction of thirty-six vessels in these modern classes, it having been found a more economical procedure than breaking them up on the stocks. Altogether the building of forty-two first class ships has been stopped or canceled. It is understood that no Admiralty dockyards will actually be closed. Vast arrears of repairs and reconditioning are to be completed, and the idea is then to bring the machinery and ships to such a stage of efficiency that the yards will be ready in an emergency to push rapidly ahead with the building program.

LONDON, Sept. 2, (Associated Press.)—The campaign for administrative economy is gaining momentum daily. Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader in the House of Commons, and J. Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, came to London today especially to hold a meeting of the Cabinet, which was attended by Earl Curzon, President of the Council and Government leader in the House of Lords, and George Nicoll Barnes, Minister without portfolio. It is understood that the discussion was centered around national finance, being particularly devoted to the question of how far it would be possible to reduce estimates for the defensive services.

There is much talk of a possibility that Mr. Chamberlain may present a new interim budget, but this is considered quite improbable. Answering press attacks upon Bonar Law, Premier Lloyd George has sent a message to newspapers here declaring that it would be grossly unfair to attribute continued war expenditures to any particular member of the Government.

The demand of Baron Fisher of Kilverstone, former First Sea Lord, for the virtual scrapping of the navy, half of which is already obsolete, on the ground that a big navy is not required now that Germany has been defeated, has been printed in all the newspapers here and has caused a great sensation. Naval experts who have been consulted consider that Baron Fisher's proposal is much too drastic, and fears are expressed that there is imminent a great fight between the advocates of a small and a big navy.

Sir Percy Scott who, as Rear Admiral, was formerly in command of the first cruiser squadron, considers that the larger battleship is doomed, and that money devoted to building ships of this type could be better employed in other ways. He does not, however, agree with all of Baron Fisher's conclusions.

PRESIDENT SETS DATE FOR WAGE CONFERENCE

Will Be Held in Washington Between Oct. 5 and 10—Issues Call for Delegates.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The conference among representatives of labor, capital, and agriculture called by President Wilson for a discussion of the economic situation will be held in Washington between Oct. 5 and 10, it was learned today at the White House.

The President wrote today to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, representatives of the leading agricultural associations, investment bankers, and to Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, asking that they submit nominations for delegates representing each group. After receiving this list while on his way to the Pacific Coast, the President will select a list of his own and combine the two.

Forty or forty-five delegates will be chosen. Preliminary arrangements for the conference were discussed at yesterday's Cabinet meeting, and it was said at the White House that the full list of delegates probably would be within a week.

DRUG CLERKS ASK INCREASE

Will Seek Recognition of Union—Beltmakers Are Out.

Local 325 of the United Drug Clerks, comprising drug store workers of Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx, met in the Labor Lyceum on East Eighty-sixth Street last night to consider demands to be submitted to the union by its strike committee. The demands considered were for $50 a week for licensed pharmacists, from $15 to $35 for junior clerks, and $12 for apprentices with less than six months' experience. An 8-hour day and 48-hour week are asked for, as well as recognition of the union.

One thousand members of the Belt Makers' Local of the Fancy Leather Goods Workers' Union went out on strike yesterday morning, following the refusal of the Employers' Association to grant the demands of the union, which are for 30 per cent. increase in wages, 44-hour week, and recognition of the union. Jack Rosenbloom, organizer of the belt makers, said that the union was ready to consider a compromise, but that the employers said that they could not consider any change in wages or hours until next February, as all their goods had been sold on the basis of the present conditions.

While waiting a reply from the employers on their demands for a 44-hour week, $50 weekly wage for tailors, and recognition of the union, the members of the Ladies' Tailors and Alteration Workers' Union of the International Garment Workers are holding meetings and making preparations for a general strike.

Demands for a 44-hour week, wage increase and recognition of the Union are now being formulated by the Ladies' Neckwear Workers' Union of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. A mass meeting is to be held next Monday night in Beethoven Hall, Fifth Street and Third Avenue, at which the demands will be determined.

Morgenthau Inquiry Nearing End.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Hugh Gibson, American Minister to Poland, arrived in Paris tonight from Warsaw to confer with the American delegation at the Peace Conference on Polish affairs. Mr. Gibson said that the commission headed by Henry Morgenthau, which is conducting an inquiry into conditions in Poland, would complete its work in about two weeks.

OPPOSE AN ARMY OF 576,000 MEN

UNIVERSAL TRAINING PLAN

Three Months' Service Deemed Sufficient—Officers Now Promoted by Merit System.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Opposition to an army of 576,000 officers and men developed today from both Republican and Democratic sources, when General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff, appeared before the House Military Affairs Committee to discuss legislation dealing with the future of the army. The War Department's bill would raise the total to 576,000 as compared with 175,000 under the National Defense act of 1916.

As soon as General March mentioned these figures Representative Miller of Washington, Republican, asked what world conditions would make it necessary to have a force of such size. Representative Dent of Alabama, Democrat, former Chairman of the committee, and now the ranking Democrat, made it plain that he intended to make a fight to keep the size of the army down to 175,000. Representative Julius Kahn of California, Republican, suggested that it would be better to take up the matter tomorrow and discussion on this phase of the bill was deferred.

The Chief of Staff explained that the original suggestion of officers who outlined the universal military training policy in the Army Reorganization bill provided an eleven-months' training period, but that this had been discarded as a result of his objection.

"The old idea that it takes three to fifteen years to make a soldier was dispelled by the war. Our plan is not like the Prussian system. The War Department is opposed to that in toto."

Assurance was given by General March that the bill would not interfere with education or farm work of men eligible for service. He said that boys going to school would be ordered to camp in vacation time, while farm boys would be called in Winter when their work was lax.

Basing his calculations on statistics, General March estimated that 793,000 boys reach the age of 19 each year. He said the Government owns seventeen training camps with a capacity of 750,000 men. The plan would be to instruct three classes of three months each annually.

General March said the War Department had done away with the old custom of promoting by seniority, and that General Pershing had first made this change by promoting officers in France through selection. General March also denied that officers would have any reason for fear if they appeared before the committee to urge other plans upon army reorganization than those supported by the War Department.

Printed Here for the First Time and From the Original Text Just Completed by the Author

THIS EXCLUSIVE DOCUMENT, which The New York World will print from day to day, beginning next Sunday, daily thereafter, will show the German side of the war, which has hitherto been shrouded in mystery. Von Ludendorff is the man who planned and carried out Germany's colossal military campaign. He lifts the curtain on the German side of the fight. His picture of the battle at Liege will become real history. He tells of the inner circle's realization that the first Marne defeat smashed all plans for a quick victory and meant extreme sacrifices for the German people. He discloses Germany's serious troubles with Austria, and speaks of the blocking of army efficiency and the loss of public morale following the Russian revolution; also how the entrance of America into the war forced Hindenburg and himself to take control of governmental affairs. These are but a few of the vitally interesting points selected at random from the personal story of Germany.

A BUILDING as modern and up-to-date as architectural efficiency can make it—a building provided with every safety device known to science—and yet not only the *_Equitable Life,_ but numerous other organizations in the Equitable Building, have the foresight and the business acumen to keep their surplus and duplicate business records at Pioneer.

Foresight—because they realize that Pioneer offers them absolute safety—out of the congested district, yet only 7 minutes from Wall Street, right at the Nevins Street subway station. Business acumen—because Pioneer space costs two-thirds less than in Lower Manhattan where good rentals are almost prohibitive in price and difficult to obtain.

The Equitable know that at Pioneer their records are out of the way when not needed—yet quickly available when desired. A telephone call to their clerks at their Pioneer record room will bring the records required in a few moments. And in addition the space that their surplus and duplicate records formerly occupied in their own building may now be utilized for active business operations!

The lesson to big business is obvious. The ability to lease space at Pioneer at a tremendous saving over lower Manhattan office rentals, the ability to increase that space as your business records grow in volume, the knowledge that your records are safely housed, efficiently filed, and systematically kept—recommends Pioneer Record Service to every alert financial or mercantile organization, large or small.

Pioneer specializes in the economical and systematic safekeeping of business records. Complete private record rooms are available and will be equipped to your specifications if desired. Our clients have space ranging from 10,000 square feet to 50 square feet, depending on their needs. Inspect this most modern institution. Consult with our efficiency Engineers—they are ready to help you Pioneer-ize your record-storage problem

KOREANS HURL BOMB AT NEW GOVERNOR

Explodes Under Carriage of Baron Saito, Who Escapes —Many Persons Hurt.

TWO AMERICANS INJURED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—An attempt was made yesterday to assassinate with a bomb Baron Saito, the newly appointed Japanese Governor General of Korea, and his wife, just as they were leaving the railroad station at Seoul. The bomb exploded under the Governor General's carriage. No one was killed, but several persons were wounded, including William Harrison, brother of former Mayor Carter Harrison, and his wife, who were slightly hurt.

Following is the announcement of the affair made by the State Department:

"A dispatch to the department from Seoul, Korea, says a bomb was thrown on Sept. 2 at Governor General Saito and his wife as they were leaving the railway station at Seoul, but that fortunately no one was killed. The bomb exploded under the Governor General's carriage. He was not injured, but several others were wounded by the explosion. William Harrison, brother of Carter Harrison, Parkway Hotel, Chicago, and his wife, received slight flesh wounds. Seoul is reported to be quiet."

The news did not come as any great surprise in Washington quarters, where the Korean question has been closely followed because of the vigor with which the movement for independence is being urged. The appointment of Baron Saito as Governor General, and of Mr. Midzuno as Director General of Administration in Korea was made only a few weeks ago, and the attack upon Baron Saito and his wife was made almost immediately after he had arrived to take up his new duties.

The appointment was part of the Japanese Government's scheme for supplanting the former military governorship of Korea with a civil administration. Baron Saito succeeded Marshal Hasegawa, while Mr. Midzuno succeeded Yamagata. As soon as the Embassy here had announced these changes, Dr. Syngman Rhee, President of the "Republic of Korea," issued a statement in which, speaking for Korea, he asserted that these changes meant nothing, and that Korea would be satisfied with nothing less than complete independence. A few days later Dr. Rhee issued at Washington a formal proclamation of the independence of Korea.

BAKER PRAISES CHEMISTS.

None Did Greater War Work, He Tells Philadelphia Convention.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—High tribute was paid to the chemists of America for the important part they played in the success of the war by Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, in an address today at the fifty-eighth annual convention of the American Chemical Society here.

Secretary Baker deplored the terrible waste of war, but declared himself ready to repeat the last two years if it again became necessary for the existence of liberty. He discussed the military system to be inaugurated which will keep the nation in a state of preparedness. "The soberest, sanest, least criminal aggregation of its size that ever stood together on this planet," was a tribute he paid to the American Expeditionary Force.

"I am here," he declared, "because the Government owes a debt of appreciation to the chemists of the United States. One-third of the chemists of America were in the military service of this country; one-third were in essential industries, and the other third in war work at home.

"While comparisons are impossible, I do not believe any profession contributed a larger portion of its members to the military service, or did a greater work in wartime.

"The doctors as a class made a great contribution to the success of the war. This is the first war in history in which deaths fom disease were less than deaths from battle wounds.

"In the Spanish and Russo-Japanese wars the disease and death rates were made equal. In this war we have changed that. This was due to the fact that in the medical profession as in the chemical profession, the leaders forgot their former activities to put on the uniform and serve the nation.

"The chemical societies presented a very excellent attitude on preparedness before the war."

NURSES STUCK TO POST.

American Girls Refused to Abandon Charges After Armenian Massacre.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 12, (Correspondence of Associated Press.)—Two American nurses, Miss Margaret Mack of Hillburn, N. Y., and Miss Ruth Stuart of New York City, working for the American Commission for Relief in the Near East, declined to abandon the sick and wounded at Shusha, Armenia, after having survived a massacre by Tartars of 700 of the Christian inhabitants of the town, according to a letter just received here by Major David G. Arnold of Providence, R. I., Director of the commission. The letter read:

"Our doctors and nurses were in the midst of the fight, but were unharmed. On advice from General Beach I recalled the two nurses. They came reluctantly, and begged to remain at their station, as there was an urgent need for them among the survivors. The spirit Miss Mack and Miss Stuart have shown has been splendid, and I felt that they should be allowed to return if they went as volunteers, understanding the serious situation. They signed papers to the effect that they knew the danger, and that they were returning to their work at their own request."

Union Replies to Master Painters.

The Painters District Council has put an advertisement in New York papers in answer to a circular from the Association of Master Painters asking the public to refrain from having any painting done at this time. The advertisement declares that persistent propaganda is being waged by the association to maintain chaotic conditions in the painting industry brought about by the recently settled strike. The advertisement asks the rent payers to insist that landlords make necessary repairs regardless of any agitation at present.

FINDS DR. SMITH IN ERROR

Commissioner Hirshfield's Report in Case of Injured Fireman.

It was conceded yesterday by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield in a report to the Mayor that Dr. Joseph E. Smith, Chief Medical Officer of the Fire Department, made a mistake when he ordered back to duty Fireman Henry F. Williams of Engine Company 16 when the latter was still suffering from the effects of injuries to his spine received when he was knocked off his engine by a wagon of the American Railroad Express Company. The Commissioner's action in the matter was made public yesterday and was brought out through charges made in the newspapers by William Bullock of the Good Government Bureau.

Williams was injured on Jan. 12 and is now in Bellevue Hospital with a fractured spine and internal injuries. On March 20 Dr. Smith ordered the fireman back to active duty, although at that time his body was incased in a plaster jacket and Bellevue physicians had asked that he be excused as unfit. Against the wishes of the doctors, Williams was made to report to Dr. Smith in person. Fire Commissioner Drennan took Dr. Smith's opinion and told Williams to obey the doctor's orders. He did so, collapsed in the engine house, and was sent back to Bellevue.

This condition of affairs became known to the City Administration months ago, for Commissioner Hirshfield investigated the circumstances in May. Yesterday he received a letter from the Mayor asking him to investigate the story to which Bullock gave publicity.

The Commissioner of Accounts found that Dr. Smith acted in good faith in ordering the fireman back to duty, as the order was not issued until Williams had been on sick leave for fifty days, but that it was possible that the doctor made a mistake.

Williams is suing the express company for $25,000 damages. The Commissioner told the Mayor that the implied charge that the express company was behind the ordering of Williams back to work was unfounded, and he pointed out that the company is operated by the United States Government.

Divorce for Actress Recommended.

A decree of divorce for Mrs. Beatrice Wilkes Rosenweig of Rockaway Park, L. I., a motion picture actress, from John Bennett Rosenweig of New York was recommended yesterday to Chancellor Walker by Vice Chancellor Lewis, before whom the case was tried in Jersey City.

She was married to Rosenweig June 22, 1914. She said she was 19 years old. They lived in Passaic until her husband deserted her in July, 1914 without cause. Her husband, she testified, writes plays under the name of John Bennett. Rosenweig filed a general denial, but did not appear at the trial.

MANNHEIM FINE A GIFT.

Payment Made to France by a Private German Individual.

BERLIN, Sept. 2, (via London.)—The indemnity of 1,000,000 marks paid to France for the killing of Sergeant Paul Mannheim in Berlin last July was the gift of a private person desirous of seeing the matter settled, according to the Vossiche Zeitung. It says the money was paid on the express understanding that it should be handed to the Red Cross.

A Havas dispatch from Paris on Aug. 31 announced that Germany had paid France an indemnity of 1,000,000f. in the Mannheim case, and that the French Government would make a gift of this amount to the International Red Cross. Reports of the negotiations over the case previously stated that Germany, while willing to make monetary compensation to the extent of 100,000f. to the family of the soldier, was standing out against the payment of the larger sum as indemnity.

GRACE CAMERON SUES.

Prima Donna Alleges Deception in Action to Annul Marriage.

Grace Cameron, a singer, filed suit in the Supreme Court yesterday to annul her marriage to Lon C. O'Connor, head of the brokerage firm of L. C. O'Connor & Co. of 512 Fifth Avenue, on the ground of misrepresentation by her husband.

Miss Cameron said she was married in New York in 1904 to Horace Kenworthy, and on May 21, 1914, she obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from him in California. She alleged that before her marriage to O'Connor in Minnesota, Dec. 3, 1914, he represented that he had communicated with the clerk of the California court and was informed a final decree had been entered.

She asserted that O'Connor knew this information was not true and that he deceived her deliberately to induce her to marry him. She said that the final decree was not entered until July, 1915, and that her marriage to O'Connor was not valid under the laws of Minnesota.

Graves for Public Control of Forests.

BETHLEHEM, N. H., Sept. 3.—Public control of private forests was advocated before the New England Forestry Conference today by Colonel Henry S. Graves, Chief of the United States Forest Service. Such control, he said, would serve the double purpose of reducing the fire hazards and of insuring a satisfactory reproduction of desirable species upon the vast areas cut over each year.

"The Price is too Low"—

Read below what a leading dealer said the other day regarding Firestone Tubes:

"Some of the best people who come in here, who haven't had experience with Firestones, can hardly believe that they are first quality because the price is too low. Better tell them about it in your advertising."

And we have heard about the same thing from a number of other dealers lately.

Firestone accepts the compliment.

The few who don't know Firestone quality will soon learn.

The fact that Firestone is selling tubes at the rate of 20,000 a day indicates how many car owners do know that they are first quality. Firestone has only one tube returned out of every ten thousand. We know of no other such record.

No tube, foreign or domestic, equals the Firestone, either in the Red or the Gray type.

Just the looks of it, the feel of it, the action of it proves the Firestone superior when compared with any other.

There is no better rubber—and Firestone gives more of it.

Firestones have a toughness, a heat resistance, a come-back, that only Firestone methods can give to rubber.

Then why is the price so low?

The Firestone group of rubber specialists over in Singapore is the answer—backed by the Firestone buying power and organizing ability.

To get the best and be able to give most for the money, Firestone goes to the source of things.

Rubber represents the main element of cost in a tube. The item of labor is less in proportion than in a tire.

So you get the benefit of the finest rubber possible and more of it in a Firestone tube because Firestone has saved for you at the source of supply.

That explains why "the price is too low," as the dealer said.

Firestone capital is ready for any enterprise that means travel on rubber at a lower cost. Firestone men go any distance to make good their pledge of

MILL OWNERS SUE PALMER AND GARVAN

Magazine Publishers and New York Tribune Also Accused In $850,000 Libel Suits.

DRUG PLANTS WERE SEIZED

Forstmann and Huffmann Co. Also Declares Concern Was Not Enemy Owned.

Four libel suits against Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian Francis P. Garvan, the Curtis Publishing Co., publishers of the Saturday Evening Post; the Frank A. Munsey Co., publishing Munsey's Magazine, and The New York Tribune, asking for an aggregate of $850,000 in damages, were filed yesterday in the Federal District Court. The suits were begun by Cohen, Gutman and Richter of 111 Broadway, counsel for the Forstmann and Huffmann Co., and Julius Forstmann individually, owners of woolen mills at Passaic, N. J.

Three of the suits by the Forstmann and Huffmann Co., are for $250,000 each. One joins the Curtis Publishing Co. with Attorney General Palmer. The others join the Frank A. Munsey Co. and Mr. Palmer and The Tribune and Mr. Garvan. The individual suit by Mr. Forstmann is against The Tribune for $100,000.

The complaints are based on allegations made by Mr. Palmer and Mr. Garvan in a series of articles that appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, Munsey's Magazine and The Tribune. In the articles, the complaint asserts, it was stated that the woolen plant of the plaintiff had been taken over as enemy property by the Alien Property Custodian. This is denied, and it is maintained that a large majority of the stock of the company for years has been held by American citizens.

The complaints against the Curtis Publishing Company, the Frank A. Munsey Company, and Mr. Palmer allege that the articles complained of were written by Mr. Palmer and appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, July 26 last, under the title "Enemy Property in the United States," and in Munsey's Magazine for July, 1918, as "The Vast Amount of Enemy Property in the United States."

Say Garvan Edited Article.

The suits against The Tribune are based on an article written by Stanley Frost and said to have been edited by Mr. Garvan, which was published May 7, following an advertisement printed April 25.

The complaint says the Forstmann & Huffmann Company, "has for many years been one of six great woolen plants centered at Passaic, N. J., constituting with five smaller concerns, two lace factories and numerous silk, velvet, and kindred business establishments, the most important aggregation of textile mills in the United States.

"For many years the complainant has done an annual business aggregating several million dollars, and has regularly given employment to several thousand persons," the complaint continues. "At all times for many years a majority of the shares of the capital stock of the plant have been and still are owned by citizens of the United States, and at all times the complainant's business has been conducted with scrupulous loyalty and fidelity to the interests and welfare of the United States Government.

"During the many years in which the complainant has been carrying on said business, complainant has developed and built up a valuable trade reputation and good-will, and the success and prosperity of complainant's business has at all times depended, not only in the matter of procuring business but also in the matter of banking and trade credits, upon the maintenance of its trade reputation and good-will and, especially during the World War, upon both the fact and the reputation of conducting its business with scrupulous loyalty and fidelity."

In the complaint against Mr. Garvan and The Tribune it was alleged that the publication printed an article concerning the embargo placed on wool by Great Britain which released American wool only on pledges that none of it should reach Germany.

"The Textile Alliance was formed to see that these pledges were kept," the alleged article continued. "The Germans, under Hugo Schmidt and Stoehr, set to work to beat the game, and the Botany Mills and the Forstmann & Huffmann Company were used, to quote one of Schmidt's reports, as 'shove-in-betweens.'"

Mr. Garvan, it was asserted, said the articles were "accurate and entirely justified by present conditions."

Suit for Vindication.

In a statement Cohen, Gutman & Richter said:

"The articles, the complaints allege, constitute aspersions upon the complainants' loyalty during the war, and with being enemy owned and operated in the interest of Germany. In the Munsey article, written by Mr. Palmer, it was stated that the woolen plant of the Forstmann & Huffmann Company had been taken over as enemy property by the Alien Property Custodian. These charges, the complaint alleges, are false. The plant, it is alleged, has never been taken over by the Government as enemy property or otherwise.

"Messrs. Robert H. McCarter, Julius Henry Cohen, and J. W. Rufus Besson, counsel for Mr. Forstmann and the Forstmann & Huffmann Company, said that while no suits had been instituted when these charges were first made, as it was felt that they were possibly mere mistakes, the constant repetition of the charges, with the apparent authority given by the names of Attorney General Palmer and Alien Property Custodian Garvan, have made it impossible for their clients to remain silent longer.

"The suits have been brought to vindicate Mr. Forstmann and his company from what they regard as an infamous and damaging charge."

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1835 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form.

In 1883 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form, with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This product HORLICK named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps in any climate has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

SWANN MAY SUMMON TRANSIT OFFICERS

FOUR WITNESSES HEARD

Detective Testifies That Nothing Came of His Offer to Furnish Strikebreakers.

Officers of the Interborough Company may be called as witnesses before the Extraordinary Grand Jury which is inquiring into District Attorney Swann's charges that the company and members of the Brotherhood of Interborough Employes conspired to raise the subway and elevated railroad fares. This became known yesterday afternoon following a session of the Grand Jury during which four witnesses were examined in connection with the conspiracy charges.

District Attorney Swann had declared previously upon several occasions that no officer of the company would be called unless he signed a waiver of immunity. He reiterated this yesterday, but admitted that Interborough officials might be called and asked to sign such waivers. This step would depend upon the developments at the inquiry, he said.

George D. Barnitz, Vice President of a Washington detective agency and formerly a Detective Sergeant on the New York police force, was the chief witness before the Extraordinary Grand Jury yesterday. Mr. Barnitz is believed to have been questioned about an alleged offer of strikebreakers to the Interborough Company which, it is said, was refused.

Mr. Barnitz, in statements to District Attorney Swann and Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley, who is conducting the traction strike investigation, said that on the Friday before the strike he went to the Interborough office as a representative of the detective agency. He said that he saw an officer of the company and told him that if it was desired to hire any strike-breakers he would like to supply them through his agency.

No definite answer was given, Mr. Barnitz said. The reply, he asserted, was to the effect that it wasn't certain that there would be a strike and that even if there was one it was doubtful whether any strike-breakers would be engaged. Mr. Barnitz said that he told the Interborough representative that he would remain in the city Saturday and Sunday and remain in touch with them, in case there was any change of plans.

Mr. Barnitz, it was said at the District Attorney's office, was known to the Interborough officials through his work in the strike of 1916, when he was a detective in the New York Police Department. He was instrumental in obtaining the conviction of several men who were concerned in a dynamite plot at 110th Street.

John Harrigan, the first President of the Brotherhood of Interborough Employes, the union which was formed as a result of the 1916 strike, was also a witness yesterday. He was questioned in detail about the formation of the union. Harrigan, in previous statements to the District Attorney, said that he had written the first constitution and bylaws of the brotherhood.

Frank Hedley, General Manager of the Interborough, and James L. Quackenbush, counsel for the company, personally passed on the brotherhood's new constitution, Harrigan told Assistant District Attorney Talley. The union officer was asked about the clause in the constitution providing for arbitration of any disputes which might arise between the employes and the company. This clause was never invoked during the recent strike, the District Attorney contends.

Two other employes—both members of the brotherhood—were witnesses before the Extraordinary Grand Jury yesterday. Their testimony related to the organization of the brotherhood.

Several new witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear today when the inquiry will be resumed. The District Attorney is going further into the failure to arbitrate the differences which led up to the recent strike.

RAILWAY HEADS TO MEET.

To Discuss Recent Legislative Proposals at Capitol Tomorrow.

It was learned in the financial district yesterday that a special meeting of members of the Special Committee of the Association of Railway Executives, which is headed by Thomas DeWitt Cuyler, has been called for tomorrow in Washington for a discussion of matters touching upon recent proposals for remedial railroad legislation which have been made, both before the House Committee on Interstate Commerce and in the form of bills. While no official confirmation could be obtained, it was also learned that the committee will pay particular attention to those suggestions which have been made proposing a definite Government guarantee of a fixed return on the transportation properties.

This was one of the features of the so-called Warfield plan, which suggests that the Interstate Commerce Commission fix rates so that a set amount of 6 per cent. might be the return on the total railway investment, and it is believed in some railroad quarters that the executives who will meet in Washington may consider the advisability of organizing a campaign to defeat the features of the plan which they deem wrong.

While the special meeting on Friday was not formally announced, it was also learned yesterday that among the railway executives who will attend are the following. Robert S. Lovett, head of the Union Pacific; Julius Kruttschnitt, President of the Southern Pacific Company; Howard Elliot, President of the Northern Pacific Railway Company; A. H. Smith, head of the New York Central Railroad; A. P. Thom, Counsel for the Association of Railway Executives, and its Chairman, Mr. Cuyler.

It is also understood that there will be a general discussion of the association's own suggestions for legislation. In local railroad circles the belief seems to be general that no great fight will have to be made against the Cummins bill, as it was submitted as tentative and will probably be so rearranged and amended in coming weeks as to lose a large part of its individuality before any definite action is taken upon it.

At the same time the Warfield plan is recognized as having attracted a good deal of attention, and it was asserted that some of those who do not believe that it offers the real solution of the railroad problem have been persistent in their demands for a concerted movement against it.

ASKS AID FOR SHORT LINES.

Wholesale Liquidations the Alternative, Association Tells Committee.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Officers of the American Short Line Railroad Association asked the House Interstate Commerce Committee today for legislation to direct the Interstate Commerce Commission to give preferred consideration to the financial needs of the short line roads.

"If the lines do not receive consideration at the hands of Congress," they said "there will be wholesale liquidations."

L. S. Cass of Waterloo, Iowa, principal owner of two Iowa short line roads, urged that the Interstate Commerce Commission be given the power to prescribe the division of rates to be made between the short and trunk lines. Shipping services performed by the short and trunk lines are identical, he said, except as to mileage. Thirty-six per cent. of a rate, he declared, is the cost of freight movement over the rails, and he urged that this part be prorated according to mileage between the two roads, with the remaining 64 per cent. divided equally between them.

THE MAGAZINE OF A RE-MADE WORLD

FICTION is the most powerful and therefore the most important form of Literature that civilized man has thus far developed. The best and most appealing fiction is Today's History with the human pulse-beat throbbing all the way through it. No more sharply defined example can be cited of the particular kind of fiction that has made THE RED BOOK MAGAZINE distinctive as a dramatized monthly record of present-day life in America than the novel—

"What's the World Coming To?"

By RUPERT HUGHES

which begins its serial course in the September number. It pictures a great people struggling with a revolutionized social, financial, political, industrial and economic life in which mushroom fortunes, frenzied living, national prohibition, equal suffrage, and the absorption of the hordes of returned soldiers are picturesque elements. Its New York is the brilliant Babylonish Manhattan of Today. Its Texas oil fields are so true to actual conditions that many a reader of this serial might get a clearer and deeper insight into their controlling forces than could be secured by a week's residence on the ground.

By exclusive arrangement the successive novels by Rupert Hughes will continue to be published serially, as during the past six years (see list in panel opposite), first and solely in

The Red Book Magazine

The Rupert Hughes Novels of the past six years published in

The Red Book Magazine:

"What Will People Say?"
"Empty Pockets"
"The Thirteenth Commandment"
"We Can't Have Everything"
"The Unpardonable Sin"
"The Cup of Fury"

This principle of dramatizing the thought, the emotion, the action of Today—the greatest hour of Reconstruction that the world has ever known—is applied throughout THE RED BOOK MAGAZINE. The greatest artists of fictional writing are contributing to THE RED BOOK MAGAZINE. They are keen and shrewd analysts of financial, industrial and economic conditions, no less than social conditions. They see without prejudice, and they write as they see. Their stories reflect the dominant trend of national thought and feeling. They are narrative dramas of individual struggles and emotions, all influenced by Today's Ideas.

The readers of THE RED BOOK MAGAZINE find a virile interest in such fiction—because it is true to modern life down to the minute. The sheer merit of its inherent appeal and its well-calculated ability to attract the interest of live men and women increases the number of readers each month.

The fiction of THE RED BOOK MAGAZINE is a Constructive Force in the social, business and political life of this new America in which we live, for it deals with live ideas and vital conditions—the stuff with which Today is weaving the Fabric of Tomorrow.

WHO WILL OWN THE RAILROADS?

If we can imagine all the elements of railroad control assembled at some suitable place of meeting and prepared to transact business under the provisions of the Cummins bill, the picture presented would be this: There would be directors chosen by the owners of the roads to serve on the boards of the twenty or more corporations organized under the district plan set forth in the bill. Of these directors representing owners there would be seven or eleven on each board. With them would sit two directors chosen by labor and two directors named by the Transportation Board, that is, by the Government.

In proceeding to business these directors would find that they must reckon with these further very powerful elements of control: First, the Transportation Board of five members appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate; second, the Interstate Commerce Commission with most of its old powers and some new ones; third, the Federal Congress, actually in supreme control, as it always has been. This is not all. Provision is made for a committee of wages and working conditions, composed of eight members, of whom four will represent labor and four the railway companies. The committee decides wage questions by a majority vote, and if it cannot agree the Transportation Board will render final judgment. That is to say, the ultimate decision upon all complaints relating to wages and conditions of labor rests with the Government.

Consolidations and new capital issues must have the approval of the Transportation Board or the Interstate Commerce Commission; in times of traffic congestion the Transportation Board may divert traffic over any route it may select and may prescribe joint use of terminals and other facilities. Rates will be under the control of the Commerce Commission, as at present. They are to be fixed in the various districts by taking into consideration "the interest "of the public, the shippers, the "wages of labor, the cost of maintenance and operation, including "taxes, and a fair return upon the "value of the property used." This value is to be determined by the Commerce Commission. If any road earns more than "a fair return upon the value of its property," the excess is to be paid to the Transportation Board, which is to devote one-half of the excess to making provisions for the welfare of labor, including as one element in that welfare a system of profit-sharing. The other half of the excess goes into a fund "expended "by the board in the purchase of "equipment to be leased to the rail-"roads under proper terms or to be "lent to carriers unable to provide "themselves with proper equipment." That is, the roads will enjoy the privilege of paying a rental for the use of property bought with their own money.

Under the Cummins plan, therefore, it appears that the owners of the railroad property of the country will have no power of decision upon important and vital questions. Instead of putting the roads into the hands of the workingmen employed in their service, as proposed in the Plumb Plan, this puts them altogether into the control of Government boards and commissions. That may be just, safe, and right; it may be for the public welfare, possibly for the welfare of the roads themselves. The owners and managers of the railway systems are prepared for a very full measure of Government control; they expect it; they consent to it. There remains, however, a question of very considerable moment. Where is the capital coming from to build new railways, to extend present lines, to provide equipment and facilities in case the moiety of excess profits in the hands of the Transportation Board proves to be inadequate?

The answer to this question is in the keeping of the Government commissions constituted or continued under the bill. They are to determine what is "the fair value" of the roads; they are to make rates; they are to have the final say about wages; they are, in all important matters, the arbiters of the fortune and the fate of the railways. The Government will not provide new capital for railway purposes. If the boards and commissions administer their trust in a way to fill the minds of investors with distrust as to the security of or the return upon railway investments, it is very plain that an era of starvation and deterioration for the country's greatest industry, upon which it is dependent, would be opened by the enactment of this measure.

Comforted and sustained by the hope that political control of the railroads may be so wisely guided that these evils will be averted, the country and the owners of the railway systems may congratulate themselves upon two welcome provisions of Senator Cummins's bill. The first is that Government operation will cease and the railroads be returned to private management within a month after the enactment of the measure. The second is that, in return for benefits and advantages granted, railway labor must give up the privilege of striking. The attempt of any person in defiance of a finding of the wage committee approved by the Transportation Board, or a finding of the board itself when appealed to in case of a tie, is to be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both. This applies not only to wage earners, but to the officers and managers of the companies. Interruption of traffic and transportation by strikes and lockouts is thus put, where it always should have been, in the category of punishable offenses. This is a very substantial gain for the public. Senator Cummins declares that his committee sought a solution of the problem "that would accrue to the advantage "of the railway owners, the public, "and the railway workers." Inasmuch as the powers and rights usually associated with ownership are transferred to Government commissions by the bill, it remains to be seen how substantial will be the benefits conferred upon the railroad owners.

THE REJECTED REPORT.

Mr. James P. Holland, President of the State Federation of Labor, appointed in July a committee of members of trade unions under the jurisdiction of that body to confer with representatives of various industrial, commercial, financial, and other business enterprises for the purpose of making plans to reduce the cost of living. That committee, on Sept. 1, made a report whose sound sense and patriotism, in line with Mr. Wilson's message of Aug. 25, so generally praised by his countrymen, in regard to the threatened strike of railway shopmen, met general approval. The committee found that the high cost of living was due to the increased cost of production and the diminution of that production by strikes, most of which had been "provoked by radical "agitators who have not the interests "of the toilers at heart, but who seek "to promote industrial warfare for "the purpose of destroying our present economic system and substitut-"ing 'industrial ownership by the "proletariat.'" Such strike leaders should be expelled from the Federation. Employers exploiting labor should be disciplined by employers. There should be "a suspension of "struggling for class and party ad-"vantage."

In words that went to the root of the matter, organized labor was asked to "exert itself to the utmost to in-"crease the production of essential "commodities and thereby lower the "cost to the producer, to enable him "to lower the cost to the consumer." A truce of strikes and every workman working his hardest to increase production, and thereby lower the cost of living, was the sane essential doctrine of this report.

"It is labor's duty, and it should "be its pleasure, to produce as much "in eight hours as it formerly pro-"duced in ten or even more. * * * "There must be intensified produc-"tion. * * * Our material reward "will come through decreasing the "cost of living, thus automatically "increasing our wages." As organized labor put forth its full effort in the war, "so it should now resolve "not to spare itself in relieving the "world from the menace of economic "ruin."

What influences, what radical aims or remonstrances, what doctrinairism of rule by the proletariat induced Mr. Holland to reject in anger and disgust these conclusions of entire correctness and moved their union to expel the two labor unionists whose names were signed to the report? Divers labor leaders are represented as saying that the patriotic proposal to eschew strikes for six months is "preposterous," "nonsensical," "subversive of the rights of labor." "Labor is no longer to let itself be "exploited under the plea of patriot-"ism and democracy," says one of them. Does the New York Federation of Labor deny the inexorable economic truth that production must be increased? Does it refuse to aid President Wilson in his wise and resolute efforts to diminish the cost of living? Does it encourage the fomenters of strikes and the disobedience of members of a union to their leaders? Does it set itself apart from the overwhelming sentiment of the country?

It cannot be doubted that Mr. Wilson and Congress will note attentively the singular views and proceedings of some magnates of the New York State Federation of Labor.

STRIKES AND EXPORTS.

Those who are threatening to "paralyze" the steel industry by a strike, and all who are inclined to support them, should take thought about the effect of such paralysis upon our large and growing export trade in iron and steel, which has even invaded the British home market. Production has been increasing steadily in the last few months, and about 20 per cent. of the output is sold abroad, not only in markets formerly controlled by British manufacturers—as in India, where imports from America have risen from the old 3 per cent. of the total to 41 per cent.—but also at the very doors of English and Welsh factories. In May our exports were 447,500 tons and those of Great Britain only 208,179. The quantity shipped to foreign consumers rose to 544,580 tons in June. This may be compared with an average of about 250,000 before the war.

Prices are much higher in England than in the United States. This was pointed out in the House of Commons a few weeks ago by Sir Auckland Geddes. Steel rails were $85 a ton there, he said, and only $50 here; $87.50 must be paid for English ship plates, while the price in America was $70, and British pig iron, at the base of the industry, was sold at $40, against $30 for iron in this country. A tariff preference of 12½ per cent. in favor of the British product does not prevent sales of large quantities of American hardware in Australia, where some are now calling for an increase of the preferential rate in order that the mother country's undersold manufacturers may be protected. American rails have been sold in England at $7 a ton below the British price, our steel billets are offered there at a larger reduction, and even the local market for the tin plate of Wales cannot be held. The price here is $7 a box, while that of the Welsh product is $8.50 there. High ocean freight rates do not prevent competition, and an English order for 300,000 boxes was recently divided by American and Welsh manufacturers.

At the annual meeting of a prominent English company, on the 28th ult., the officers said that America was selling steel there below the company's cost of production. This cost has been increased by strikes in coal mines and elsewhere, and by such wage additions as are demanded by those who talk of paralyzing the steel industry here. While paralysis would seriously affect construction work in our own country, it would check a great and profitable export trade. The changes demanded would so increase cost of production that foreign manufacturers might regain their old export markets at our expense. Here is something for organizers of strike disturbances to think about.

THE PRIMARIES.

About a quarter of the registered voters of New York City took the trouble to go to the primaries on Tuesday, a rather worse showing than has been witnessed since the direct primary came into existence, when the vote of both parties is taken into consideration. The direct primary as a panacea for political evils has gone into eclipse.

It was, presumably, a vote cast by the organization. The thoughtful citizen, the bulwark of our liberties, didn't know there was a primary, as he usually doesn't, or found it too much trouble to walk around the corner and vote. Nevertheless, there are encouraging signs about this closely limited primary. There are people within the organization who are filled with contempt and dislike for the organization, and they demonstrated that they had the intelligence to mark their ballots to express that contempt and dislike. There were too many striking divergences in the balloting of Tuesday to leave room for any other conclusion.

Take, for instance, the vote for Supreme Court Justices in the Manhattan and Bronx Judicial District. Justice Newburger, to whom Tammany denied a renomination, refused to make a contest in the Democratic primary. If he had consented the result might have been awakening, for Stephen J. Madigan, an official in the City Controller's office, who entered the race at the eleventh hour, polled more than half the vote cast for the organization nominee Luce, and nearly two-thirds of the vote polled by Untermyer, for whom Justice Newburger had been set aside. In addition, it is reported, thousands of votes for Newburger were written on the ballot, though he was not a candidate. It is conceivable that if the Justice had been willing to make a contest he would have swamped Mr. Untermyer. The vote for Madigan was largely a protest against the setting aside of Newburger. Untermyer, it will be noticed, ran nearly 5,000 votes behind Luce, his colleague on the ticket.

On the Republican side the nomination of Major La Guardia over the chronic candidate for everything, William M. Bennett, was gratifying, for there is no question about the relative fitness of the two men. All the same, the unexpected closeness of the result is a satisfactory sign of the way in which the voters have learned to use the ballot. Bennett, unfit as he may be, unattractive as a candidate, with all his imperfections on his head, was undoubtedly voted for because he stood in the minds of Queens and Brooklyn voters as a stick wherewith to beat the Republican machine. He does not live in either borough, so local pride had nothing to do with it. The anti-organization organization men, so to speak, deliberately determined to beat any man, even the most sensible and fit, who might be put forward by the machine, and to that end they were willing to vote for anybody.

Reuben E. Haskell ran for County Judge in Kings, though the organization had renominated Judge Dike and nominated Frederick S. Martyn, there being two vacancies to be filled on that bench. Haskell was nominated by more than 9,000 majority, swamping Martyn. County Chairman Livingston says plaintively that this overturn was due to the fact that "issues were allowed to be injected "into the judiciary contest which "were entirely foreign." What he means is that Haskell, as Congressman, refused to take orders from the Anti-Saloon League, and hence was forced to occupy the position of being a "wet" candidate. It was on the prohibition issue, then, that Haskell defeated a candidate as irreproachable as himself.

Taking all these things into consideration, we must conclude that if the McCooey ticket won it was because the majority wanted it to win—preferred the McCooey organization to the insurgent one. In one case, where a candidate for the Supreme Court, George J. S. Dowling, stood neither for the McCooey side nor for the anti-McCooey side, he defeated McCooey's candidate by more than 2,000 majority. That is significant; it seems to mean that McCooey could be overthrown if the public had more confidence in his organized opponents.

THE LAND FORCES.

When he appeared before the Senate Committee on Military Affairs on Tuesday Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, a National Guard officer who distinguished himself as commander of the 27th (New York) Division in France, said that he was opposed to the Baker-March bill which provides for a regular army of 500,000 men and proposes a system of universal training for young men from 19 to 21 years of age. Apparently General Pershing approves of this bill in the main, for the Chief of Staff, General March, intimated to the Senate committee on Aug. 7 that the measure was based upon "a bill prepared at General Headquarters in France." The Chief of Staff added that General Pershing "did not favor it in toto," and had lacked the time to study its details. The presumption is that the Headquarters plan was prepared at the suggestion of the commander of the American Expeditionary Forces. Upon his return to this country the Senate committee will, of course, ask him to appear and give it the benefit of his experience in France in organizing and training the composite army in the field, regulars, nationals, and guardsmen, and directing its operations. The supreme authority upon the kind of military force the United States should have in the future is General John J. Pershing.

The testimony of General O'Ryan was valuable because he represents the National Guard as no other officer in the country does, and because he proved himself the able leader of one of the best American divisions in France. It is true that in what he said to the committee he sometimes reflected a feeling of National Guard officers that they did not have a "square deal" from Headquarters in France. Upon that point General Pershing will be glad to speak when his turn comes. He is no friend to favoritism. He may have had a preference for West Pointers of proved ability, men who had won their spurs, but he is so good a disciplinarian and has so quick an eye for merit that it is hard to believe he consciously discriminated against officers of the National Guard and the National Army. Some of his subordinates may have done so, and it is doubtless true, as National Guardsmen say, that there were instances of incompetence in the regular army. But surely the same thing could be said of the National Guard. It would be unfortunate if ill feeling between these two branches of the service, which covered themselves with glory in the field, were permitted to have any weight in deliberations to provide the nation with an adequate system of defense.

There should be only one question at issue, and that is the strength of the regular army. Some plan of universal military training will be adopted unless the lesson of the Great War has been completely lost upon the American people. The Chamberlain-Kahn bill would eventually fix the complement of the regular army at about half the strength proposed in the Baker-March bill. Both measures provide for universal training. Evidently General O'Ryan would cut the regular army to an irreducible minimum. Summaries of his testimony are not explicit upon that detail; apparently he did not commit himself. He condemns what he calls the "professional," that is to say the standing army system, and thinks that drillmasters for a citizen soldiery could be easily found among those officers who served in the National Army and in the National Guard during the war. But these are peace times, and in a period of industrial prosperity it might be difficult to find many qualified instructors outside the regular army who would be willing to devote themselves to the training of the raw material.

In the discussion of the general subject in Washington and elsewhere it would be well to recognize the fact that the regular army has always contributed powerfully to the winning of our wars, and to consider that in the marking-time period before the world settles down to tranquillity and peace it might be a dangerous experiment to try to worry along with a very small regular army.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Devotion at Its Highest.

Few more moving tales of either history or fiction have been told than that of a husband in an Illinois village on the Northwestern Railway who deliberately, or at any rate intentionally, gave his life this week, not to save that of his wife, but merely, and quite unnecessarily, that he might share the death from which he could not save her.

The circumstances are that as the pair were crossing the railway track the woman's foot caught between one of the rails and a plank beside it. An express train moving at full speed was approaching when this happened, and, for reasons which are not easy to understand, though similar accidents have occurred before, neither the woman's own efforts nor those of her husband and of another man who came to his assistance sufficed to free the prisoner. Yet the two men must have had at least several seconds in which to accomplish a seemingly not impossible task, for it is said that when the woman saw that she was not going to be released in time to escape the onrushing train she begged her husband, for the sake of their two children and his own mother, to step back out of danger.

Why he and his helper could not, and did not, drag her away from the track, even at the cost to her of broken bones or a mutilated foot, is not explained, but they did not, so it must be assumed that they could not, and the husband, saying, "I stay with you, Mary!" clasped her in his arms and a moment later both were under the engine's wheels, torn to pieces. The other man lingered so long, close to the two victims, that he also was struck and severely injured.

Reason and Instinct in Conflict.

Viewed from the standpoint of cold reason and what is called common sense, the action of the husband in the strange episode just described was worse than foolish, because it was both needless and useless. It was even distinctly reprehensible because it involved the abandonment of responsibilities and obligations the importance of which was such that they were not forgotten by the trapped woman in the midst of a peril she thoroughly understood and appreciated. But the case is not one to be settled by reason—at least not by the reason that counts values after the manner of everyday life.

What the husband did may have been folly, but it was folly of a kind that instinct recognizes as heroic and almost divine—as coming in the realm of that higher expediency which so often scorns and contradicts the lower. Not to have made the sacrifice of his life would have been justifiable, and yet, had the wife died and the husband lived, he would have had, if at all sensitive, the horror of survival that many a sea captain has avoided by refusing rescue after his ship went down, not because he caused, or could have prevented, the wreck, but merely because the traditions of his service forbade him to live when even a part of his passengers had been lost.

And was the husband's sacrifice of his life really useless? If the wife could speak she might not say so—she might admit that it spared him the culminating agony of such a fate as hers.

Their Best by No Means Bad.

Perhaps there is nothing that comes nearer—which is not to say near, by any means—excusing or explaining why people of a certain sort so often say, "You can't believe what you see in the papers!" as does the occasional inaccuracy of the Weather Bureau's "local forecasts." As a matter of fact, of course, and with good reason, everybody does believe the printed news of the day, not because it is always correct, but because experience has proved it to be far more than usually—almost always, indeed—either true or an approximation to truth as close as fallible mortals can attain through vigorous effort and honest intention.

As for the local forecasts, they, too, are far more often right than the popular judgment credits them with being, but their reputation suffers from the fact that the successes of the Government prophets pass unnoticed, while such failures as they made in this vicinity all through the first half of this week invariably get a lot of indignant or derisive attention.

Certainly Monday and Tuesday were not "fair," and much of yesterday was worse than "cloudy." In other words, for three days, in this immediate vicinity, the forecasts were wrong and utterly wrong. But how many critics of the bureau took the trouble to read the full weather report? If everybody had done so, everybody would have seen that, taking the country over, the forecasts were right, and that there were adequate explanations of the irregular movements and delayings of the cyclone that has been giving us here a period so long of weather so trying to temper and endurance.

We dwellers on the Atlantic Coast should not expect too much of the bureau's prophets, nor should we criticise too harshly—or harshly at all—their mistakes. Where land and ocean meet there is meteorological confusion, and the data needed for prediction are abundant from only half way around the compass instead of from its whole circumference. The Government weather prophets do the best they can, and they do well—far better, anyway, than their only rivals, the prognosticators who rely on superstitions and ancient couplets about clouds and red sunsets.

What Goods Sell for "Fair" Prices?

Many a patron of butchers and grocers is wondering, these days, why he or she can discover no closer relation that he or she finds between the fair price lists made out by the official assailants of high living costs and the price lists that prevail in the shops where by habit and almost by necessity he or she continues to buy. The shopkeepers, when asked why they demand more than "fair" prices, say, "Oh, those are the prices of foods lower in quality than you would want to buy—than you would eat if you did buy them."

Whether or not this is true the customer cannot conveniently discover, and usually the accuracy of the statement is admitted because to disprove it is practically impossible. Besides, there is in these claims to superiority of grade or mark an ingenious compliment for the customer's taste—an implication that he, too, or she, is also superior—and that counts toward cutting down the inclination to investigate the matter.

The trouble, or one trouble, with the fair price lists is that they assume the existence of a non-existent standardization—that butter is butter, an egg an egg, a ham a ham, a chicken a chicken, and so on through the whole catalogue of comestibles. And they are not—they are divers and sundry and various.

MORE WORK THE REMEDY.

Ten Hours a Day Needed Instead of Eight for a Time.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The newspapers of the United States have never had the opportunity to render a greater service to the whole people than they have today. Let them tell the people in plain English, so all may understand, what is the real cause of high living costs—profiteering, continuous in some, but surely not all cases.

Extravagance and waste are to be found everywhere, and the term "high living costs" should be changed to the scale of "high living." If living costs are so very far above the income of the worker, how can we account for the altogether unparalleled volume of business being done in all retail lines, especially those catering to the masses?

Again, railroad traveling in all directions, amusements, and in many other avenues, money is being expended with a lavishness and recklessness that certainly do not indicate worry over income.

The world's extravagance today is one of the primary causes of present living costs. Demand is so far in excess of supply that either we must all work harder and longer to produce more, or we must exercise certain restraint and thrift and consume less. There can be no permanent relief until production overreaches demand, and all governmental regulations or legislation notwithstanding will be mere palliatives and not cures.

An appeal should be made to the workers of the country that for a limited period, until such time as production somewhat approaches demand, the eight-hour work day be set aside for a full ten-hour day, and when conditions become somewhat normal the industrial world will again return to an eight-hour basis.

Treatment of Drug Addicts.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was glad to read the letter of Dr. J. P. Davin to THE TIMES in regard to the treatment of opium addicts with hyoscin. Dr. Davin very properly directs attention to the great risk to life in the use of this remedy unless it is closely watched and by a physician of experience and good judgment.

The action of hyoscin varies greatly with different patients. With some, in small or moderate doses, it seems to promote sleep and quiet. With others, just the opposite symptoms are caused, and in addition an alarming and imminent condition is frequently occasioned. This has been shown by Dr. Douglas, who states that even "in the same patient it may produce loss of muscular co-ordination and of memory, accompanied by extreme restlessness, which requires the constant attention of a nurse. Unless restrained, the patient will insist on getting out of bed and falling about the room, with the possibility of seriously injuring himself." (In Progressive Medicine, edited by Dr. H. A. Hare, December, 1918, Page 349.)

In view of this statement of Dr. Douglas, which, I believe, to be correct, the Health Department should see to it that hyoscin is only given to addicts, with closest supervision and care, by those in charge, who should be qualified physicians.

Where High Wages Don't Help.

When John H. died of influenza last Fall, there was just enough insurance to bury him. The tiny home of the H's. is always spotless and the children are the healthiest in the neighborhood, for instead of coffee or tea they eat cereals, milk and nourishing soups. Mrs. H.'s sisters help a little and the Charity Organization Society is giving her a regular allowance of $12 a week. People are more interested in strikes and high prices now than in the suffering of those whom the prevailing high wages cannot help, and so it is hard to raise this money for Mrs. H. Two hundred and sixty dollars is needed for the next six months. Send gifts to 105 East Twenty-second Street.

The Revolutionary War Argument.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Irish are using gallons of ink and bales of paper in the writing of letters and the compilation of statistics setting forth the multitude of those bearing Irish names who fought in the Revolutionary War to show what good Americans they are.

Now let the roster of the English names of those who fought George III. be called, and it will be found that the number will far exceed that of the Irish.

New York, Sept. 2, 1919. THEO DAY.

IN A GARDEN.

What can they know of the things I know
Or see of the things I see,
When I climb to the height of the garden at night,
And they will not climb with me?

They never shall catch the tinkling tune
Of the foxglove's rosy bells,
Nor see white candy-tuft like laces
Framing the purple pansy faces.
They never may learn the bedtime song
Of the thrush that trills in the jasmine vine,
Nor watch the sweet peas' drowsy bonnets
Nodding down from the trellis line,
While the pale-hued phloxes' whispered call
To the blue delphinium by the wall
Is a thing they never can hear at all!
And yet it is not hard to be
A part of the garden pageantry
If the heart climbs too, set free.

But what can they know of the things I know,
Or see of the things I see,
If I climb to the garden's end alone,
And they will not climb with me?

INVITE PRESIDENT HERE.

Community Councils Ask President to Industrial Conference.

The Community Councils of National Defense announced yesterday that an invitation had been sent to President Wilson to attend either in person or through a representative the Industrial Relations Conference to be held on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Henry P. Davison at Locust Valley, N. Y. An invitation also was extended to Samuel Gompers.

George Gordon Battle, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the councils, will preside, and George W. Perkins will be one of the speakers. The object of the gathering will be to endeavor to work out a comprehensive plan for improving present industrial conditions. The sessions will be held in the morning and afternoon, and in the interval Mrs. Davison will provide a luncheon, with hostesses including Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Mortimer L. Schiff, Mrs. William Fellowes Morgan, Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey, Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins, Mrs. Egerton L. Winthrop, Mrs. Willard D. Straight, Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, Mary Drier, Mrs. A. Barton Hepburn, Mrs. William G. Willcox, and Mrs. Charles G. Simonson.

ASSAIL PRICE ON MEDALS.

Veterans Protest War Department's Charge for D. S. C.

Warren S. Fisher, Commander in Chief of the United American War Veterans, made public yesterday a letter which he sent to President Wilson in behalf of his organization, protesting the right of the War Department to charge a price on service medals issued to veterans, and also against the "distribution of the Distinguished Service Cross to men who risked neither life nor limb on the field of battle."

"The price exacted for the delivery of a medal to veterans for service is the most contemptible, niggardly act that could be perpetrated by our legislative bodies and a disgrace to our national honor," he wrote the President. "Drastic action should be brought to bear at once that veterans of this and future wars should be given insignia of honor, with the gratitude of the nation, not sold at a price of 50 cents per."

He further declared that there has been a promiscuous distribution of the Distinguished Service Cross to civilians for war work. "This insignia is prized as a reward for valor on the field and line," he said. "It should only be granted for this purpose."

INTERNED GERMANS RETURN

30 from Ships Held in Cuba Here on the Way to Their Native Land.

The Ward Line steamship Mexico arrived yesterday from Havana with four Captains and twenty-six members of the crews of four German steamships which had been interned at that port during the war. They were sent to Ellis Island, to remain there until the Swedish Consul could arrange for their passage to Stockholm. They seemed surprised when informed by the Immigration Inspectors that they could not go up Broadway.

Captain Rudolph Schumann of the North German Lloyd freighter Olesant, who was the spokesman for the party, said that it was his first visit to New York and he wanted to see the city, and also wanted to meet his nephew, Herman Schumann, who, he said, lived at 503 Washington Street, Hoboken.

POSTAL CLERKS ASK RISE.

Indorse Goldfogle Bill to Increase Their Pay.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 3.—Unanimous indorsement of the so-called Moses-Goldfogle law, now pending in Congress, to increase the salaries of all postal employes 35 per cent. for the coming year was given at today's session of the United National Association of Post Office Clerks in annual convention.

The increased salary would continue for one year, when there would be substituted permanent legislation, based on the bill to be framed by the Joint Commission of Congress, headed by Senator Bankhead of Alabama, which is assembling information on the subject. The present minimum paid to clerks is $1,000 and the maximum $1,500.

For the second time, the National Federation of Postal Employes, having 7,000 members, which is meeting in Washington, declined the proposal to merge with the Post Office Clerks. The former organization is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, while the clerks have no union connection.

Resolutions were adopted favoring the creation of a pension system, for time and a half time pay for overtime, leave on half pay, trials before a board of five men instead of Inspectors for infractions of regulations, twenty-day vacations instead of fifteen days, strengthening civil service laws, promotion by seniority, and opposition to the window envelope.

C. P. Franciscus of New York was unanimously nominated for re-election. Cincinnati leads in the race for the next convention.

ILLINOIS STRIKE WANING.

"Insurgent Army" of Coal Miners Checked in Its Southward March.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 3.—The collapse of the insurgent movement of Illinois coal miners was indicated in reports received here today by Frank Farrington, President of the United Mine Workers of Illinois. Mr. Farrington said he was in receipt of telegraphic advices that the "insurgent army" marching southward from Belleville in the interest of the strike had been turned back at the Perry County line, and that miners in the Peoria subdistrict were showing a disposition to treat for terms.

Practically normal conditions were said by operators to prevail in the Springfield subdistrict.

Strike leaders in the Springfield subdistrict denied that the rebellion against the accredited miners' organization had lost any of its pristine vigor.

LABOR COMMITTEE OUSTED.

President Holland Removes Men Who Urged Six Months' Truce.

James P. Holland, President of the New York State Federation of Labor, wrote the following letter yesterday to John Pierce and Isadore Epstein, members of his High Cost of Living Committee, whose report proposing that organized labor refrain from conducting strikes for six months be repudiated:

> I have been trying to locate you for the past two days and learned only this evening of Mr. Epstein's address. I am surprised that you have not up to this time sent me or the Executive Board of the New York State Federation of Labor a copy of the report that you published on Tuesday morning.
>
> I am therefore compelled to remove you from any further consideration as far as the New York State Federation of Labor is concerned.

The committee was appointed by Mr. Holland at a meeting called at Carnegie Hall several months ago to discuss the high cost of living. It was empowered to investigate the high cost of living, but was instructed to refrain from taking up the matter of wages, hours, and working conditions. Following the publication of the plan labor leaders, both radical and conservative, vigorously protested against the proposals made by Epstein and Pierce.

"Labor will never surrender the right to strike," said Hugh Frayne, General Organizer of the American Federation of Labor, speaking of the report last night. "Why should labor at this time surrender its only real weapon? What are the employers going to give up under the proposed plan? The American Federation of Labor is absolutely and unalterably opposed to any proposition of an armistice of the nature suggested by the committee."

PARK AT OYSTER BAY TO HONOR ROOSEVELT

Memorial Association Approves Plan, Which May Include the Sagamore Hill House.

GIFTS TO BE VOLUNTARY

Campaign for Fund Is Abandoned—Plans for Monument at Washington Being Considered.

The plan to establish a memorial park at Oyster Bay to the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was definitely approved and the work will be pushed at once, according to a resolution unanimously adopted yesterday at a meeting of the Roosevelt Memorial Association held in the Waldorf-Astoria. George W. Perkins, Chairman of the Middle Atlantic District, presided, and he and Colonel William Boyce Thompson and Charles Evans Hughes addressed the more than one hundred delegates from Connecticut, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

It was also decided to abandon the scheme to conduct a national campaign for $5,000,000 during the late Colonel's birthday week, Oct. 20 to 27, and to substitute a plan for the receipt of voluntary contributions through local committees or agents. There appeared to be a considerable sentiment in favor of endeavoring to include in the Oyster Bay project the Roosevelt home on Sagamore Hill, but nothing was determined in this respect.

"I believe I voice the sentiment of every true-hearted American," declared Mr. Perkins in opening the meeting, "when I say that the mere raising and spending of a sum of money, no matter how large, can in itself add to or perpetuate Roosevelt's fame. The all-important object to be accomplished is to devise a memorial that will interpret his life and ideals. Anything that proved to be inadequate or ephemeral would be unjust to him and unfair to the country, and would fail to carry the inspiration of his spirit."

While Mr. Perkins was speaking Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, came in, but did not speak at the meeting as he is to address the New England meeting today in Boston. Colonel Thompson, President of the National Committee, in submitting his preliminary report, pointed out that the objects of the association were three: The erection of a national monumental memorial in Washington, the establishment of the park at Oyster Bay, and the creation of some sort of foundation which would teach the Rooseveltian ideals to the succeeding generations.

Aims of the Association.

"The organization of the Roosevelt Memorial Association," he said, "had progressed with dispatch and completeness to the extent of including a National Committee and Executive Committee with which you are familiar; a State Chairman in each State, with State committees, and in many States there are county committees of large membership from all walks of life. The country has been divided into zones, and regional meetings have been held by representatives from the various States covering the entire country, except those included in today's meeting and the meeting to be held tomorrow in Boston." Mr. Thompson then set forth the aims of the organization and continued as follows:

"It has been impossible in the time which has elapsed to develop any concrete plan for the monumental memorial at Washington. Many suggestions have been made, but the subject is so large and the selection so consequential that it has been absolutely impossible satisfactorily to determine the nature of this monument, which must be an adequte testimonial of the great man and must satisfy the future. Into this monument must go the best of art and architecture in the world, and the mere selection is a matter of infinite detail and most mature consideration. And it has been thought by many that the definite nature of the memorial should be determined before money is actually raised for it.

"The park at Oyster Bay," he said, "is definitely planned, the cost thereof is reasonably known, and we can proceed as to this part of our purposes with certainty. As to the third objective, too, there has been a wide divergence of opinion. It is the very strong opinion of a great many that this phase of the memorial should be emphasized, and innumerable suggestions have been made as to ways and means. This phase, too, is very far reaching in importance and very difficult in conclusion, and it has been impossible in the time which has elapsed to formulate satisfactorily any exact plan to that end."

Colonel Thompson added that, in view of the uncertainty concerning two of the objects, he would recommend that the nation-wide canvass for funds be dropped in favor of unsolicited donations, and also that the work at Oyster Bay be undertaken without delay. Both recommendations were adopted.

Friends Make Memorial.

"The organization," said former Justice Hughes, "will, I think, be unique in the history of organizations because there will not be a man in it who is not moved by a fervor of spirit and an intense desire to do all he can to show his affection and abiding esteem for this greatest of Americans. As the Chairman of this meeting said at the beginning, in effect, that the memorial to Colonel Roosevelt is already erected, the only lasting memorial that could be erected to the memory of Colonel Roosevelt is already permanently established in the heatrs of the American people.

"Nothing in bronze or brass or marble can be as enduring as the traditions of that dynamic personality. There is no danger that time will efface that tradition or render its influence less important or valuable to the country. Unfailing patriotic devotion has made the name of Colonel Roosevelt, and will always make the name of Colonel Roosevelt, the typical name to be associated with intense Americanism and insures the perpetuation of his memory for all time. We cannot enshrine him; he is enshrined. I believe the people of this country are more desirous, more united today with respect to adequate expression of their affection for Colonel Roosevelt than perhaps with respect to any other one thing that can possibly be mentioned."

Representative James Gallivan of Boston, a Democrat and a great friend of the former President, was to have spoken, but wired that illness prevented him. Colonel Thompson announced the enlargement of the National Committee to include the following: Thomas L. Chadbourne, William H. Chadbourne, William Hamlin Childs of New York; Robert R. Church, Memphis, Tenn.; Elbert H. Gary, New York; William Ball Gilbert, Portland, Ore.; William A. Glasgow, Jr., Philadelphia; Martin H. Glynn, Albany; Ole Hanson, Seattle; Judson Harmon Cincinnati; James H. Hawley, Boise, Idaho; Elon H. Hooker, William H. Hotchkiss, Alfred J. Johnson, New York; Judge Virgil K. Kellogg, Watertown, N. Y.; Curtis H. Lindley, San Francisco; Henry D. Lindsley, Dallas; Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo; Gavin McNab, San Francisco; Herman A. Metz, New York; Alexander P. Moore, Pittsburgh; Frank A. Munsey, Lewis Nixon, Alton B. Parker New York; F. S. Peabody, Chicago; Erskine M. Ross, Los Angeles; Thomas F. Smith, New York; Mayor M. P. Snyder of Los Angeles; Henry L. Stoddard, New York; George Turner, Spokane; Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, Berkeley, Cal., and Horace S. Wilkinson of Syracuse.

MISS WIDDEMER, AUTHOR, MARRIES

MISS JOAN K. OHL A BRIDE

Daughter of Editor of The Herald Married to David F. Webster in Church of the Heavenly Rest.

The marriage is announced of Miss Margaret Widdemer, the author, and Robert Haven Schauffler, which took place on Aug. 28, at Lake Sunapee, N. H. The wedding had been arranged for Sept. 9, but an earlier ceremony was decided upon at a family reunion of the Schauffler family held at Lake Sunapee. The Rev. Harry Park Schauffler officiated.

Mrs. Schauffler will keep her maiden name for her literary work. Last year the Columbia University poetry prize of $500 for the best volume of poetry published in 1918 was divided between Miss Widdemer's "The Old Road to Paradise" and Carl Sandburg's "Cornhuskers." Her new novel, "The Boardwalk," is in press now.

Mr. Schauffler was graduated from Princeton, class of 1902, and has lived much abroad. He was decorated by the Queen of Italy in 1906 for winning the national tennis championship. During the war he was an instructor at the officers' training school at Camp Meade. He is a musician, as well as an author of books on music.

After a honeymoon in Maine and a few months at Larchmont, Mr. and Mrs. Schauffler plan to spend the Winter in London and Paris.

Webster—Ohl.

The wedding of David Frank Webster, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Scott Webster of San Francisco, and Miss Joan Kingsley Ohl, the daughter of Josiah Kingsley Ohl, editor of the New York Herald, and of Mrs. Ohl of 55 East Sixty-fifth Street, took place yesterday noon in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, the Rev. Dr. W. F. Peirce, President of Kenyon College, officiating. The bride, in a satin gown with cloth and silver court train, wore a tulle veil edged with Carrickmacross lace held with orange blossoms and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. There was also a touch of blue, it being the ribbon of the bride's Belgian decoration which she wore on her corsage.

Miss Marion Mellen of New Orleans was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Ruth Hitchcock, a daughter of United States Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska; Betty Andrews, a cousin of the bride, from Chattanooga, Tenn., and Miss Leila Gordon of Washington, D. C. All wore white net over flesh colored taffeta, and shepherdess hats, and carried old-fashioned bouquets set in white lace paper borders.

Hugh Webster was his brother's best man and the ushers were Captain Cresswell Micou, U. S. M. C.; Dr. Conrad Jenny, First Secretary of the Swiss Legation; Robert Halsey Patchin, and E. B. Bruce. The bride and bridegroom reverted to an old custom and exchanged rings during the betrothal ceremony.

The Baron de Cartier de Marchienne, Belgian Ambassador to the United States, and a close friend of the Ohls when they lived in Pekin, China, had Miss Ohl attached to the Begian Legation staff as Honorary Attaché for the period of the war. She assisted him with his private correspondence, and the appreciation of the Belgian Government was expressed in the decoration given to her a few weeks ago at the conclusion of her duties—the Medaille de Son Altesse la Duchesse de Vendome.

Miss Ohl's early life was spent in the Far East, Manila, Japan and Pekin, her father being the head of the Eastern Service of the Herald for a number of years.

Mr. Webster, like his bride, has traveled much. He is the Vice President of the Pacific Commercial Co. of Manila, the New York Pacific Co., and the Anderson-Myer Co.

The honeymoon is to be spent in the Berkshires, and later Mr. Webster will take his bride to the Philippines, where his business will keep him for some time.

DENIES BOMB PLANT WASTE.

Marlin-Rockwell Official Declares Government Approved Every Act.

In answer to reports regarding alleged extravagances by the Marlin-Rockwell Loading Company in the fulfillment of its contract for the construction and operation of a bomb-loading plant near Port Penn, Del., an official of the corporation made the following statement yesterday:

"The various articles you show me contain so many misstatements of fact as almost to force the conclusion that the operation of the Marlin-Rockwell Loading Company has been confused with that of some other company.

"Early in the year 1918, the Marlin-Rockwell Corporation was desired by the Government to undertake the construction and operation of a bomb-loading plant upon a cost plus percentage basis. Inasmuch as the Marlin-Rockwell Corporation's other contracts with the Government, then existing in large volume, were uniformly on a fixed price basis, it was deemed advisable to incorporate a subsidiary company for the conduct of this proposed operation. To this the Government agreed, as well as to a subcontract for construction with F. T. Ley & Co.

"An original estimated plant cost of $1,500,000 was based on tentative plans then proposed by the Ordnance Department. Repeated changes in plant design and the increasing magnitude of the enterprise, called for by the War Department's increasing experience of the needs of the army, resulted necessarily in a corresponding increase in plant cost; but inasmuch as the Marlin-Rockwell Loading Company was acting purely as the agent of the Government, no money was spent or commitments made without the express written approval and authority of the War Department, acting through its authorized officers."

CARSON HITS NORTHCLIFFE.

Says Publisher Is "Man-Hunting" In Order to Get Premiership.

BELFAST, Sept. 2.—Sir Edward Carson, in opening a new anti-home rule campaign here tonight, made a fierce attack upon Viscount Northcliffe, the newspaper proprietor, whom he styled as "the greatest absentee Irish capitalist and greatest example of an Irishman who under the Union has made untold wealth in England."

"He dearly loves man hunting," said Sir Edward. "He hunted Earl Kitchener, Field Marshal Viscount French, Viscount Jellicoe, Viscount Milner, and J. Austen Chamberlain, and more recently Premier Lloyd George. I have thought this over and believe I have found a solution to the question. It is to make Viscount Northcliffe Prime Minister. The only disadvantage would be that, as Prime Minister, he would have to meet in Parliament face to face those he assails and could not attack them from the editorial armchair. What is a statesman? It is a man who, when it pleases Viscount Northcliffe, betrays every interest intrusted to him."

FALL KILLS LAZARUS LEVY.

Lazarus Levy, 81 years old, founder of the brokerage firm of L. Levy & Co., 61 Broadway, was killed by a fall from a window of his apartment on the sixth floor of the apartment house at 850 Park Avenue yesterday morning. Mr. Levy lived with one of his daughters.

Discovery of his body was made when Mr. Levy did not come down to the automobile waiting to take him to his office. The daughter had earlier in the morning laid out her father's street clothes and these had not been donned by him. Mr. Levy is supposed to have suffered an attack of dizziness and went to the window for relief and fell out.

Coming to this country more than sixty years ago from Germany, Mr. Levy founded in Memphis, Tenn., in 1875, the banking firm of Levy & Borg. Later he moved to New York and established the firm of L. Levy & Co. He was a member of the Harmonie Club and connected with several Jewish charities.

Severance, 86 years old, who was one of the first women in the country to graduate as a physician, in the practice of which she was engaged for many years in the West, died Tuesday in this city, where she had lived with her daughter, Lillian Stillman, of 27 West Forty-sixth Street, formerly an actress, since her retirement some years ago.

PAINTERS' DISTRICT COUNCIL

Answers a Circular from Boss Painters Asking the Public to Refrain from Having Any Painting Done at This Time.

With the painters' strike practically over and eight thousand men back to work, who are continuing to produce their share for the benefit of the general public, a persistent propaganda is being waged by an Association of Bosses to continue the strife and maintain a chaotic condition in an industry which is about finding its way back to peaceful pursuit.

Every conceivable method of Bulldozing is being used by a few leaders of that Association in order to stop renovating work until such time when they, who call themselves captains of the industry, would be able to regain domination over a trade of which they are only a trivial part.

These gentlemen are trying to intimidate Real Estate Operators and Builders by leading them to believe that by meeting the demands of the journeymen, production would be curtailed.

Employers who comply with the just demands of the strikers are threatened to be cut off on their supply of materials as a penalty for conceding to our conditions.

All of that is being done by a few leaders of the Master Painters' Association under a pretext of serving the public.

The rent payer—poor and wealthy alike—who, for the past three years was paying exorbitant increases in rents, and in spite of that, was refused the most necessary repairs absolutely imperative for his health, not mentioning comfort, is now asked by Boss Painters or Realty Agents to sacrifice his welfare for the benefit of the Bosses' "cause."

What in the name of justice has the General Public to do with the aspirations of any group of employers in any industry, who have been deliberately jeopardizing its interest for their own aggrandizement?

Did not the so-called Association of a few Master Painters violate and disregard the agreement with the Painters' District Council?

Did not the Master Painters' Association lock out the Union Painters before any strike was called by the Union?

Does not the Association of Master Painters threaten every one of its members with a fine of five hundred dollars ($500) and boycotting of their business for complying with the request of the workers along with eight hundred (800) other firms who are now enjoying the fruits of a prosperous season?

Where do you, Mr. Rent-Payer, come in on this proposition?

Are you so intensely interested in depriving the man of the brush and color, who, at the sacrifice of his own health, stands ready to serve you, of his most cardinal human needs?

You, Mr. Rent-Payer, can settle these questions by insisting upon your own rights at the hands of your Landlord, by insisting on your rights to live in a clean and wholesome home in return for the price of rental you are paying, and there will be no problem of a Painters' Strike for the Public to solve.

A large agency handling cigars and tobaccos—very best business references—located in Hamburg, registered, seeks connection with first-class cigar manufacturers (Manila, Havana, Cuba imported) and smoking tobaccos (English mixtures, goldleaf, etc.), exclusive of cigarettes. Agency seeks to open up territory on a large scale throughout Germany for such manufacturers. Have general representatives throughout this country and large warehouse facilities in the center of the city. Splendid sales organization. Are we in danger of drifting into a false sense of security? Will our hopes of eternal peace lead us into the delusions that came after other wars?

Apropos of the famous First Division's return, Major Hughes interprets the record of the Regular Army in the light of these questions, in The New York Times next Sunday.

ROYCE ROOLS HAS WALKOVER IN MUD

SLOPPY TRACK TO BLAME

Season's Smallest Fields Caused by Many Scratches—Five Horses Most to Start.

A one-horse race, if such can be called a race, is a rare occurrence on a metropolitan track, and would seem to be impossible in these days of large stables and steadily growing purses, but one was held at Belmont Park yesterday. W. T. Wilkinson's Royce Rools found himself without any competition in the Brentwood Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth, which was down on the card as the feature of the day, and he just had to gallop to take the winner's share of the purse, which amounted to $601.

This travesty on the sport was brought about by the scratching of the five others which had been entered for the event. The excuse offered for the withdrawals in each instance was the sloppy track, due to the steady downpour of rain. It is not unusual for owners to withdraw their horses under such conditions, especially where it is known that the racers are not fond of the wet or heavy going. It may be that the various owners did not realize yesterday that all but one would withdraw from the contest, but the action of those who scratched their horses reflected against the sportsmanship which usually dominates the race track.

The Brentwood is not a big stake, but it had promised to be a good contest, as some real stars had been entered. The original list included besides Royce Rools, Star Master, Corn Tassel, Jack Stuart, Valor and Luculite. These are all high-class racers, and, while Luculite, despite his impost of 130 pounds, would no doubt have been made favorite, it promised to be anything but a walkover for him. It would have been an open contest.

Luculite has run well in the mud on various occasions, but his owner, Sam C. Hildreth, has not started his real stars in the mud except when the stakes were large, or the event of particular importance, such as the Saratoga Cup in which Purchase met defeat.

Crowd Voices Disapproval.

However, the withdrawals continued until only Royce Rools was left, and the handicap had become a joke. Those who had braved a nasty day to see some real racing were indignant, and they indicated it by jeering as the lone racer was making his way around the track. It was impossible, of course, for any speculation on the race, and for once players and layers had no interest in the race other than to see the thing through.

Jimmie Butwell had the mount on Royce Rools, and went through all the formalities of parading past the stands and then going to the post. There was little trouble for the starter. Royce Rools was brought up to the line and sent on his way. A laugh went up from the crowd when the horse dashed away. Perhaps the horse was being fooled into the idea that he was racing, but even he seemed to know it was a joke.

Royce Rools was permitted to go along easy in this phantom race and imagine that there were steeds clattering at his heels, or splashing as the case was yesterday. It was a nice gallop for him and ought to improve him for a real race the next time he is sent to the post.

The last time that such a joke race was run on a metropolitan track was several years ago, when Andrew Miller's Roamer ran all alone in a stake event at Belmont Park. Roamer had to work harder that day for the winner's share than did Royce Rools yesterday, for they made him run the race twice. The first time he ran in the wrong direction, it evidently being supposed that the direction made no difference, since there was no competition. But the judges got their heads together after the running and thought of the legality of the event. In order to be absolutely right, they had Roamer run the race over again and go in the other direction. This he did and his owner collected the purse.

There was considerable scratching in all of the events yesterday, and the fields were the smallest that have been seen around New York this season. Five horses were the most that went to the post in any event, but fortunately for the patrons some of the events provided good contests.

Osgood Shows Improvement.

L. F. Wagner's Osgood started the day by winning the Far Rockaway Handicap at six furlongs, defeating Right Angle and The Boy among the four others in the race. Osgood has improved greatly in the past few weeks and ran a good race, though he had to be ridden hard to last to the finish. Sunnyland set the pace for about half the distance when Right Angle came along and took command. Osgood was rated close to the leaders at all times, and after turning into the stretch came up to take the lead from Right Angle. But Right Angle was not through at this point and Kummer urged him on until he again challenged for the lead. Hamilton had to do his best on Osgood.

The Boy, which has great speed for a short distance, was off last, but raced up to second position in the back stretch and seemed to be a serious contender for a time. He raced up to the heels of Right Angle in the stretch and was coming strong at the finish, and was beaten by only a nose for the place. Toto, making his first start since early in the season, ran as if he was not accustomed to competition. He ran out at the head of the stretch and finished a bad last.

The Mineola Selling Stakes, which was the feature event for the juveniles, went to R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Simpleton. Simpleton has been running ever since last May without being able to win a race, but recently he had been knocking at the door. Yesterday he found himself in a field of youngsters which was not quite up to the standard he had been meeting, and he took advantage of it to get down in front and graduate from the maiden class.

Ensor rated him along close to Sugarmint, and the two offered the contention all the way, alternating in the lead. Simpleton took the lead in the final furlong and won by half a length. Sugarmint was always second, and finished ten lengths in front of American Boy, which took third from Hackamore.

Dominique Wins Another.

Sam C. Hildreth's Dominique added another victory to his list in the final race of the day, for two-year-olds at five and a half furlongs on the straight course. It was an easy victory for this son of Peter Quince, and in winning he defeated one of the best fillies of the season, W. R. Coe's Cleopatra. The latter has not proved to be a particularly good mud runner, but she has great speed, and finished second to Man o' War in the Hopeful at Saratoga.

Dominique seemed to be at home in the going, and had ten lengths to spare at the finish. He raced into the lead shortly after the start, and, once in front, remained there. Walk the Plank, a 100 to 1 shot, offered contention for a short time, and then gave way to Cleopatra, which had found her racing legs. But the latter had got into her stride too late to ever get up with the flying son of Peter Quince. However, she easily disposed of the others, and was fifteen lengths in front of Walk the Plank at the finish. Faison Dore and Sea Sinner brought up the rear.

W. V. Casey's John I. Day showed a return to good form in the fifth race, and quite handily defeated Lucius and Graphic at a mile. John I. Day showed a particular liking for the mud, and splashed along to win by three lengths. Lucius ran a good race, and was second all the way, after the first few strides. The other starters were never in the contest. Graphic took third from Baby Sister, while Hickorynut was a bad last.

G. D. Widener started his Sanberia for the first time this season in the second race, at a mile, and she had a walkover from two rivals. She led all the way, and defeated L'Enjoleur by four lengths, which took the place from Miss Sterling by fifteen lengths.

Hoofbeats of the Racers.

If the weather clears today there should be considerable improvement in the brand of racing at Belmont Park. Quite a number of stars are entered in the various events, but as the track will be heavy, even if the sun comes out, scratches will undoubtedly be numerous.

Interest will centre today on the running of the Autumn Highweight Handicap, for all ages, at six furlongs. If all the horses entered should start it would be a remarkable contest. The entries include Naturalist, Billy Kelly, Lord Brighton, Hollister, Blue Laddie, Enfilade, and others of the crack sprinters. If Naturalist starts he will carry top weight with 140 pounds.

Ethel Gray, a filly owned by Monfort Jones and which was regarded as a dangerous contender in the Hopeful Stakes at Saratoga, may be destroyed. She was kicked while at the post in the Hopeful and one of her legs was so badly injured that there is little hope of saving her.

Another horse that will probably race no more is Fred Berlew's He Will, which broke down badly in his last race. Berlew gave the horse to a physician in Saratoga.

Horsemen are generally glad to have their racers back at Belmont Park. The fast course at Saratoga proved the undoing of many good horses. Two were destroyed as the result of serious break downs, while numerous others were forced to go out of training. Belmont Park is regarded as much safer even if it is a little slower.

The winnings of Man o' War have brought the Glen Riddle Farm up to second place in the list of winning owners. J. K. L. Ross still leads. Man o' War has won $61,226 this season.

No definite date has yet been set for the running of the $50,000 Latonia Championship Stakes, which will be the largest purse raced for this year. The date is being held open so as not to be in conflict with the worlds series in which the Cincinnati Reds will no doubt participate. It is desired to give followers of sport in that section a chance to see both the series and championship.

J. W. McClelland's Eternal is being pointed for the Latonia championship after a long rest. Eternal did not race at Saratoga and is said to be training nicely now.

J. W. Loft's Papp will be seen in some of the events to be decided in the next few weeks. He will return to racing on the flat. He was being prepared for the jumps, but showed so much speed that Trainer Max Hirsch decided to test him again against some of the good ones.

It was thought that J. K. L. Ross would start his great three-year-old Sir Barton in the Lawrence Realization on Saturday, but there is doubt now that he will go to the post. Though he has him training well, he will probably make his reappearance in one of the big stake events in Maryland or Kentucky.

Cornell Has Bear Mascot.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 3.—The Cornell football team is to have a real, honest-to-goodness mascot this season. It has all Ithaca "by the ears." A near holiday was declared when the news was wafted, as news will be, through the city that a bear cub, fresh from Montana, had arrived to be chaperon of the Red and White eleven on the gridiron this season. For the first time in a long while Cornell is wearing a "Please don't feed or annoy the animal" shingle. If Ithaca wasn't dry it probably would be drinking a bear of a toast.

Leonard-Bartfield Bout Tonight.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Rain necessitated a postponement of the Benny Leonard-Soldier Bartfield six-round contest announced for tonight at the American League baseball park. Weather permitting, the men will meet tomorrow night.

SINGLE G. DEFEATED BY MISS HARRIS M.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 3.—A crowd of 40,000 spectators witnessed the great match race between Miss Harris M, 1:58¼, and Single G., 1:58½, at the State Fair Grounds this afternoon, the mare winning the purse by taking the last two heats after losing the first.

The best time of the match was made in the final heat, in which Miss Harris M. stepped the distance in 2:01⅛. She won this heat by a full two lengths after racing to the half-mile post in 1:01, on even terms with Single G.

In the first heat Miss Harris M. trailed Single G. until the back stretch was reached, and then moved up to even terms in the final stretch, where she made a break. Single G. passed under the wire a winner by three lengths before Miss Harris M. had been steadied. The time was 2:02¼ for the heat. The half was placed in 1:01¼.

In the second heat, which was the slowest of the three, Miss Harris M. took the lead in the stretch and outpaced the stallion to the wire. The time was 2:03¼, with the winner half a length to the good. The final heat was an easy victory for Miss Harris M. The purse of $4,000 was divided 60 per cent. to the winner, and 40 per cent. to the loser.

Both of the famous pacers are Indiana products. Miss Harris M. is owned by Paul Kuhn of Terre Haute, and was driven by William Fleming. She has been the world's champion pacing mare for two years. She was sired by Peter the Great, the greatest of all sires, which is owned by Stoughton Fletcher of Indianapolis. Single G. is owned by W. B. Barefoot of Cambridge City, Ind., and was driven by Harry Stokes. This horse has many world's records to his credit.

The summary:

SPECIAL MATCH RACE.

Miss Harris M., b. m., by Peter the Great, (Fleming)	2	1	1

CHARTER OAK STAKE TODAY.

Mignola to Meet McGregor the Great in Feature Race at Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 3.—Five early closing events, with purses totalling $21,000, are on the program of Grand Circuit racing scheduled for Charter Oak Park tomorrow. The races were called off again today because of rain.

The Charter Oak Stake, for 2:12 trotters, purse $10,000, is the feature event on tomorrow's card. Mignola and McGregor the Great are entered in this contest. The three races carried over from Tuesday are to be held. They are the two-year-old trot, purse $2,000; the 2:06 pace, purse $3,000, and the 2:08 trot, purse $3,000. The 2:06 trot, purse $3,000, from today's card, completes the list. Friday's program also calls for five events.

ETERNAL READY TO RACE.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 3.—The stable of James W. McClelland, of which Eternal, the juvenile champion of the season of 1918 and the Brooklyn Handicap winner of the current year, is the most distinguished, has arrived from Saratoga. Mr. McClelland will not race anything at Belmont Park. His two-year-olds have had a lot of racing and he feels that they will be all the better for a rest before the beginning of the Maryland Fall season. The Harford Agricultural and Breeders' Association will usher in Maryland Fall racing on Sept. 11 with the running of the $5,000 Harford County Handicap, a race of one mile and seventy yards for three-year-olds and upward.

Mr. McClelland hopes to have Eternal in condition to start in the Harford County Handicap, and if he is not disappointed and the one-time brilliant son of Sweep and Hazel Burke makes a good showing in the Harford Handicap, Eternal will be shipped West in October to start in the $50,000 Latonia Championship Stakes. Eternal seems to be in splendid physical condition. He is full-fleshed, his coat is rich, and he has plenty of spirit. McClelland and Trainer Kimball Patterson believe that he is capable of stepping a mile over the Havre de Grace track in 1:37 or thereabout, and the Havre de Grace track was never considered a fast track.

The three-year-old Cromwell, a sprinter of parts, is the only horse past two years old of the McClelland stable that is anywhere near ready for racing. Cromwell, a son of Plaudit, which, in the early Spring, was rated a colt of Derby quality, has not raced to the expectations of McClelland and Patterson, but he is a very fast plater. He won in dazzling time at Yonkers in August.

Hasten On, a son of Great Britain and Crystal Maid, and The Trout, a son of Rapid Water and Sandringham Belle, are the two-year-olds McClelland will point for the $10,000 Eastern Shore Stakes, Havre de Grace's best juvenile special. Hasten On and The Trout both showed well at Saratoga. The Trout was graduated from the maiden class at the Spa. Schuttinger, who will ride as a free lance at Belmont Park, will pilot the McClelland horses at Havre de Grace, Laurel, and Pimlico.

GOOD ONES IN HUNTS MEET.

Crack 'Chasers for Jumping Races at Belmont Park Terminal.

Entries of some excellent timber-toppers have been received for the United Hunts race meeting at Belmont Park Terminal on Saturday morning. There will be six races, the first being called at 11 A. M.

The Queens Steeplechase Handicap at two miles and a half has attracted such stars as Elysian, Syosset, Robin Goodfellow, Doublet, Stonewood, Hibler and Decisive. In this the Greentree Stable's crack, Syosset, is slated to pack top weight of 155 pounds, with Elysian and Stonewood in at 150.

As this series will preface the afternoon meeting at Belmont Park, just across the way from the Terminal, racegoers should be in receipt of a full day's sport, which will introduce, by the novelty of a morning session, a feature which has not been witnessed in American racing since the early days of the Saratoga meeting.

Aside from the Queens Steeplechase there will be five other events, three of which will be on the flat at distances variabe enough to test the capabilities of the good ones which have been nominated. Probably the chief among these will be the Mineola Handicap, for which the Coe champion three-year-old Over There is listed to pack 130 pounds for the mile over the grass course, which he should find very much to his liking.

West Virginia Coach Arrives.

TEN POLO TEAMS IN TITLE TOURNAMENT

Late Entries Received from Meadow Brook and the Philadelphia Country Club.

Five clubs and ten teams will be represented at the national championships of the Polo Association, according to the additional entries and the drawings announced yesterday at the office of the Polo Association, by H. L. Herbert, Chairman; William A. Hazard, Secretary; Major Robert E. Strawbridge, Philadelphia committeeman, and James C. Cooley, who is to manage the tournament that begins at the Philadelphia Country Club on Saturday, Sept. 13. There will be but one game a day, scheduled at 4:30 P. M., and the rotation of the title events will be first, the junior; second, the senior, and last, the open championship. Unless there are delays due to rain and poor turf, the tournament will end on Saturday, Sept. 27, but only seven playing days are listed for the three weeks.

Stabling has been arranged for 300 mounts and the turnouts of fine imported and American-bred ponies will be a sight worth seeing. The field is so accessible to the heart of Philadelphia by the Fairmont Park cars that large gatherings of onlookers are expected, while the genuine polo fans will be on hand from every part of the United States. The additional entries, besides those named on Monday, were the Philadelphia Country Club team in the junior and senior and another Meadow Brook four for the junior.

Meadow Brook 3d won the junior championship when it was last held in 1916, but the present aspirants are a new combination and disdain a numeral. Perhaps Meadow Brook Aspirants would be as good a name as any, to distinguish the team on the program from the Meadow Brook "big four," entered for the senior and the open. The new outfit will have G. Maurice Heckscher, one of the best mounted players in the country, as No. 1; J. C. Cooley and Benjamin K. Gatins playing in the centre places, and Thomas Le Boutillier, 2d, as the back. The Philadelphia Country Club team will consist of the three Stokes brothers—Thomas, W. Standley, and E. Lowber—and Barclay McFadden, a veteran of the game.

Word was received on Monday that the entry of an army four would have to be called off, as the men depended on most are at Western posts and far apart. The teams, however, bristle with the names of men who have been in the service, on sea or land, since the Great Neck four won the last senior championship three seasons ago.

The revised list by teams follows:

JUNIOR.—Philadelphia Country—Thomas Stokes, W. Standley Stokes, E. Lowber Stokes, Barclay McFadden. Meadow Brook—G. M. Heckscher, J. C. Cooley, B. K. Gatins, T. Le Boutillier, 2d. Bryn Mawr—Rodman Wanamaker, 2d, Wister Randolph, R. E. Strawbridge, R. E. Strawbridge, Jr. Rockaway—Elliot C. Cowdin, Courtland P. Dixon, 2d, J. Cheever Cowdin, F. H. Prince, Jr.

SENIOR—Philadelphia Country Club—Same as above. Rockaway—C. C. Rumsey, E. W. Hopping, Malcolm Stevenson, J. Cheever Cowdin. Meadow Brook—Louis E. Stoddard, J. Watson Webb, H. P. Whitney, Devereux Milburn.

OPEN.—Cooperstown—Louis E. Stoddard, Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., C. C. Rumsey, R. E. Strawbridge, Jr. Meadow Brook—F. H. Prince, Jr., J. Watson Webb, H. P. Whitney, Devereux Milburn. Rockaway—C. P. Beadleston, E. W. Hopping, Malcolm Stevenson, J. Cheever Cowdin.

Each game will be eight periods of seven and one-half minutes with three minutes time out allowed at the ends for change of mounts, except at the end of the fourth period, half-time, when there will be a rest interval of seven minutes. All games will be started at 4:30 P. M., on the following official schedule:

Junior Championship.

Monday, Sept. 15.—Rockaway vs. Philadelphia Country Club.

Senior Championship.

For teams from the same club.

Saturday, Sept. 20.—Rockaway vs. Meadow Brook.

Thursday, Sept. 25.—Cooperstown vs. Rockaway.

BEGIN PRACTICE AT PENN.

Six Promising Candidates Answer Preliminary Football Call.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Half a dozen promising gridiron warriors formed the first installment of the Pennsylvania eleven this Fall when they answered Captain Bert Bell's informal preliminary call for candidates this afternoon, and spent several hours in light work on Franklin Field. It was the first practice of the year on the Quakers' garden. Lawson Robertson, the Red and Blue track coach, who this Fall will have charge of the conditioning of the football men and who has a number of new ideas concerning the best and quickest way of getting the candidates into condition, took charge of the work today. Practice does not start officially until Saturday, when all candidates have been asked to report for the roll call, and it is expected that Bob Folwell, the coach, will be seen before that time.

Present plans do not call for work to start at the Frazier Farm, near Willow Grove, until next Monday, where the candidates will train for not more than a week, after which time real work will be conducted at home.

Bell's call brought forth a varied array of players. Heinie Miller, one of the stars of the 1917 team, who has been in France with Bell in Base Hospital Unit 20, was one of the first to report. He was followed by Blondy Withington, who last year made a great impression at tackle, and promises to put up a hard fight for that berth, or perhaps a guard position, this year. Withington pulled a tendon in the Pittsburgh game last year and was out for the rest of the season, but he is ready now to give them all a fight for a line berth.

HARVARD BACKS AT WORK.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 3.—A heavy rain today prevented Harvard's backs and ends from indulging in much work calculated to to help condition them, but nevertheless Coach Bob Fisher sent them through a long workout. The backs were coached on footwork and starts, and the quarterbacks continued the work necessary for them to become accustomed to handling the ball from centre and getting it to the backs.

Sets of backs will be started at signals as soon as footing on the field will permit. Fisher's coaching staff was increased today by the arrival of Derrick Parmenter, who has coached the centres for several years; Sam Felton, who will be in charge of the punters, and Jimmy Knox, coach of successful freshmen teams twenty years ago, and who, since 1911, has followed the development of the Princeton elevens as scout.

The most important of the new men today was George Batchelder, a well built end and halfback, who was with the squad three years ago, and who is considered good varsity material.

Keady with Jim Thorpe's Team.

BETHLEHEM, Penn., Sept. 3.—James Keady, a former star back field man on Lehigh University's football team, today accepted terms to play with Jim Thorpe's professional football team at Canton, Ohio. Keady, who is to report on Oct. 5, is a brother of Thomas Keady, Lehigh's noted athletic coach.

ALEXANDER BEATEN BY MORAN'S REDS

League Leaders Make It Three Out of Four in Series with Cubs—Score, 6 to 1.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Cincinnati made it three out of four from Chicago today by winning the final game of the series here, 6 to 1. Before Alexander got settled in the first inning the league leaders scored four runs. Daubert singled and scored on Roush's drive, which Robertson misjudged. It went for a home run. Neale walked, stole second, and scored on Kopf's double, and Kopf counted on Schreiber's hit. They added two more in the fourth on singles by Reuther and Rath, their double steal, Killefer's wild throw to second, and Robertson's wild throw to Deal.

Reuther had little trouble holding the locals, who touched him for five hits, three of which were made by Flack. Chicago's lone run was scored in the first inning on Flack's triple and an infield out.

BROWNS WIN ON SQUEEZE.

Gedeon's Bunt in Fourteenth Inning Defeats Indians, 6 to 5.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—The squeeze play executed by Gedeon and Billings scored the run that gave St. Louis a fourteen-inning 6 to 5 victory over Cleveland today.

Home-run records for the local park were shattered when Tobin drove the ball into right-field bleachers with two men on in the sixth, tying the score. It was the forty-third circuit drive here this season and the 200th in the American League. The former League record was made in 1911, when 193 home runs were scored. Today's game concluded the American League season here.

BEARS ARE DOWNED IN BELATED RALLY

Reading Scores Four Runs in Ninth Inning and Defeats Newark by 8 to 7.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Penn., Sept. 3.—Reading came from behind in a sensational ninth-inning rally this afternoon, winning the opening game of the series here with Newark, 8 to 7. A base on balls to Konnick, Keefe's double, Dowd's muff of Burns's bounder, Cook's single, Altenburg's sacrifice fly and Weiser's triplet turned the trick. It was Weiser's rap that brought in Cook with the winning run.

The police had to interfere in the ninth to prevent a general fight when a fan threw a chair from the grandstand at Bruggy, the Newark catcher, and the latter grabbed a bat and started for the stand after his tormentor.

COMISKEY OPPOSES PLAN.

Owner of White Sox Is Against Playing Nine-Game World Series.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago Americans, tonight declared his opposition to the proposal of the National Baseball Commission that the world's series be increased from seven to nine games. He said that he could see no reason for changing the custom of playing a series of seven games to decide the world's championship.

"I believe that when an organization establishes a custom it should be followed," he said. "Of course, if the league votes for nine games then we will have to see what is to be done. I sympathize with the fans who want to see the games each Fall and who are disappointed because a 32,000 capacity ball park will not seat 150,000 persons, but this situation cannot be avoided."

Members of the White Sox had no game scheduled today and the players witnessed the game between the Chicago Nationals and Cincinnati, to get a line on the Reds, the club they expect to meet in the baseball classic next month.

LOCAL CLUBS ARE IDLE.

Rain Prevents Games Scheduled for Giants, Robins, and Yankees.

The three local major league clubs, Giants, Brooklyn, and Yankees, were idle again yesterday on account of the rain. The Giants-Boston clash at the Polo Grounds will be played off as part of a double-header on Sunday, when the first game will begin at 2:05 o'clock. Brooklyn and the Phillies were idle and will play a double-header in Brooklyn on Sunday afternoon. The Yanks were unable to play in Boston.

The Giants and Brooklyn will begin a series at the Polo Grounds this afternoon, weather permitting. The Yanks will have an off day and will play an exhibition game in New Haven.

Two new players are expected to join the Yankees this week. One is an infielder named Dave Black, who played semi-professional ball in Pittsburgh. He was discovered by Dick Guy and comes highly recommended. The other is Frank Gleich, an outfielder from Saginaw, Mich. Manager Huggins is also trying to persuade Bob Muesel, the Pacific Coast slugger, to report as soon as possible. Muesel is highly recommended by Scout Bob Connery.

GIANTS' OWNERS SUED.

Two Victims of Speedway Accident Demand $50,000 Damages Each.

The National Exhibition Company, owner of the New York Giants, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday by Nathaniel H. Hertzberger and Jacob Goldstein for $50,000 each for personal injuries. Both were hurt on Aug. 15 last, on the third day of the New York-Cincinnati series, when during the crush at the Speedway entrance of the Polo Grounds a score of persons were pushed off a runway and five were injured.

PENNANT FOR ATLANTA.

Championship Assured as a Result of Victory Over New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 3.—Atlanta, by defeating New Orleans today, virtually won the Southern Association championship for 1919. The Atlanta club, by a score of 5 to 0, today took the second straight game of the series with New Orleans, which club, by reason of the splitting of today's double-header between Little Rock and Chattanooga, went into third place. The Southern Association season closes Sunday, and Atlanta now leads by seven and a half games.

SOLDIERS IN THE RING.

Amateur boxers of Fort Slocum, under the instructions of Bill Spengler, former amateur heavyweight champion, carried off the honors in two of the seven bouts conducted last night by the New York A. C. at the Knights of Columbus building at Camp Merritt for the entertainment of the doughboys stationed at the New Jersey cantonment. In two other contests the Fort Slocum soldier fighters were forced to defeat their spirited sessions with their rivals.

The most decisive victory for the Fort Slocum team was registered by B. Friedman, who competed in the 120-pound class. Friedman knocked out J. De Andry of the Glencoe A. C. in the second round of their scheduled three-round match. The soldier boxer clearly outclassed his adversary from the start of the bout, and administered a severe beating to the Glencoe lad before putting over the finishing blow.

D. Fuchs carried the emblem of Fort Slocum to victory in the longest and hardest bout of the night. Fuchs competed against S. Fritz in the 115-pound division and was forced to his utmost before being adjudged the victor. So close was the fighting that the judges disagreed at the end of the regulation three rounds, and an extra period of two minutes was ordered. Another disagreement resulted at the completion of this session, and then the referee rendered his verdict in favor of Fuchs.

In the 140-pound class, Otto Favenza of the Pastime A. C. scored a surprising victory over O. Siegel of Fort Slocum in three rounds. The soldier showed to advantage in the opening two rounds, when he sent Favenza to the floor twice. The Pastime boxer recovered from the effects of these blows, however, and in the third round scored a knockout with a terrific right-hand smash to the jaw.

Sol Seeman, New York State 108-pound champion, scored a victory over S. Fogler of the Pastime A. C. in their three-round session. The titleholder was the cleverer boxer and landed more cleanly and often than his opponent, accumulating points which Fogler was unable to overcome despite a belated rally. The decision, although fair, did not meet with the approval of the soldiers who witnessed the contest.

A crowd of about 3,500 doughboys, cramming themselves into every nook and cranny of the K. of C. building, witnessed the bouts and cheered to the echo in every contest. Particularly did the crowd manifest satisfaction in the bout between L. Goldberg of the 71st Regiment and J. McGrath of the Glencoe A. C., in the 110-pound division. These two little boxers went at each other tooth and nail for every minute of the three rounds they were in the ring and tickled the onlookers with a spirited slugging bee. Goldberg was the successful competitor, landing frequently with blows which jarred his rival from head to heel. At the end of three rounds the judges gave their award to Goldberg.

The summaries:

STRONG TEAMS FOR RELAYS.

New York A. C. Seeks to Win Four Metropolitan A. A. U. Titles.

The New York A. C. will make a determined effort to annex the four Metropolitan A. A. U. relay championship titles which will be decided under the auspices of the Newark Celebration Committee at City Field, Newark, N. J., in conjunction with the national pentathlon and steeplechase championships Saturday. The Mercury Foot organization yesterday entered teams for the quartet of relay races, at distances of 440 yards, one mile, two miles, and four miles.

This is the heaviest entry received from any one club. The Knights of St. Antony have entered teams for three of the events, while teams representing the Paulist A. C., Glencoe A. C., St. Christopher Club, and Alpha P. C. C. will strive for titles in two of the races. The personnel of the teams indicates that the wearers of the Winged Foot will not have things all their own way, despite the club's abundance of material.

NEGRO TROOPS WIN AT JERSEY SHOOT

Team Matches Hold First Interest in State Rifle Range Contests at Sea Girt.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 3.—Four team events are holding first interest in the State rifle range matches here today. They are the New Jersey Company team match, the 71st Regiment match, the New York Company team match, and the company team match Tyro. Only one individual match is scheduled for today—the Rogers match at 600 yards.

The company team match Tyro was won at the State rifle range by the 2d Separate Company of New Jersey colored troops, with a score of 130. Second place was won by the Machine Gun Company of the 6th New Jersey Infantry, with the same score of 130, but with a lower rank on the long range. Third place went to Company F, 71st New York Infantry, which made a score of 128.

A question of the eligibility of the Marine team, which won the Tyro team match, arose, and the Marine team withdrew, first place being given to the 2d Separate Company of New York, colored, which had won second place.

The Liberty match, at 1,100 yards, which was started yesterday, was finished today, and was won by Corporal Raymond Coulter of the Marine Corps, who scored 95 out of a possible 100. Sergeant Ernest von Erdmannsdorff of the Marine Corps was second with 94, and First Lieutenant John A. Zimmerman of the Marines was third with 91.

It was necessary to shoot two extra strings of ten shots to determine the winner of the all-comers' expert match, shot at 600 yards. Three men tied for first, with a total of 49 out of a possible 50. These were: Sergeant Theodore Crowley, U. S. Marine Corps; James Laughlin, Taunton, Mass., and Sergeant Ernest Von Erdmannsdorff, U. S. Marine Corps. In the second shoot-off Crowley and Laughlin tied with 45 each, and in the third and final shoot-off Crowley won the match with a 46 to Laughlin's 42.

The Rogers match, shot at 600 yards, will be finished tomorrow, as eight men shooting in other matches were unable to finish their scores. Private Moore of the U. S. Marine Corps is high man with a score of 96 out of a possible 100.

Mrs. E. C. Crossman, wife of an army officer, who did such remarkable shooting at the national matches at Caldwell, today shot well up in the list of best scores, with a 90 to her credit.

The national tennis championship is still undecided, for it rained again yesterday and the committee was once more compelled to call everything off. Sunshine and good tennis, however, are positively promised for this afternoon, when William M. Johnston of San Francisco and William T. Tilden 2d of Philadelphia will settle the American singles title for 1919. The officials for the big match are announced as follows: Umpire, Edward C. Conlin; Foot-Fault Judge, Frederick B. Alexander; Net Umpire, S. Wallis Merrihew; Linesmen, C. M. Bull, Jr., Herman Friedman, (service,) Charles Garland, Paul Gibbons, (centre,) R. T. Bryan, Benjamin Phillips, E. P. Fischer, Harold Swain, (side,) Peter Wright, Captain A. P. Simmons, (baseline.)

The postponement until today of the final in the national singles championship involved also a change in the arrangements of the team match to be played with the Australians on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills. The schedule originally called for two doubles matches to open the contest this afternoon, but with the championship still unfinished the team match will have to wait. After the postponement was decided on Julian S. Myrick, Vice President of the U. S. N. L. T. A., announced that Thursday's play in the team match would take place on Monday, Sept. 8. The schedule for the championship is unchanged.

The Teams Announced.

The Australian team for the match with the United States will be Gerald L. Patterson, Norman E. Brookes, R. V. Thomas, and Randolph Lycett, in the order named. The team for the United States will include the men who took part in the semi-finals of the championship—William T. Tilden 2d, William M. Johnston, Richard Norris Williams 2d, and Wallace Johnson. Friday's schedule will bring together Lycett and Wallace Johnson at 1 o'clock, Thomas and Williams at 2:30, and in doubles Brookes-Patterson vs. Tilden-Johnston at 4:30. Tickets for Friday's matches will be on sale at the grounds only. On Friday also an advance sale will be started at the grounds for Saturday's matches. Play that day will be as follows: At 1 o'clock, Lycett-Thomas vs. Williams-Johnsons; 3 P. M., Brookes vs. Johnston; 4:30 P. M., Patterson vs. Tilden.

That the team match of this country and the Australians will be followed very closely in Australia is evident from the July 3 issue of the Referee, which has just reached this country. Under the heading "Why Not a Match With U. S. A.?" Austral wrote in that issue of Referee: "I would like to see a match arranged between Australia and the United States, all four men playing two singles and two doubles by each pair, as in the Buckley Cup matches. Such a contest would be of great interest, and the opportunity to play it is not likely to recur for many years. It would attract a great gate, and would bring the best men in the world today together, even more so than a Davis Cup contest. It is quite possible that it will be arranged by our men in the States, but they will need to get sanction from the authorities."

A Watery Landscape.

The few who wandered out to Forest Hills yesterday afternoon found a dreary and rainsoaked landscape, the huge stands empty and dripping, the flags and awnings bedraggled, with little pools of water in every depression of the great tarpaulins that cover the three championship courts. The only signs of life at the West Side Club were to be found in the little office of George Agutter, the club's tennis instructor and doctor of racquets. He and his able young assistant, Warren Kruger, were putting in a busy day catching up with the imperative orders for new strings, for nearly every player in the tournament has been compelled, during the wet spell, to call frequently for first aid. Ex-champion Johnston alone has had a full dozen tennis racquets re-strung in the last few days, for he likes his strings very tight. According to Mr. Agutter, the Californian formerly used a bat weighing over [illegible] ounces, especially heavy in the head, for it was only thus that he could get satisfactory speed and steadiness. This year, however, he turned to a lighter weapon, adapted to quicker volleying, and it was with one of these that he defeated the Australian Gerald Patterson. On the following day, however, against R. Lindley Murray, Johnston returned to his earlier preference, and his hard hitting in that match showed that the weight and tightness of his racquet suited him exactly. Again, after he had lost the opening set of his semi-final to Wallace Johnson, using a lighter bat, the 1915 title-holder changed in favor of more weight and speed, and won the match in consequence.

All Rare Geniuses.

Perhaps it was the weather, and perhaps it was mere chance, but the ordinarily taciturn professional was in a discursive mood yesterday, and his audience grew rapidly as he delivered more and more gems from the treasure house of his tennis wisdom. Mr. Agutter has the greatest admiration for the versatile game developed by William T. Tilden, 2d, as well as for the individual skill of Williams and Brookes. "But they are all rare geniuses," he adds, "and I would not advise any of our younger players to copy their styles. If you run through the list of champions you will find that practically all of them were the thorough masters of a comparatively small equipment of strokes. Think of Larned, Gore, the Dohertys, Wilding, the Frenchmen Decugis and Germot, and our own Bill Johnston. They all perfected their form within certain limits and did not bother about fancy trick shots.

"Boys who used to see McLoughlin driving, serving, and smashing went out on the court determined to play the same way, quite overlooking the fact that the champion of that day was entirely lacking in sound backhand shots. Even Johnston, who has the most orthodox, conservative game in America today among the topnotchers, would be a vastly improved player if he could drive backhand as he does on the forehand side; in other words, if he could add the perfect backhand of T. R. Pell to his other shots. How many people realize that Johnston hits his backhand shots with the same side of the racquet as his forehand? Very few tennis players have ever reached the top with that style. McLoughlin was another of them, but his backhand was always a negligible quantity."

Mr. Agutter referred also to the back hand of Miss Molla Bjurstedt, which she has developed under his instruction into an aggressive stroke, although she does not change the face of the racquet. Patterson's backhand wallop was pointed out as another incorrect stroke and the direct cause of the "tennis elbow" from which the young Australian has been suffering recently.

What Benefit from Imitation?

"What benefit," continued Mr. Agutter, "would a boy derive from trying to imitate the wonderful cut strokes of Wallace Johnson? There is another absolutely individual style which only one man in a thousand could muster. Tilden's extraordinary game contains all the varieties of chops and drives as well, but who could ever begin to copy them without devoting a lifetime to the task?

"The boy, or the grown man, for that matter, who wishes to hold his own with good tennis players should watch and imitate the men of the orthodox school, players like Walter Merrill Hall and Nathaniel W. Niles. He may never grow to be a world-beater, but he will always have a sound, dependable game, comparatively free from 'off days' and commanding the respect of even those who, through greater skill or experience, can defeat it. It is by no means a difficult task for even an adult to acquire a correct forehand and backhand drive and an adequate service. If he can add some skill in volleying, and perhaps an overhead smash, he has the equipment for actual tournament play, without worrying about half-volleys, chops, and all the other trick shots that require genius for their complete control.

"What too many young players fail to realize is that every expert swings at the ball, instead of pushing or jabbing at it. The swing is not always noticeable, but it is there just the same. When a youngster is facing speed for the first time, he is apt to say: 'But I haven't time to swing, the ball comes too fast.' What he does not realize is that his process of thought, his instinct of anticipation, is too slow in working, not the physical action of his muscles. He has plenty of time to swing if he becomes aware of the ball's line of flight and gets into position quickly enough. Some players follow through in an exaggerated fashion, finishing their strokes high in the air. This is quite unnecessary. There should always be a back-swing and a follow-through, but no wild circling of the racquet through the air. The heavily topped drive of Kumagae is an exceptional stroke, and very effective, but scarcely one to be imitated successfully. Vincent Richards makes the mistake of lifting his racquet too straight into the air as he drives. That is why he is still chiefly dependent on his chopping ground strokes, which were quickly solved last week by Williams.

Touch Is Important.

"Touch is just as important in tennis as in billiards or piano playing. It is the sense of touch, the exact timing of a stroke, that gives both speed and control. Johnston has very little weight to throw into his shots, but he hits as hard a forehand drive as any one, because he always times the stroke exactly right. Much of his speed comes from the force with which his opponent hit the ball. That is why he likes to play on a fast court and against hard hitters of the Murray type, whom he can always defeat.

"Players who stand in close, like Williams, really bunt the ball, hitting it always on the rise. But that also is far from orthodox, and when one of these bunters is driven into deep court he is very apt to find that his swings have insufficient control. That is what happened to Williams when Brookes and Wilding defeated him in 1914, and again when he faced Tilden on Monday. Johnston was able to keep Williams from bunting successfully in their great final of 1916, and lost only because Williams uncovered a real backhand drive, with which no one had credited him, swinging on the ball and placing it both across court and straight down the line.

"The men who can stand in close to receive the service and then bunt the ball to the sides as the server comes in has a big advantage, but his sense of touch must be perfection itself if he is to keep it up for long. When McLoughlin beat Brookes in 1914 he stood far outside the court in receiving, but hit the ball so hard that the extra distance did not matter."

George Agutter is convinced that the majority of American boys are learning to play tennis correctly, having thus a big advantage over their elders, who had to pick up the game as best they could. At Forest Hills alone, he says, there is a strong junior element that will soon make its presence felt in the national championships. This seemed a possible opening for the question which every one is asking today: "Who will win the title, Tilden or Johnston?" But on this point the Nestor of American tennis surrounded himself with an absolute and unqualified silence.

WOODMERE TENNIS TODAY.

Long Island Club's Much Postponed Events Begin This Afternoon.

Weather permitting, the much postponed tennis tournament of the Woodmere Club will begin at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Woodmere, L. I. As originally scheduled, this event would have conflicted with the Eastern New York championship, the Greenwich invitation tourney, and the East-West matches, therefore it was decided to put it off until after the national championship, which should normally have ended on Monday or Tuesday of this week. Yesterday's rain again delayed the start at Woodmere, as well as holding up the national finals for another day, and it will now be necessary for the more distant Long Islanders to proceed in competition with the titular windup, as well as the international matches at Forest Hills. But as a strong entry list is already assured at Woodmere, this will scarcely be a hardship to the popular club on the shores of the inlet. The splendid clay courts, the unrivaled opportunities for good swimming, and the consistent hospitality of the local members have spread the fame of the Woodmere tournament afar.

Men's singles and doubles and mixed doubles (the latter for the championship of Long Island) are on this week's program at Woodmere, and Chairman Leslie H. Fishel of the tournament committee predicts some lively encounters. A new challenge cup is to be offered in the singles, the former trophy having become the permanent possession of G. A. L. Dionne of the West Side Club. Interest in today's play will be heightened by the entry of the young Cleveland star, Kirk Reid, who was last seen in the East when he reached the semi-finals of the New York State championship at Utica. In this tournament the Cornell tennis Captain defeated Seiichiro Kashio, the Japanese expert, and gave Ichiya Kumagae, the winner, his hardest battle of the week. Previously he had taken a one-sided set from William T. Tilden 2d at Niagara, and carried him to deuce games in the rubber. Reid is a left hander, and hits very hard, backhand as well as forehand.

Among the local entries who may be counted upon to give the Middle Westerner an argument are Elliott H. Binzen, Francis T. Hunter, Alfred D. Hammett, Fred Letson, the Anderson brothers, and Walter J. Toussaint. It is possible also that Kashio will travel down to Woodmere to seek revenge for his defeat at Utica. Robert Leroy is entered in the doubles and mixed doubles, but will not try conclusions in the individual event.

In addition to Chairman Fishel, the tournament committee includes Dave Fox, Arthur Goldburg, William Demuth, Charles Liebeskind, Miss G. Bluthenthal, Miss A. Pforzheimer, and Mrs. L. J. Robertson.

MAY NAME OFFICIAL TO MEASURE TRACKS

Metropolitan A. A. U. to Vote on This and Other Reforms at Annual Meeting.

Officials of the local Amateur Athletic Union, eager to improve the conditions of outdoor track and field activities, are planning a number of changes in the conduct of the sport, to be submitted for consideration at the forthcoming annual meeting of the Metropolitan A. A. U. One of the proposed changes provides for the installation of an official or committee whose duty it will be to measure accurately the tracks in the metropolitan district prior to athletic meets.

The appointment of such an official or committee, it is felt, will eliminate the danger of races being conducted over inaccurate distances, as has often been the case in the past. The most recent illustration of the necessity for such an office was furnished at the Caledonian Club games in Washington Park, Mapeth, L. I., last Monday. The track, staked off with an improvised border, was supposed to measure 220 yards to the lap, or eight laps to the mile. On the time recorded for the races conducted this measurement was found to be decidedly inaccurate, one official claiming that the track was short by about five yards on every lap. Under these conditions an athlete ran forty yards short in a race at one mile, and double this distance in a two-mile run. The shortage was accounted for by the fact that the runners trampled the temporary inside border into the ground and subsequently cut in on the grass-covered infield.

Unfair to Runners.

The conditions at several tracks in the metropolitan district are similar and officials are beginning a campaign to eradicate the evil. It is felt that the sport suffers materially by the absence of proper measurements and stakes, inasmuch as prominent runners who start from scratch in handicap events are deprived of opportunities to redeem the marks they allow, while handicapped competitors, who are successful on the short tracks, are deceived through their inaccurate performances. Those who have the interest of the sport at heart argue that the deterrent can be removed only by the appointment of an official who would visit the scene before the date of the meet, properly measure the track, and provide temporary stakes, according to his measurements.

The custom of utilizing small American flags as borders and stakes at athletic meets also has been condemned by patriotic officials, and it is likely legislation will be urged to eliminate this practice. The flags invariably are trampled under foot and seldom serve the purpose for which they are placed in the ground. Outside of the degradation the national emblem suffers it is said there is absolutely no need for utilizing the flags for this purpose, when small uprights, such as are used for the lanes in sprinting races, could be used more appropriately as track borders where the permanent article is not provided.

Small Clubs to Fight.

Representatives of the so-called small clubs are planning to battle for a change in the dates of the local junior and senior outdoor track and field championship meets. Smarting under the overwhelming successes of the New York A. C. in both fixtures this year, the smaller organizations are seeking an earlier date in the case of the junior tests and a later date for the senior meet. The attitude is taken that the New York A. C. gets material help from the colleges, because of the club's great financial resources. The small club representatives are determined to seek a date late in May for the juniors and late in September for the seniors.

The small clubs are also selecting prospective office holders in opposition to the nominations made by the A. A. U. Nominating Committee. John Gerhken of the Pennant A. C. has entered the field as an independent candidate against Charles Elbert of the Anchor A. C. of Jersey City, for the office of Secretary-Treasurer. This office is being vacated by James McInerney of the St. Anselm's A. C., whose business compelled him to decline renomination. Gus Leuschner of the Glencoe A. C. is being advanced as an opponent of John C. Collins of New Haven, Conn., the regular nominee for the office of Second Vice President. Both independent candidates have the backing of the small clubs.

Action on the admission of five new clubs will also be taken at the coming meeting. The organizations seeking affiliation with the Metropolitan A. A. U. are: Sterling A. C., Elmhurst, L. I., Telephone Society, Inc., New York; Knights of St. Peter, New Brunswick N. J., Esthonian-American A. C., New York, and Viking A. C., New York.

MATT GEIS TO RUN AGAIN.

Soldier-Athlete Plans to Compete in Indoor Meets.

Lieutenant Matt Geis, old 71st Regiment middle distance runner and member of the Millrose A. A., has returned to the latter organization after eighteen months' service with the 27th Division in France. It is understood Geis plans to resume training with the object of competing in indoor athletic meets during the coming season. The Millrose runner was commissioned a Lieutenant from the ranks shortly before his division sailed for home. Geis was held abroad as a casual and returned only three weeks ago.

DRIFTWOOD BLAZE REPEATS VICTORY

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Aroused by a perfect day and the presence of Governor Alfred E. Smith, the activities of the Rochester horse show reached a high point of animation today. It was an afternoon of keenest competition in all classes and thrilling taking of the jumps.

No paddock has ever seen a better class of saddle horses than that which cantered across the greensward in competition for the Rochester Challenge Cup. Interest was intense as Miss Eleonora Sears's Radiant was again pitted against Walter H. Hanley's Driftwood Blaze, which took the blue from it at the Newport show a week ago. Miss Sears won the cup with Radiant last year, but permanent possession means two successive winnings. Driftwood Blaze, with Mrs. Hanley up, and riding superbly, repeated its Eastern victory. In a class of saddle horses, judged largely for manners, Driftwood Blaze took its second blue, with Miss Isabella Wanamaker's Cherrystone holding reserve.

Three for Miss Vauclain.

Miss Constance Vauclain of Philadelphia took three successive blues. Her bay mare, Rusper Calypso, was first in a class of ponies shown in hand. Her famous chestnut mare, The Whip, was winner of a blue in a class of ladies' harness horses shown to vehicles, and her high-stepping pony, Nimbus, was best in a fine field which included Miss Sears's Bouncer and Wildfire. Mrs. F. P. Garvan had an easy victory with her famous Shetlands, Silver Tips 1st and Silver Tips 2d, driven in harness, and also with Hamilton Flame in a pony class.

Mrs. Lulu Long Coombs's Revelation, Reputation, and Consternation took the blue and Miss Wanamaker's Warwick Matchless, Willisden Witchery, and Netheralls Pride the reserve in a stunning unicorn team showing. Miss Wanamaker's Eve and Netheralls Pride had first and Mrs. Joseph S. Sylvester's Excessive and Expressive reserve in a class of harness pairs.

Mrs. Coombs's Revelation and Consternation had the blue and A. W. Atkinson's Ideal Mathias and Mogul the red in a tandem showing. Woodin Farm's sensational jumper, Blackwatch, won for the third successive day in a great field of open jumping, with the best hunters in the country pitted against him and making fine records. F. H. Bontecon's Germaine had reserve and Miss Carol Smith's Ondremon took the yellow.

Nipissing's Third Blue.

Nipissing, the wonderful green hunter of C. L. Whiting's stable, took its third blue in a class of lightweight hunters, in which Miss Sears's famed Robin Hood had reserve. Immediately afterward Louis K. Liggett, the Boston drug magnate, purchased Nipissing for $3,000.

N. Y. A. C. SWIM SATURDAY.

Two-Day Carnival Will Be Consolidated in Single Day's Events.

The swimming carnival scheduled to be conducted last night under the auspices of the New York A. C. at South Beach, S. I., for the benefit of the wounded soldiers at the Fox Hills Base Hospital, through the Chaplain's Fund was called off because of the inclement weather. The meet was to have been the first half of a two-day carnival, the second installment being scheduled for Saturday. It is planned to hold the postponed meet Saturday afternoon and abandon the program originally carded for Saturday.

The events will include a 50-yard swim for novices, 100-yard handicap swim, 220-yard handicap swim, and a fancy diving contest. These events will be open to all registered A. A. U. swimmers. In addition, several events will be conducted for residents of Staten Island. Some of the leading swimmers of the New York A. C. will participate in the open events, including Leo Giebel, Clarence Ross, Paul Chace, Joe Wheatley, Teddy Cann, Fred Sponberg, George Dahm, and R. E. Galbraith. The events will be conducted over a 50-yard course.

TROEH LEADS AT TRAPS.

Record-Breaker Makes an Astonishingly Fine Average.

Frank M. Troeh of Vancouver, who recently established a world's record by breaking 200 targets straight to win the American amateur 18-yard championship, is the leading amateur trapshooter on registered targets. Official averages for the first eight months of the season, released today by the American Trapshooting Association, give Troeh an average of .9760, and to establish these figures the Pacific Coast star shot at 4,720 registered targets, which is nearly 1,000 more than any of his competitors among the leading trap shots.

There is an interesting race among the professionals for high average on registered targets. Rush Razee, Curtis, Neb., was leading on Sept. 1 with the phenomenal mark of .9801. Homer Clark, Alton, Ill., with .9771; John R. Jahn, Long Grove, Iowa, .9761, and Fred Gilbert, Spirit Lake, Iowa, .9723, are other professionals who are making a bid for the high honor.

TENNIS VETERANS SCORE.

Two of British Semi-Finalists Are Well Over 50 Years.

Tennis, although calling for speed and endurance to an unusual degree, can show more veterans of advanced middle age than any other form of athletics. Two of the four semi-finalists in the all-England tournament at Wimbledon were well over 50. They were Ritchie and C. P. Dixon. Dixon nine years ago forced W. A. Larned, then America's best, to go five sets in the Davis Cup matches, while Ritchie was runner-up for the English championships in 1902, 1903, and 1904.

There was a State champion out in Montana for many years who was a grandfather. J. H. McLaughlin was 56 years old the last year he defended the title. Samuel Hardy, who began tennis with Larned, Davis, Wright, and Holcomb Ward, recently forced R. Lindley Murray, one of the speediest players in the game, to go five sizzling sets to beat him, and Hardy is now in his thirtieth year of tournament play.

HAGEN INELIGIBLE TO COMPETE HERE

Open Champion Fails to Qualify for Professional Association Golf Tourney.

One of the biggest surprises of the golfing season was sprung yesterday when Alec Pirie, Secretary of the Professional Golfers' Association, announced that Walter Hagen, national open champion, had failed to qualify and therefore is not eligible to compete in the association's tournament to be held at the Engineers' Club, Roslyn, L. I., beginning on Tuesday, Sept. 16.

There had been considerable doubt expressed in local golf circles regarding the possibility of Hagen's being a competitor in this event. This official announcement by Mr. Pirie definitely settles the status of the open title holder so far as the P. G. A. tourney of this year is concerned.

To a marked degree the failure of Hagen to qualify robs the event of much of its lustre, for there has been a great deal of rivalry manifested among the professional golfers, and more than one has openly expressed the desire to meet Walter Hagen on the links in tournament play before the season skids off the sporting calendar. This desire has been emphasized in many quarters by the fact that the Professional Golfers' Association tournament is at thirty-six holes match play instead of at medal play, as are practically all of the other tourneys in which professionals are eligible to compete.

Must Qualify in Districts.

In order to be a competitor in this tournament it is essential that all professional golfers qualify in the districts in which their clubs are located. Playing from the Oakland Golf Club of Detroit, Hagen should have competed in the qualifying tournament held at Chicago on Aug. 25, immediately following the close of the national amateur tournament at Oakmont, Pittsburgh. This Hagen failed to do, and for this reason Mr. Pirie made the official announcement that the open champion will not be able to tee off with the other pros on Sept. 16.

The St. Louis district was the last to hold its qualifying round. Thirty-two players have now qualified to compete in the tourney here, and it is confidently expected that some of the best sport of the season seen in this neck of the golfing woods will be witnessed in the event to be held at the Engineers' Club. And this in spite of the fact that Walter Hagen will not be among the starters.

Naturally, when a tournament of importance is robbed of the presence of the leading champion of the country, much of the attractiveness is detracted; but, while keen disappointment is felt at Hagen's failure to qualify, it is probable that most of the golfing enthusiasts who possibly can will arrange to be in the gallery that will see the play.

Particular interest had been centred in this coming tournament because of the rivalry which exists between Jim Barnes and Walter Hagen. They have met twice this season and each has won once. Hagen, of course, scored the more notable victory by winning the open championship at Braeburn, when he was compelled to defeat Mike Brady in order to drape his brow with the coveted laurel. Barnes was in that tourney.

Barnes and Hagen clashed again at Cleveland in the Western open golf championship, and Barnes emerged the victor. Ever since Barnes has been keenly anxious to grapple with Hagen. The supporters of Jim Barnes, and they are legion, have contended their favorite would take the measure of the open champion if they ever met at match play. For this reason the disappointment in golfing circles is particularly keen.

BILLIARD TITLE TOURNEYS.

Conditions Named for Annual Competitions at Three Styles.

Three tournaments to establish the championship at 18.2, three-cushion and pocket billiards have been announced by the Brunswick-Balke Collender Company, which has held jurisdiction of these title competitions for many years. The program calls for games of 400 points in the 18.2 championship tournament, 50 points at the three-cushion caroms, and 125 points in the pocket billiards.

The balkline championship tournament will be limited to six players, with an entrance fee of $250. The prizes in this tournament will be as follows: First, $2,500; second, $1,750; third, $1,250; fourth, $750. This tournament will be held in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor, New York, from Oct. 20 to 25, inclusive. Entries close on Sept. 20.

The three-cushion tournament will be limited to ten players, subject to an entrance fee of $150. The prizes to be awarded to the first four, according to their standing at the close of the tournament, are: $1,500, $1,250, $1,000, and $750. This tournament will be held at the Moose Auditorium, Cleveland, Nov. 6 to 19, inclusive. Entries close Oct. 4.

The pocket billiard tournament will be limited to ten players, subject to an entrance fee of $150. The prizes to be awarded the winners are the same as in the three-cushion tournament. The games will be played at the Auditorium, Parkway Building, Philadelphia, Dec. 1 to 13 inclusive. Entries will close Nov. 1.

It is intended that these tournaments shall be conducted annually, and the winner of each tournament will be awarded a trophy emblematic of the championship, which will remain in his possession as evidence of his claim to the title of champion for the period of one year, and thereafter will revert to the winner of the next annual tournament. The trophy will become the personal property of any player winning it three times, whereupon a new trophy will be substituted for future competition.

The winner of each tournament will receive an annual salary in recognition of his having won the championship; the salaries to be as follows: Balk-line champion, $4,000; three-cushion carom champion, $2,400; pocket billiard champion, $2,400. These salaries to be paid in monthly installments, beginning thirty days after the termination of each tournament.

The winners of the three championships, together with the runners-up of each tournament, must participate in a tour extending over a period of approximately eighteen (18) consecutive weeks, commencing the first week in January, 1920, to play exhibitions and matches in various cities throughout the United States and Canada.

The players participating in the tour will receive during the period of said tour a special compensation ranging from $100 per week up, according to their standing and drawing ability as an attraction. In addition to this salary, each player is to receive free transportation throughout the tour.

BRADY TO PLAY HAGEN.

Golf Professionals in 36-Hole Match at Deal Next Sunday.

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—Mike Brady announced tonight that he would shoot a 36-hole medal play match against Walter Hagen, national open golf champion, on Sunday next, at the Hollywood Golf Club, Deal, N. J., for a purse of $500. Brady will return to Massachusetts on Monday to defend his title as State open champion at the Worcester Country Club. He will make an effort to bring Hagen to Worcester for the State championship. Hagen won the national open title after a play-off with Brady at Brae Burn in June.

Keeping Your Money at Work

THE sale of 60,000 Republic Trucks in about five years is the result of the Republic principle of keeping your money at work—of keeping Republics in prime condition and in continuous operation.

Republics rarely go to the repair shop, except in cases of accident or gross carelessness on the part of drivers. But when they do require mechanical attention, it is our object to get them back into operation with the least possible delay.

To this end we maintain possibly the most modern and completely equipped truck service station in New York. Here trained Republic mechanics are ready for instant service and enough parts are constantly kept on hand to build complete Republics.

This is the service ideal that has made Republic the world's most popular truck.

NEW PARTY RAISES BOLSHEVIST BANNER

SOCIALIST NUMBERS CUT

Before the War They Claimed 117,000, Now There Are Only 42,217—Transactions of the Convention.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The new Communist Labor Party of America adopted a platform today after wrangling nearly all day over the phraseology. It declares the party in full harmony with the revolutionary working class parties of all countries and stands by the principles stated by the third international program adopted at Moscow, Russia. Other planks in the platform read:

"We fully recognize the crying need for an immediate change in the social system. The time for parleying and compromise has passed and now it is only a question whether the full power remains in the hands of the capitalist or the working class.

"The Communist Labor Party of America has as its ultimate aim the overthrow of the present system of production in which the working class is mercilessly exploited, and the creation of an industrial republic, wherein the machinery of production shall be socialized so as to guarantee to the workers the full social value of their toil.

"To this end we ask the workers to unite with the Communist Labor Party of America industrially and politically in the struggle for the conquest of the State and the powers of government in the establishment of a co-operative Commonwealth."

John Reed of New York presented the report of the Committee on Program and Labor, which was said to be the most radical declaration of principles ever issued by a political party in this country. The lengthy document is said to have been largely copied from the program of the Soviet Republic of Russia. Action on the report was deferred until tomorrow.

The Communist Labor Party delegates sang social revolutionary songs for an hour before getting down to business. One of the songs was "The Gene Debs Gang," of which the words of the refrain are:

Glorious, glorious; we'll make the Bolshevik victorious;
Hail to the plutes; they are making more of us,
While 'Gene lies in prison for us all.

Another song ran:

All who right and justice seek,
Burst your bonds, no longer weak;
Unite and join the Bolshevik.
Rise, rise, rise.

The insistence of H. Tichenor of St. Louis finally prevailed in the selection of a name for the party.

"There are fifty-seven varieties of socialism, and perhaps more than that," he said, "but there is only one kind of Bolshevism, and the world is having a hard time to stomach that. Communism knows no race, nation, breed, or creed. We've got to get the word 'communism' in the name some place."

The meeting of communists was thrown into a commotion when detectives arrested Dennis E. Batt, reputed to be an organizer for the I. W. W., and took him from the hall. They had been searching for him for a week on a charge of making a seditious speech.

War and the withdrawal of radical insurgent members have reduced the total membership of the National Socialist Party in this country to 42,217, according to a report read at the convention of the organization today. Before the war the Socialist Party claimed a membership of 117,000.

Urged political freedom for Ireland and India.

Criticised Congress for declining to seat Victor Berger, Socialist, of Milwaukee pending an investigation of his claims to the office.

Indorsed the plan for a general industrial strike on Oct. 8 to compel the release of Tom Mooney, Eugene V. Debs and other prisoners.

Indorsed the co-operative store plan to reduce the high cost of living.

Sent telegrams of fraternal greeting to Debs and other radical leaders imprisoned during the war.

The delegates applauded for several minutes when a report was read that Emma Goldman had been released from prison two weeks ago.

Virginia House and Alabama Senate Vote Against Ratification.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 3.—The Virginia House of Delegates today refused by a vote of 61 to 21 to ratify the Federal woman suffrage constitutional amendment, upon which President Wilson in a message to the Legislature had urged favorable action.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 3.—For a second time the State Senate refused yesterday to ratify the Federal woman suffrage constitutional amendment. A motion to ratify was defeated 18 to 13, after a debate of two hours.

DISCHARGES SON OF BOSS.

Youth Dismissed for Starting a Union in Father's Factory.

John Miller, Jr., son of the business head and chief stockholder of the Keystone Watch Case Company in Riverside, N. J., was discharged yesterday when it was found he was a leader in a plan to organize a union among the thousand employes of the establishment.

The young man worked in the plant at the recommendation of his father, who, it is said, wanted him to learn the business by starting at the bottom.

He was employed in a department where there was a movement last week to unionize. With fellow employes he took an active part in the plan. The Superintendent of the plant is said to have sought to check the move to organize by discharging several men, making no distinction in the case of young Miller.

Friends of the young man said yesterday that personal relations between the head of the plant and his son remained cordial, but that the gulf of industrial relations between them was still unbridged.

BENNETT TO FIGHT PRIMARY RESULT

Defeated by La Guardia, He Charges Fraud and Also Threatens Prosecution.

BITTERLY ATTACKS LEADERS

Will Demand an Inspection of Vote Showing 1,688 Against Him.

Madigan's Victory Regarded as Due to Resentment at Shelving of Newburger.

Bitterly attacking Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the New York County Republican Committee, and charging that he had been robbed of the Republican nomination for President of the Aldermen through fraudulent practices at the polls in Manhattan, ex-State Senator William M. Bennett announced last night that he would petition the courts for right to inspect the Republican primary ballots cast in that borough and ask District Attorney Swann to institute criminal proceedings.

The course followed by Mr. Bennett, after the strong showing he made in the primaries on Tuesday, is identical with his procedure after the city primaries in 1917, when Mayor John Purroy Mitchel on the primary returns was pronounced victor in the contest between Mr. Bennett and himself for the Republican nomination for Mayor. On inspection and recount of the ballots in that instance the result was reversed and a barren victory accorded to the former State Senator, while as the result of criminal proceedings which followed three score of Republican and Democratic election inspectors, charged with changing Bennett ballots in favor of Mayor Mitchel, subsequently were sent to prison.

La Guardia's Majority 1,688.

Complete returns from Tuesday's primary election, received yesterday morning, gave the victory in the Republican contests for President of the Aldermanic Board to Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, Bennett's opponent, by a slim majority of 1,688 votes. Representative La Guardia carried the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, the former borough by 6,412 and the latter by 409, while Mr. Bennett was successful in the three other boroughs. His majority in Brooklyn was 3,441, in Queens 1,540 and in Richmond 152. This table shows the complete vote for both candidates by boroughs:

	La Guardia.	Bennett.
Bronx	1,943	1,534
Brooklyn	12,372	15,813
Queens	1,846	3,386
Richmond	238	390
Total	28,274	26,586

Bennett Attacks Leaders.

Mr. Bennett's statement follows:

"I do not concede the election of Mr. La Guardia. On the contrary, I am convinced, as I was the day after primary day in 1917, that I have been robbed of the nomination. The circumstances in both are the same. It is history repeating itself.

"The crime against the ballot box of 1919 has been perpetrated by the same criminals who stole the 1917 primary, but who were forced by the courts to place my name on the ballot as the Republican nominee for Mayor. I am also convinced that, as in 1917, some of the election thieves—well paid, by the way—will soon be on their way to jail. Two years ago ninety of these ballot box thieves who tried to rob the enrolled voters of the Republican Party as well as myself were sent to prison. Sixty of these were from Manhattan. Half of that number were followers of the Hon. Charles F. Murphy, the other half were followers of the Hon. Samuel S. Koenig.

"I have had numerous offers of aid, financial and otherwise, from prominent Republicans, who believe that another crime has been committed against the sanctity of the ballot, and who are urging me to ask the courts for a recount.

"I shall inspect the returns tomorrow morning and thereafter shall ask that the ballot boxes, and the ballots, voted and unvoted, be impounded by the Board of Election. I shall also ask District Attorney Swann to institute criminal proceedings.

"My primary object in so doing is not personal, but I have made up my mind that the Republican organization in the City of New York shall recognize the fundamental principle of our Government that every man and every woman is entitled to one vote and that one vote shall be counted, and shall not be trafficked in. And in this, with the aid of the decent men and women in the party, I shall succeed."

Koenig and Knewitz Denounced.

In a statement issued earlier in the day Mr. Bennett said:

"Sam Koenig, the leader of Manhattan, and Johnnie Knewitz, the leader in the Bronx, apparently have the power to deliver the votes on primary day, but they do not have the power to deliver the votes on election day. Under the leadership of Sam Koenig the Republican candidate for Governor last year was beaten 3 to 1 in Manhattan, and 3 to 1 in the Bronx under the leadership of Johnnie Knewitz.

"The object of a political organization is to get the confidence of the voters and win the election. That is the theory on which Tammany Hall acts. Tammany Hall would have spewed Sam Koenig and Johnnie Knewitz out of its mouth long ago, as it did 'Paddy' Divver twenty years ago.

"The Republican organization in Manhattan and the Bronx is now back on the level of the days of Jake Patterson. Sam Koenig must be destroyed if the Republicans expect to carry the State of New York for President in 1920. The major operation on Sam Koenig should be performed when the newly elected County Committee meets this month to elect its Chairman."

Haskell Wins on "Wet" Platform.

Aside from the stir caused by the doings of Mr. Bennett, the feature of Tuesday's primary election that caused most comment in political circles yesterday was the sensational "wet" victory won in Brooklyn by Representative Reuben L. Haskell as an independent candidate for the nomination for County Judge. Both of his opponents, one of whom he left a bad third while Haskell was a close second to the other, ran with the indorsement and support of the Republican County organization in Kings and, in fact, had been designated at an unofficial convention held under organization auspices last July.

The complete vote of the three candidates was:

Norman S. Dike, (renmoinated,) 21,024.
Reuben L. Haskell, 19,502.
Frederick S. Martyn, 11,222.

Congressman Haskell, who ran on a frankly "wet" platform, in a statement yesterday ascribed his victory entirely to this fact and characterized his candidacy as the first opportunity offered the Brooklyn Republicans for a referendum on the question of prohibition.

"I am more than pleased that my stand in favor of the preservation of individual rights has been sustained," said Mr. Haskell. "I voted against the prohibition amendment in Congress and have all along made a fight against it because I do not believe in it.

"Acknowledging my deep gratitude to the voters of this borough, I am sure that the verdict on election day, when the voters of all parties shall have their say, will only confirm in a larger degree the victory of yesterday.

"In the future the minority will not rule the majority. It is the greatest victory for the cause of popular rights."

The Association Opposed to National Prohibition in a statement commenting on the nomination of Representative Haskell said that his victory might be regarded as a most important victory of the anti-prohibition forces, too.

Anderson Expected Larger Vote.

State Superintendent William H. Anderson of the Anti-Saloon League, in a statement issued last night, expressed amazement that Representative Haskell did not get a bigger vote.

"We really supposed," said Mr. Anderson, "that with the liquor interests financing and running a campaign in his behalf and with the policy of voting only for Haskell so as to hold down the vote of both the other men, that the wets would at the very least be able to stir up twice as many votes. We are certain that Mr. Haskell would have gotten a vastly larger vote on any other basis than the monstrous one of running for judge on a platform composed solely of an assault upon the fundamental law. The Republican leaders of Kings County did the decent and wise thing in refusing to be responsible for that kind of a candidacy."

"Wets" in Manhattan, and all over the city, in fact, derived much comfort from the substantial vote polled by Stephen J. Madigan as a candidate for the nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court in the Democratic primaries in Manhattan and the Bronx. They attributed his strength in the Tammany primaries, where he polled 10,817 votes, entering as an independent at the eleventh hour, to the attack he made on the eve of the primaries upon Supreme Court Justice Robert L. Luce, one of the other candidates, for accepting the indorsement of the Prohibition Party when a candidate two years ago.

This contention, however, is disputed by independent Democrats, who declare that thousands of the votes cast for Mr. Madigan were in protest against the conduct of the Tammany leader, Charles F. Murphy, in sidetracking Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Newburger as a candidate for renomination and substituting for him Irwin Untermyer. The vote for the three candidates, with all but sixteen election districts heard from, follows:

	Luce.	Untermyer.	Madigan.
Bronx	6,148	5,217	3,845
Total	28,325	23,823	14,662

Plurality for the two successful candidates: Luce, 13,643; Untermyer, 9,121.

Setbacks For McCooey.

The victory of Mr. Dowling in the Supreme Court contest in the Democratic primaries in Kings, and victories of independents in two contests for Municipal Court Justiceships were practically the only setbacks suffered by John H. McCooey, leader of the Democratic forces in Kings. The organized insurgents who were out to wrest control of the organization from McCooey, except in the vote of their leader, James E. Finegan, who was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Surrogate, failed to make much of a showing, and Finegan himself was defeated, though the vote was fairly close.

The following tables give the comparative strength of the McCooey candidates and the insurgents for Supreme Court and county offices in Kings:

SUPREME COURT.
George J. S. Dowling, (Ind.)	39,837
John J. Kuhn, (Reg.)	36,979
COUNTY COURT.
Daniel J. Griffin, (Reg.)	37,780
Howard P. Nash, (Reg.)	37,101
George K. Hunton, (Ind.)	7,059
Charles Tolleris	5,631
SURROGATE.
George A. Wingate, (Reg.)	28,440
James E. Finegan, (Ind.)	20,722

Thomas E. Wilmott, (Ind.)	11,742
REGISTER.
Richardson Webster, (Reg.)	35,726
Bart I. Schneider, (Ind.)	11,595

Two Tammany district leaders were affected by the result of contests in their districts in Tuesday's primary, and one of these, Ross Williams, in the Ninth, met his Waterloo at the hands of Alderman Thomas A. Williams, who has been fighting him for control of the district for four years.

Changes on Final Returns.

Other changes upon final returns from Tuesday's primaries are:

John H. Smith, Independent, prevailed over Max Herzfeld in the Democratic primaries in Kings as a candidate for the Municipal Court nomination in the Second District.

Michael J. Reilly was successful in the Eigth Assembly District of Kings and John J. McLoughlin in the Fifteenth as candidates for Democratic Assembly nominations.

Emanuel Schulberg won the Democratic nomination for Alderman from the Forty-first, George J. Joyce won in the Forty-third, and Peter J. McGuiness in the Fiftieth Aldermanic District.

On the Republican side final figures gave the nomination for Municipal Court Justice in the Fifth Manhattan District to ex-Assemblyman Abram Ellenbogen by a majority of 768 over Alexander U. Zinke. R. Leslie Smith won the Republican nomination for Municipal Court Justice in the Second District in Kings, and Edgar F. Hazleton in the Fourth District of Queens, where the result had been in doubt.

Linzy Olsten defeated George W. Harris for the Aldermanic nomination in the Twenty-sixth District, (Manhattan.) Arthur V. Gorman won the Republican nomination in the Thirty-sixth and Isaac E. Epstein the Republican nomination in the Fifty-ninth, both in Brooklyn, where the result had remained in doubt until final returns were received yesterday morning.

Three women were successful in Democratic and Republican primary fights on Tuesday. Miss Margaret L. Smith, a school teacher, who ran with the indorsement of the Republican organization as a candidate for Assembly from the Nineteenth Manhattan District, defeated Richard M. Belden, a negro minister, by a majority of 232.

Miss Mary M. Lilly won a Democratic renomination for Assembly in the Seventh Manhattan District.

Sue A. Mulholland won the Democratic nomination for the Board of Aldermen in the Fifty-second District, (Brooklyn.) The district is represented by a Republican in the present board.

The proportion of women participating in Tuesday's primary election was very small, except in some sections of Brooklyn, where in the Democratic primaries 50 per cent. of the vote was furnished by women, and in the Republican primaries in the Eighteenth Assembly District in Kings, where the women were unusually active.

Germans of Bohemia Appeal to Senators Lodge and Knox

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The Government of German Bohemia has sent a cablegram to Senators Lodge and Knox, according to a Havas dispatch received from Vienna by way of Basle, asking them to defend the cause of self-determination of 3,500,000 Germans in Bohemia and the Silesian marches.

The Government further asks that a hearing be insured for these Germans prior to the ratification of the Peace Treaty by the United States Senate.

CARRANZA TROOPS FIRED ON AIRPLANE

It Was Scaring Their Horses and They Meant to Drive It Higher, Consul Explains.

THEIR LEADER WAS ABSENT

And Men Acted Without Orders—Washington Not Inclined to Make an Issue of the Incident.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Sept. 3.—Mexican cavalry troops fired on the American army airplane near Laredo on Tuesday morning because it was flying so low that it frightened the horses while grazing, causing them to scatter, according to an official statement received today by the Mexican Consul in San Antonio from Consul Garcia at Laredo.

The attack resulted in the slight injury of Captain David W. McNabb, who was flying the plane with Lieutenant von de B. Johnson. Several bullets pierced the plane.

It was the purpose of the Mexican troopers merely to cause the American aviators to fly higher and cease scaring the horses, the statement said. The communication did not indicate the altitude of the airplane at the time the Mexican troopers fired into it except that it was flying "very low."

These reports, it was said, showed that the American aviators were in Texas territory at all times except for a few seconds when they attempted to ascend rapidly to escape the bullets and circle away.

A report from the aviators, according to unofficial information, stated they saw a group of Mexicans near the Rio Grande and descended to a low altitude to investigate, and that as they passed the point the Mexicans suddenly rose and opened fire on them.

It was indicated that the first official announcement of the attack probably would come from Washington. Maj. Gen. Joseph T. Dickman, Southern Department Commander, refused to give out a statement.

LAREDO, TEXAS, Sept. 3.—Possibility of immediate retaliatory action by United States military forces for the attack yesterday on an American army airplane has been eliminated, it was indicated here tonight, by the admission of Mexican authorities today that the attack was made by Carranza soldiers.

While official information was lacking, the impression was gained in army circles that this admission had removed the situation from the hands of the military so far as emergency action was concerned, and placed it directly up to Washington for diplomatic action.

One point in difference tonight between Mexican and American reports was the location of the airplane when the opening volley was fired into it. Consul Garcia declared an investigation showed it was one kilometer inside the Mexican border, while unofficial American reports insist the plane was in United States territory at the time.

The firing was "unwarranted," the Mexican Consul said, and was done in the absence of the detachment's commander, and the case has been reported to the superior authorities for instructions in regard to punishment of those guilty.

The Consul also said that General Garza, the Mexican commander in the Nuevo Laredo district, opposite here, "emphatically denies giving orders to his troops to fire at American troops or airplanes, even if they are on the Mexican side of the boundary."

Not Expected to Become an Issue.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The War Department was still waiting today for a detailed report from General Dickman, commanding the Southern Department, regarding the attack upon Captain McNabb and Lieutenant Johnson of the Air Force, who were fired upon, and Captain McNabb wounded, on the border near Laredo, Texas, yesterday. General Dickman wired the department that he had received a brief telephonic report from Colonel Beaumont B. Buck, in command at Laredo, and that Colonel Buck informed him that an investigation was under way and that a further and more complete report would be made as soon as that investigation was concluded.

It was pointed out at the State Department that the absence of international regulations governing he use of aircraft made it necessary for analogous rules to be applied, and in such circumstances the flight of an airplane over foreign territory would be analogous to the invasion of such territory. It has been reported that the American aviators when fired upon were over Mexican territory. If a flight over foreign territory is contemplated, the normal way, it was said at the department, would be to get permission from the foreign Government for the flight.

There was no disposition at the State Department to place the firing by Mexican soldiers upon members of America's armed forces constructively or actually in Mexico in the same category as the shooting or holding of American soldiers by Mexican bandits. It was admitted that if the two aviators recently captured and held for ransom by Mexican bandits had been taken into custody by Mexican soldiers, a question might have arisen as to the right of this Government to send an expedition into Mexico to recover them.

REPORT CAPTURE OF BANDITS.

Mexican Authorities Say They Hold Men Who Killed Correll.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The Mexican Embassy announced tonight that it had received official advices of the capture by Carranzista forces of the bandits who murdered John W. Correll of Ida, Okla., several weeks ago, and who, after killing Mr. Correll, maltreated his wife. The Mexican Embassy statement reads as follows:

"Official advices received by the Mexican Embassy state that Ricardo Gonzales of Tampico reported on Sept. 1 the capture near a point known as Los Mezquites of Chieftain Ramon Diaz and followers, Rafael Ruiz, Francisco Gamboa, Elias Vidal and Francisco Valverde, responsible for the murder of the American citizen, John W. Correll. The men were taken to Tampico, where they will be placed at the disposal of he corresponding judicial authorities for trial.

"With the capture of these bandits a deadly blow has been inflicted upon the outlawry which prevailed in the Tamesi region, thus fully satisfying the request contained in the note of the American Government presented in consequence of Correll's death."

OUR FLIERS OVER CHIHUAHUA?

Mexicans Say That Americans Have Twice Appeared High Over City.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico, Sept. 3.—Two airplanes believed to be American and bearing the numbers E-344 and B-335 flew over Chihuahua City yesterday and disappeared toward the northeast. This is said to be the second appearance of American planes here within a week.

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 3.—Colonel Guillermo Valles, assistant chief of staff and personal representative of General Manuel Dieguez, commander of the northeastern military zone, who is here, stated today that two American airplanes flew over Chihuahua City on last Thursday. He said they were much larger than the Mexican airplanes and were flying very high.

Mexican officials here said today no formal protest had been made to American authorities against the crossing of these planes. A protest was filed here in August, however, against American airplanes flying across the border.

11,000 Army Cars Stored, Say Officers; Left Exposed or Uncrated, They Testify.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—About 11,000 automobiles bought for the army are now stored at Camp Holabird, near Baltimore, Md. Many have never even been uncrated, while many others have stood for months exposed to the elements, so army officers testified today before a sub-committee of the House special committee investigating War Department expenditures. Only a small number of the automobiles have been distributed to State Highway Commissions and Government departments, the officers testified.

An inventory of the cars, submitted by Major R. C. P. Evans, included 1,300 pleasure cars, 1,087 ambulances, 152 light delivery trucks, 80 light trucks, 1,231 two and three ton trucks, 3,106 heavy trucks, 354 ammunition trucks, and 3,660 motorcycles and side cars.

The officers said that 379 pleasure cars, 2,588 trucks, and 360 ambulances were stored in the open, and 579 pleasure cars and 2,588 trucks had never been uncrated. Since the armistice was signed 1,000 new cars have been received at Camp Holabird, and in recent months 72 cars have been sold as wrecks, with some extra parts, for $4,000, according to the testimony.

The officers said there had been some deterioration, but they held that this damage was chiefly to paint and upholstery and not to the motors. It was asserted that some of the crated cars were piled five deep in the camp. Besides Major Evans, the officers who appeared today included the commanding officer at Camp Holabird, Captain D. L. Crane.

Tomorrow morning the committee will hear from Brig. Gen. Charles B. Drake, Chief of the Motor Transport Corps, and will demand to know why the War Department has not distributed these surplus vehicles as Congress directed, and what its plans are in this respect. The officers who testified today were unable to throw light on this.

REDS SAY KOLCHAK IS OUT OF OMSK

DENIKIN ALSO DRIVEN BACK

Dubovka Captured by the Bolsheviki — But Anti-Red Forces Reach Outskirts of Kiev.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—News of Bolshevist successes on the southern front against the armies of General Denikin is contained in wireless announcements from the Soviet Government at Moscow, which also reports that Admiral Kolchak, head of the all-Russian Government, has evacuated Omsk and transferred his headquarters to Irkutsk.

A dispatch from Omsk says that Admiral Kolchak has issued a stirring appeal to all Russians capable of bearing arms to join the ranks, saying that the destiny of Russia is at stake. He declares that his Government will not lay down its arms until victory has been won. He calls upon the remainder of the population incapable of bearing arms to furnish supplies and munitions.

According to one of the Soviet messages the Bolsheviki have occupied the town of Dubovka, on the Volga, 181 miles south-southwest of Saratov. It reads:

"We have occupied Dubovka. The enemy is evacuating Tsaritsin (Government of Saratov, 110 miles south-southwest of Kamishin) and we have taken Loureff. During the capture of Orsk (155 miles east-southeast of Orenburg) we took 3,000 prisoners."

Another Moscow message announces that anti-Bolshevist forces occupied the southern outskirts of Kiev today, adding that the fighting is proceeding.

BERNE, Sept. 3.—The Russian Bolsheviki have proposed peace negotiations, following the rout of their forces, which are surrounded, according to an official announcement received here.

The foregoing dispatch, while it does not mention any particular district in Russia, probably has reference to the Lithuanian front, where the Bolsheviki were said on Tuesday to be surrounded and to be offering to make peace.

TROTZKY MENACES FINLAND.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevist Military and Naval Commissary, addressing the Petrograd Soviet on Sept. 1, declared that the Bolsheviki must stand proudly and impregnably in the defense of Petrograd, according to a Soviet Government wireless message from Moscow.

Trotzky added that unless Finland gave guarantees of her sincerity and the cessation of further provocation the Bolsheviki will make every preparation for an overwhelming advance into that country.

It has been ascertained that the dispatch from Berlin on Tuesday giving German reports from Riga to the effect that General Gough of the British Army had isued a proclamation to the population of Petrograd that an attack was about to be made on that city is untrue.

General Gough left Helsingfors Aug. 19 for home, and at the present time is in England. He did not see Admiral Cowan, Commander of the British squadron operating in the Baltic Sea, before his departure for home.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Sept. 2.—Admiral Cowan, commander of the British squadron in the Baltic, has arrived here in connection, it is understood, with preparation for an attack on Petrograd. The Admiral intends, it is said, to confer with members of the British Military Mission on the plans for the attack.

OFFER TO GERMAN SURGEONS.

Positions in Russian Army, with Many Inducements.

BERLIN, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—The medical journals in Germany are publishing advertisements offering positions to German physicians and surgeons in the Russian army. Attractive pay and the right of securing homesteads are promised them.

Medical men are urged to enlist with volunteer troop units organized for fighting Bolshevism, and the promise is made of a premium of 5,000 marks if the counter-revolution is successful.

Red Cross to Send Help to Minsk.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The dispatch of a general relief and anti-typhus field unit to Minsk has been authorized by the American Red Cross, as the result of the capture of that city by the Polish Army. Reports from Minsk are that people are dying in large numbers from hunger and typhus, while among the children there is much disease, particularly trachoma. The Red Cross unit will include two American health experts, a chief nurse, and about fifteen Polish-speaking nurses. They will carry with them supplies of medicine, soaps, and nourishing foods, and among the first steps taken will be the establishment of a soup kitchen in Minsk.

Poland to Hold Accused Germans.

BERLIN, Sept. 3, (Associated Press.)—The Lokal Anzeiger says it is informed that the Polish War Cabinet has instructed the Warsaw Governmental, military and civilian departments that German officials belonging to the occupation force, who are charged with misdemeanors, shall be remanded for trial according to the peace terms.

EUROPE STILL NEEDS HELP, SAYS HOOVER

Private Charities Should Continue to Aid the Poor, He Tells Congressional Committee.

WOULD CONTROL CREDITS

If a Fund Is Set Aside for Feeding Central European States It Should Be Directed by Us.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—There is still need for private charity for the assistance of Europe, Herbert Hoover declared when asked during his testimony before the Congressional sub-committee today if such a need yet existed. The poor in all countries always need help from their Governments, Mr. Hoover pointed out, and most of the European Governments are now unable to assist their poor. Consequently outside help was imperative, he considered, especially for children, between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 of whom the American relief administration has been feeding and who will now be fed through the private organization succeeding it.

Asked if the United States Government should not support this work of feeding the children, Mr. Hoover replied he would be glad for help from all sources, as he believed child welfare work was the most important to be done.

Discussing the relief of Central Europe through a plan for the United States guaranteeing $3,000,000,000 or $4,000,000,000 worth of credits, as he had suggested, Mr. Hoover urged that if such credits were granted the United States should retain the right to direct what countries should receive them, so as to insure against any one nation getting the bulk of the help. He also declared the United States should make it clear that the credits would be cut off from any country which failed to preserve peace.

Responding to an inquiry as to whether all the American charitable organizations assisting Europe were necessary Mr. Hoover replied that he was unwilling to say anything to discourage charitable effort, but believed that the sixty-three organizations doing relief work in Europe should be co-ordinated, administered in such a way as to avoid duplication of work, and placed under an executive empowered to direct where relief should be administered. Such a coordination would be difficult, he admitted, but it was accomplished in the Belgian relief work and was probably better, he thought, than one big organization, as various contributors want their money to be spent by the special organizations with which they are familiar.

HOOVER SAILS SATURDAY.

Herbert Hoover, Director General of Interallied Relief and head of the American Relief Administration, will arrive in New York Saturday on the Aquitania, according to a cable message received yesterday by Edgar Rickard at the offices of the American Relief Administration, 115 Broadway. Mr. Rickard said that Mr. Hoover would remain in New York only long enough to attend a dinner and reception given in his honor under the auspices of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers on Sept. 16. He will then go to California for a long-deferred rest at his home in Palo Alto.

The dinner and reception to Mr. Hoover by members of his profession will mark his retirement from public work, after five years of service, given without salary and paying his own expenses. Mr. Hoover went to Europe immediately after the signing of the armistice last November, and as Director General of Interallied Rrlief and head of the American Relief Administration has directed the distribution of 3,219,896 tons of foodstuffs, valued at $770,795,000, and comprising over 600 complete steamer cargoes.

"Mr. Hoover's war work has now been completed," said Mr. Rickard in a statement issued yesterday. "The offices of the American Relief Administration in Paris are closed, and it only remains to write the history of this gigantic task. The Food Administration exists only technically, and ceased active control in March, having gradually relaxed its rules and regulations from the time the armistice was signed. The United States Grain Corporation and the Sugar Equalization Board created by Mr. Hoover are now functioning separately and not under direct control of the Food Administration. Mr. Hoover, however, retains the chairmanship of the American Relief Administration European Children's Fund, a private organization, (as distinct from a Government department,) set up to carry on the work initiated by the Government for providing the children in Europe with a supplementary meal."

TO SELL COLD STORAGE STOCK.

War Department Will Offer 5,000,000 Pounds to Municipalities.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Five million pounds of frozen meat, now in cold storage in New York and Chicago, was offered by the War Department today to municipalities for re-sale. The offer will remain in effect until Sept. 25, at which time other methods will be used of marketing the portion of the stock unsold.

The meat in storage includes about 1,250,000 pounds of frozen poultry at New York and more than 1,000,000 pounds in the Chicago zone. This will be sold at 32 cents a pound. Large quantities of frozen mutton and pork shoulders and loins also will be offered at from 16 to 27 cents. Since these products can be transported only in refrigerator cars, no order for less than a carload lot will be accepted.

SHOES HIGH BECAUSE OF PRODUCTION COST

SAME APPLIES TO CLOTHING

Michael Friedsam, head of B. Altman & Co., the Chairman of the Fair Price Committee's sub-committee on clothing and shoes, issued a statement yesterday making public the results of a preliminary survey of business conditions in the field covered by his committee. Mr. Friedsam declared in his statement that high cost of production, "the highest ever known in this country," lack of raw materials, and labor are the contributing factors which make for the increased prices in clothes and shoes.

He advised the general public to be more careful in its buying, if it wants to aid in bringing down the cost of these articles. Service rather than style should be the criterion by which the purchaser makes his choice, was Mr. Friedsam's suggestion. His statement follows:

"The sub-committees of the Fair Price Committee of the Federal Food Administration have sent to me preliminary surveys of conditions in their various industries, and from these surveys I am able now to make a general résumé of conditions in the retail dry goods, clothing, and shoe industries. These surveys show:

"(1) That the cause of the present admittedly high prices of these goods is almost entirely an increased or a high cost of production, in fact the highest cost of production that has ever been known in this country, and at the same time an alarming decrease in the amount of goods produced; on the one hand a steadily rising scale of expense, and on the other a decline in quantities of available merchandise.

"There has not been found any indication of deliberate profiteering; on the contrary, these surveys show that both manufacturers and retailers are working on a closer margin of profit than ever before, and this despite the extreme uncertainty of the present business conditions. More than in any other lines, it is true of the retail industries this committee is investigating that widespread and keen competition tends to narrow margins of profit and make so-called profiteering unprofitable.

"(2) It is inevitable that with the cost of production, of raw materials, and of labor at their present high point retail prices should have increased accordingly.

"(3) With respect to shoes, in which industry the preliminary surveys have to date gone further than in other lines, the following excerpts from the reports of Messrs. Emil Weil and John Slater confirm the statements made above as to the increase in production costs:

"'Previous to the war France, England, and Germany made the shoes for the entire world, with the exception of this country. Beginning the early part of 1915, the European shoe factories were only permitted to produce 25 per cent. of their output for civilian purpose and 75 per cent. for army purpose.

"'The style of the civilian product, termed a Liberty shoe, in these countries consisted of a black boot and a low shoe. Four years of this naturally produced a vacuum of shoes throughout the world except in this country. From the day that the armistice was signed and the shoe regulations of the European countries lifted an immediate rush was made to the United States for all the finished leather that was available. This immediately caused a great shortage of leather in this country, which, naturally, forced the prices to where they are at the present time.'

"The shoe men report that for leather of the top grade in 1914 the average price was 30 cents per square foot, as against the price of $1.50 a square foot for the same grade of leather today. The skins from which this leather is made come from India, China, Russia, Africa, and South America.

"'Owing to the lack of shipping since the armistice was signed,' their report continues, 'we have not been able to get enough raw skins into this country, and Europe, owning most of the shipping, naturally gets a larger quantity of raw material * * * Paris today is retailing shoes at $40 per pair which can be purchased on Fifth Avenue for $15 per pair. The price in London for the same shoe is $30. If more sanity was displayed in the buying of shoes by the consumer instead of vanity, a noticeable depreciation in price would immediately be felt.'

"Their report states further that the import of calfskins, which should have been normally 175,000,000 pounds, has actually been for the last ten months of the fiscal year only 21,000 pounds. Russian exportations to the United States have dropped from 60,000,000 pounds a year to 600,000 pounds.

"It is agreed on all sides that a labor program such as was proposed this morning by the State Federation of Labor Conference Committee would go a long way toward meeting the problem which the clothing industry is confronted with, because it would insure the industry steady, definite labor conditions with respect to its employes.

"Even so far as the sub-committees have proceeded to date, it is evident that a saner buying policy on the part of the general public will tend to meet the problem of high prices. The committee investigations so far have shown that there are available opportunities for the purchase of all necessities in wearing apparel at what are, under present conditions, reasonable prices, provided the buyer purchases with an eye primarily to service rather than style."

Federal Food Administrator Arthur Williams said yesterday that he was going to make an effort to get the United States Sugar Equalization Board to provide sugar for the individual housewife who hdesires to preserve this season's fruit crop. He said that there was a tremendous demand for sugar everywhere for the purpose, but that it had been impossible to arrange for sufficient quantity for private use in canning.

With regard to the shortage of sugar for canning purposes, an official of the Equalization Board said yesterday that the present shortage was due entirely to the cumulative demand for the commodity.

"There is really enough sugar coming into the country for our normal needs," he said. "The refineries are all running at top speed now and turning out 100,000 to 110,000 tons a day. However, housewives have been putting off ordering their canning sugar until now, and the demand has swamped the dealers. There has always been a sugar shortage at this time of year, but seldom so pronounced as at present. My suggestion would be that the individual wishing to put up fruit anticipate her needs and buy her sugar in May and June when the supply is ample for the demand.

The Food Administrator said that he had received complaints from persons who went to stores with fair price lists and were told that that particular store did not carry the quality of goods the list called for.

"In most cases," said Mr. Williams, "I would advise that the buyer go to another store when this happens. Of course, there are grades of supplies, strictly fresh eggs, twenty-four hours old, print butter, and the like, the price of which we can't attempt to regulate. However, the goods on our price list are all of good quality and most stores carry them. I would like it if persons finding dealers who refuse to supply them with goods at the quoted prices notify me of the fact, giving the name and location of the dealer. I will investigate the matter and will then be in a position to take action in event of its being a plain case of profiteering."

Mr. Williams said that he expected great things from the campaign undertaken under the direction of Mrs. Charles C. Rumsey's sub-committee of the Fair Price Committee. About 50,000 members of the Community Councils in the city were making an extensive investigation of conditions in the city by personal shopping excursions. The results would be announced in a few days, said the Food Administrator.

The following statement regarding a conference with the wholesale meat dealers of the city was given out at the offices of the Food Administrator in the Consolidated Gas Company's building:

"Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator, reports a very gratifying conference this morning with representatives of the wholesale meat dealers of the city. The conference was representative of all the dealers. Those present pledged themselves to the heartiest cooperation with the Attorney General and the Fair Price Committee, in the supply of meat in this city at fair prices to the public. During the course of the conference it was brought out that at no time has the wholesale price margin on meats in this city reached or exceeded 1 cent a pound; in fact, it seemed clear that the average margin of the wholesalers is much under 1 cent a pound.

"One of the things the gentlemen present emphasized is the importance of buying the cheaper, as well as the more expensive cuts of meat. They report a widespread era of buying only the most expensive cuts, making it difficult to dispose of the cheaper, but equally nutritious, parts. It is obvious that if some parts of the slaughtered animal must be sold at a loss the other parts must carry this loss.

"A permanent committee is to be formed, for advice, consultation, and help to the Fair Price Committee, one of the objects being to keep the Fair Price Committee informed of the wholesale meat conditions from time to time, that causes for changes may be explained to the public. This is another of the most important groups in the food supply which has pledged itself to aid the Federal Administration in every way lying in its power to reduce the cost of living to the people of New York.

"The following gentlemen were present at the conference and will form the committee: George J. Edwards of Swift && Co., H. G. Mills of Armour & Co., Charles J. Higgins of Morris & Co., J. C. Good of Wilson & Co., Leo S. Josephs of the New York Butchers' Dressed Meat Company, Frederick Bisbee of Joseph Sterns & Sons, W. H. Noyes of Swift & Co., I. Stiefel of Wilson & Co., A. E. Glascow of Indianapolis Abattoir Company, L. M. Christian of West Washington Market, and Irving Blumenthal of the United Dressed Beef Company."

Jonathan C. Day, Commissioner of Markets, in charge of the distribution of army surplus food supplies from the public schools of the city, announced yesterday that he had received permission from the War Department to cut down the price of condensed soups. The revised price list of the soups, with the reductions, follow:

Chicken, No. 1, from	10c	to	7c
Clam chowder, No. 1, from	10c	to	7c
Mock turtle, No. 1, from	9c	to	7c
Oxtail, No. 1, from	9c	to	7c
Tomato, No. 1, from	10c	to	7c
Vegetable, No. 1, from	10c	to	7c

The Commissioner explained that chain stores had been underselling the city in the line of condensed soups and that the reductions had been made after he had written to the War Department. He said that he was now negotiating for a supply of army blankets to be put on sale in the schools. The following letter regarding the matter was given out by Dr. Day:

Mr. E. C. Morse,
Director of Sales,
Munitions Bldg.,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Morse:

We are exceedingly anxious in New York to get a lot of army blankets, both the new and the reclaimed, of all grades, including all wool, cotton and wool and all cotton. We will sell these for you at the price named by you, just adding enough to cover the overhead in the one hundred school centres through the city where we are selling the foodstuffs. We ought to have these within the next few days in order that we may put them out through these centres where we are selling the food. Cool weather is rapidly approaching and this would be of incalculable service to the people of our great city, particularly the poorer people. May we not hear favorable from you at an early date?

Yours very truly,
JONATHAN C. DAY,
Commissioner.

A case of alleged profiteering was discovered yesterday by the Federal District Attorney when he received a communication from the Chicago District Attorney to the effect that a New York firm had sold sugar there for 12¾ cents a pound. The price of sugar set by the Food Administration is 11 cents.

Investigation brought out the facts that the concern in question had contracted to deliver about 6,000 tons of sugar to Europe and had bought a large amount of the commodity from Hawaii. Shipping 500 tons of it East by way of Chicago, the firm had received a great many requests for the goods from that city. Finally in response to representation from Chicago dealers of the pressing need of sugar, it consented to dispose of 100 tons of sugar at a very little above the cost of bringing it East, also taking into account the fact that to make up its supply which had been contracted for it would have to go into the open market here.

Deputy United States Attorney General Ames has been in touch with officials of the company and a conference has been arranged in Washington next Friday. Judge Ames has demanded that the concern refund its profits in excess of the allowed profits. It is expected that this will be done.

It was announced yesterday that resolutions urging the enactment of Federal cold storage laws providing for a ten months limit for foodstuffs in storage were adopted at a general meeting of the Master Butchers' Association of America, held at Terrace Garden Tuesday night. The resolutions will be forwarded at once to Congress.

SUGAR SEIZED IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—United States Attorney Clyne today ordered 200 tons of sugar, which was seized yesterday by Federal agents, put on the market for sale at a price lower than 13 cents a pound. The sugar was sold by J. Aaron Company, New York, to a local firm for $13 a 100 pounds, but Mr. Clyne said he would order a refund of the purchase price and force the Aaron Company to sell at a lower figure.

"Our evidence shows that the Aaron Company purchased the sugar at $8.90 a hundred pounds," said Mr. Clyne. "We hold that this is a pure case of profiteering, and have so informed the District Attorney of New York City."

Big Demonstrations in Egypt Over False Report on Senate

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 3.—On receipt of a telegram asserting that the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate had declared that Egypt should be independent, great demonstrations by natives were held in front of the American Consulate on Saturday and Sunday.

The Egyptians, magnifying the report into a realization of all the national aims, formed processions and marched through the streets.

There were demonstrations also at Cairo, where mounted police dispersed the crowds, arresting several persons.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—It is said that Said Pasha Zegloul, head of the Egyptian national deputation in Paris, was the author of the telegram to Cairo stating that the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate had declared for Egyptian independence.

The Foreign Relations Commitee of the Senate recently gave a hearing in which the claims of the Egyptian nationalists were voiced, but no further action on the subject has been taken by the committee.

EXPECTS SHANTUNG RETURN IN A YEAR

Japanese Delegate to the Peace Conference Predicts Negotiations Will Open Soon.

TO WITHDRAW THE TROOPS

Declares Tsingtao, as Well as Railway Zone, Will Be Evacuated at Once.

RESENTS "PIRACY" CHARGE

A strong intimation that Japan will restore Kiao-Chau to China in a year was conveyed yesterday in a statement issued by Yosuke Matsuoko, secretary in the Foreign Department of Japan and a member of the Japanese Peace delegation, on his arrival from Paris on the way to Japan.

Referring to the various predictions made that Japan would restore Kiao-Chau to China in anywhere from ninety-nine years to a much shorter time, Mr. Matsuoko said:

"Another publicist at Washington cautiously predicts that Japanese restitution to China may take place in a year or two. That is much closer to the mark, but not close enough.

"To us who have participated in the Peace Conference, there is not the shadow of a doubt that Japan will withdraw from Shantung at the earliest possible moment. The Peace Treaty requires Germany to hand over to Japan all the documents relative to Shantung within three months after the treaty comes into force. When this is done, Japan will immediately take steps toward the restitution which Japan has pledged herself to make in favor of China.

"I should not at all be surprised if our Government opened, within a very few months, or even a few weeks, negotiations with the Chinese Government with a view to settling the Shantung question in a way satisfactory to all concerned."

Outlines Terms of Return.

"Japan will restore Kiao-Chau, the German leased territory 200 miles in area. German right over this territory was nothing less than sovereignty, and Japan will restore to China sovereignty and its full exercise over the territory.

"In returning Kiao-Chau to China, Japan, in the interest of all nations, asks only one thing, that the territory be open to international trade. It is only as a natural corollary of this proposed measure that Japan also desires to establish an international, not a Japanese settlement in the city of Tsing-tao, although in the Sino-Japanese agreement a Japanese settlement was to have been established in addition to an international one.

"Japan will withdraw all her troops not only from the railway zone, but from Tsing-tao. After the restitution of Kiao-Chau not a single Japanese soldier will be left on the soil of Shantung.

"The Shantung railway of 270 miles will be operated not by Japan, but by a Sino-Japanese joint corporation, in which both Japanese and Chinese capital will be represented. Of course, China will participate in the management of the railway. Under the German régime this railway was owned and operated exclusively by the Germans, although there was a pretense of organizing a Sino-German company. There was no Chinese capital invested in it and no Chinese was admitted to its management. Japan proposes to reverse that condition in the interest of China. It is also proposed to employ Chinese in the operation of the railway.

"Japan will withdraw her police forces from along the railway and intrust the Chinese authorities with the policing of that region. It goes without saying that the Japanese civil administration will be abolished with the restitution of Kiao-Chau. This civil administration was from its inception meant to be a temporary institution to be maintained only until the final disposition of German rights in Shantung at the Peace Conference."

Resents Loot Charge.

Japan's solemn pledges in regard to Shantung will be carried out, said Mr. Matsuoko, adding that the execution of that pledge would be greatly facilitated and expedited "if the outside world would desist from uttering threats against Japan and attempting to apply pressure on her. The Japanese are human. They have their national pride and their sense of national dignity should be respected."

Mr. Matsuoko regretted the "many indiscriminate utterances made by responsible men concerning the Shantung situation," and was astonished to hear it said that Japan had "looted" China and that her act had been one of "piracy." He declared that Japan has taken nothing from China, and proposes to give her much. China, he added, could not and dared not lift a finger to break Germany's grip on Tsing-tao. Japan made sacrifices and China made none in wresting the territory from the Kaiser, and territory which was to all intents ceded to Germany is to be given back to China.

"If this be an act of piracy, all benefactors and philanthropists must be pirates and robbers," he asserted.

VOICES CHINA'S FAITH IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—In an interview given today to the Washington Bureau of the League to Enforce Peace Tai Chi Quo, Chinese technical delegate to the Peace Conference, said that the American delegation in Paris did its best to effect an equitable and just settlement of the Far Eastern question and only yielded on the ground of expediency, and that the American efforts were a genuine evidence of the friendship for China that had continued unbroken for three-quarters of a century.

Tai Chi Quo, who was formerly Secretary to the President of China, also said that the Government and people of China had no doubt that the League of Nations would eventually secure peace.

The interview, which was given as Tai Chi Quo was leaving Washington, where he recently arrived from Paris, said in part:

"China maintains that her declaration of war, by abrogating German rights, left nothing for Japan to negotiate upon with Germany, and the Peace Conference made Germany not only give Japan rights she no longer possessed in Shantung, but also regarded as 'scraps of paper' her written pledge to China not to sublet the leased territory to another power.

"The Peace Conference did not recognize China's rightful claim. China feels that the actual transfer of German rights to Japan represents a perpetuation of the German system in the Far East, because the German rights were originally acquired by a typically Prussian aggression against China. She desired to see the Prussian system destroyed in the Orient as well as in the Occident."

CARRANZA TO GUARD CARUSO IN MEXICO

$7,000 FOR EACH CONCERT

Enrico Caruso, the world's highest-priced tenor, returned yesterday from his vacation in Sunny, Socialistic Italy, on the Italian liner Giuseppe Verdi, accompanied by his wife and his 15-year-old son, Enrico, Jr., who comes to America for the first time to take a preparatory course in electrical engineering.

Caruso was suffering from a slight cold in the head, which caused him to sniff occasionally and to gently dab his nose with a series of embroidered cambric handkerchiefs which he carried carefully folded in his pockets, and did not use the same one twice. Mrs. Caruso looked very well indeed, and wore a blue tailored suit and a hat set with peacock feathers. She was a little disappointed when a friend informed her that her parents had not forgiven her marriage to the tenor and were not among the crowd waiting at the top of the pier in Jersey City to welcome her home.

Caruso was in good voice and sang twice for the passengers on the voyage over from Genoa, and to emphasize the fact he sounded a few notes on the deck of the Giuseppe Verdi as she was going up the harbor from the Quarantine Station to the pier. When asked about going to Mexico City to sing for $10,000 each performance the tenor replied:

"Yes, I am going there on Sept. 15 and am to receive $7,000 for each concert and shall not appear in grand opera there. Of course I do not know how things may be in Mexico by that time as conditions change very rapidly in that country. I have been guaranteed personally that there will be no risk in my appearing in Mexico City and that President Carranza will give me adequate protection during my stay there. I am afraid that I should have to pay my own ransom if I was captured by bandits because the Italian Government has no fund for that purpose and has plenty of other troubles to attend to at the present time. I expect to return to New York about Nov. 1 and join the company at the Metropolitan Opera House.

"While I was in Italy I studied a new opera, 'The Jew,' which may be produced here."

Caruso said that he had enjoyed his holiday at his villa and farm near Florence, but felt very much aggrieved at the manner in which his place was looted by the peasants of the food, hams from America, and wine after he had entertained them royally in the house when they told him they were hungry and thirsty.

"The taking of the twenty-seven demijohns of wine did not matter much," the tenor continued, "but I could not live there with my wife and family after the food was gone. Besides the American hams I took from New York with me the peasants stole a hogshead of olive oil and raided my prize chicken farm, one of the best known in Italy, which contained 150 varieties of choice poultry.

"I thought that when I had invited the peasants to eat and drink of the best that I had on tables set out under the trees on the big lawn they would appreciate my kindness, as it was many months since they had tasted such food, their leaders told me. To my surprise and disgust a large delegation appeared at my house a few days later and handed me a document with big official looking, seal sattached, which, they said, was a communal order to take over all my food and wine, which they proceeded to do without any tedious preliminaries. The people have always proved ungrateful to those who have been their benefactors throughout history."

Enrico, junior, is taler than his father, and speaks a little English, which he acquired while serving three months with the Italian Y. M. C. A. during the war. He is taciturn for an Italian, and appeared to be devoted to his stepmother.

Giulio Setti, director of the Metropolitan Opera House chorus, also returned on the Giuseppe Verdi from Italy, and Rosario Scalero, a well-known Italian violinist, on his first trip to the United States. He has written several compositions for the Flonzaly Quartet, and will lecture on the violin in addition to giving concerts.

ROEBLING INHERITANCE TAX.

State of New Jersey Has Received $248,000 on Account.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 3.—New Jersey has received under the State Inheritance laws $248,000 on account of the inheritance tax against the estate of Charles G. Roebling, a member of the J. A. Roebling's Sons Company, wire manufacturers of this city, according to an announcement today. The appraisal of the estate has not been completed, and this figure may be increased or decreased later.

The $248,000 is a tax on about $10,000,000, approximated as the taxable portion of the estate under the law. It is the belief of the Tax Department that complete figures will be about the same as in the estate of the late Ferdinand G. Roebling, a brother, which was estimated at between $30,000,000 and $50,000,000.

WOMEN TO AID JEWISH FUND

Will Canvass Certain Professions in $10,000,000 Campaign.

In support of the $10,000,000 United Building Fund Campaign of the Federated Jewish Institutions, a number of prominent Jewish professional women met yesterday at a luncheon in the Hotel Biltmore. A plan was evolved by which the women will take full charge of the canvass of certain trades and professons and in all the others will work co-ordinately with the men's committees. Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, Secretary of the New York State Reconstruction Commission was yesterday appointed head of an Executive Committee of five to solicit subscriptions from business and professional women. The four other members are Miss Rita Weiman, Miss Hedwig Reicher, Mrs. Henry Lehman, and Mrs. Ray F. Schwartz, Director of the Young Women's Hebrew Association.

The scope of the work to be done by the women was outlined by Louis J. Robertson, Chairman of the September campaign, and by Dr. I. Edwin Goldwasser, Executive Secretary of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropies. Felix M. Warburg, President of the federation, addressed the women. One of the professions that will be entirely in the hands of the women canvassers will be that of the lawyers and Judges. The committee will be headed by Mrs. Max Steuer. Other professions and trades will be those of the decorators, art dealers, milliners, tailors, hotel owners and restaurateurs, automobile dealers, and music publishers.

The preliminary campaign has thus far raised more than $3,000,000. On Sept. 14 the general public campaign will be launched at a large dinner which will be held at the Hotel Commodore.

LITTLE TOWNS HAIL PRINCE.

ALGOMA, Ont., Sept. 3.—Enthusiastic demonstrations greeted the Prince of Wales as he progressed through Western Ontario today. Thousands of people were gathered at all the stations along the railway and waved greetings to his Royal Highness. In several of the larger towns the Prince made brief addresses and participated in ceremonies arranged in his honor.

More than 10,000 persons were assembled at North Bay to greet the royal party. The Prince delivered an address in the park and decorated a group of war heroes. At Sudbury about 5,000 people assembled to welcome and hear the royal visitor. Hundreds of miners from the Northern districts were present.

School children with flags were gathered at almost every station to catch a glimpse of the Prince. At Cache Bay, Sturgeon Falls, Verner, Coniston, and other towns, the youngsters were on hand in great numbers and cheered the future King, who waved them a greeting as the train passed by.

The Prince did little handshaking today, his right hand being sore as a result of the heartiness of the grip of hundreds of Montrealers who had greeted him yesterday. What little handshaking he did today was done with the left hand. Otherwise, the Prince was reported to be in perfect health.

ENRIGHT WARNS POLICE.

Tells Campfire That if Force Struck Troops Would Be Called Out.

Referring to rumors of a strike among the police of this city, Police Commissioner Enright told 500 policemen at the Police Department Campfire at Sheepshead Bay yesterday that if the police "turned traitor" to the things they stood for "they set themselves outside of the pale of the law" and became "virtually outlaws."

"There has been much talk concerning a proposed strike," the Commissioner said. "Naturally, some of this talk has reached my ears. Now, no reasonable man would consider this matter for one moment. It has failed in other cities, and has only brought about bad conditions. The Government cannot exist without law and order, and you are a staple part of the Government. The Police Department typifies the law of the country.

"Faced with a condition where the police turned traitor to the force of right, it would become necessary for those still upholding the law to call out the National Guard, and perhaps the Federal troops, to do the things that you as policemen are sworn to do."

The Commissioner said that all of the promises made to the police by those in authority had been fulfilled. He expressed his approval of the idea of a community store for the police, and advocated building a police hospital and also a police clubhouse. The Sheepshead Bay campfire opened yesterday and will last for ten days. Mayor Hylan will speak tonight.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Equipment and Steel Stocks Soar Under Active Trading—Sentiment More Cheerful.

In the violence of the advance scored by steel, railroad equipment and petroleum stocks in yesterday's trading the market harked back to the active sessions of late June and the first half of July. There were several points of similarity, notably in the fact that speculative buying was prominent in the same stocks and also in the evidence supplied that while a number of issues were being bid upward rapidly interest in many parts of the list was restrained. Railroad shares moved sluggishly and some of the high-class members of the investment group were inclined to ease off. Gains among the volatile industrials ran from 2 to 6 points, with several from 12 to 17 points higher at the close than the day before. The market broadened out considerably and the turnover was the largest in several weeks. Funds for stock market purposes were in large supply, the call loan rate declining from 6 to 5 per cent. in the afternoon.

Doubtless the purchases of steel and equipment shares represented in considerable part the covering of short sales made in the recent period of indefinite markets. Ever since the first signs appeared of a truce between capital and labor, after wholesale prices for many necessities began to melt under the cost of living inquiry, the bearish following of stocks have been finding their position more and more uncomfortable. In the trading of yesterday there seemed to be, however, more influences of a constructive sort than such as would cause the hurried retirement of short contracts alone. The weekly reviews of the steel and iron trade supplied material for belief that, despite the uncertainty recently noted as the result of threatening labor trouble, production was going ahead pretty well. This has been the case, especially in pig iron output. The country's furnaces in August produced an average of 88,496 tons daily, according to reports to The Iron Age, compared with 78,340 tons, the average of July. During August twenty-seven furnaces were blown in. The rate of output on Sept. 1 would provide about 34,500,000 tons in a full year, the rate being 93,360 tons per day. Steel trade comment laid stress on the diminishing weight of radical labor influences, and noted that the accumulation of evidence in recent days showed a sentiment among workers largely against a test of union strength. It appeared as though the steel and allied stocks displayed greater power in their rise after the trade news was received yesterday, and oil stocks were stimulated by the indications of prosperous business supplied through dividend increases of the Mexican Petroleum and Pan American Petroleum and Transport companies. Whether or not the market has been overdoing the improved industrial outlook in the last few days remains to be disclosed by operations of the future. Such wild advances as a few issues recorded have in other periods, not so far distant, worked to disturb conservative banking and market interests and found reflection in the money supply.

The course of railroad stocks and bonds failed to show much in the way of either approval or disapproval of the Cummins measure for returning the roads to their owners. It is to be expected that owners of railroad securities and buyers for speculative purposes will be inclined to wait until further light is shed on details of the several plans now at Washington before making their position known through quotations. It may be that the railroad programs, and the effort to reconcile differing opinions of employers and workers will shortly share public interest with fresh means to raise foreign credits here. One or more undertakings have been reported in the last day or two.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Liberty 3½s at Par.

The Liberty first 3½ per cents. sold at par yesterday for the first time this year, when 111,000 of the issue touched that figure. The previous high for the year was 99.98, made last Friday, and before that the high for the year was 99.80, the price at which the bonds sold on Jan. 2, the first business day of the year. After the high figure of January was recorded the bonds went as low as 98.20 on Feb. 21. The only other issue of war bonds to sell high yesterday was the second convertible 4¼ per cents. of 1932-1947, which equaled their previous high of the year of 100.60.

Money Rates Low.

Call money fell to 5 per cent. in the middle of the afternoon, just when the rise in stock prices was at its height. Whatever the significance, if there is any, it would seem that bankers entertain no serious fears of the bank situation. In this respect there are many who predict that the bank statement this week will show another expansion in excess reserves, and point to what happened back in June, when the last previous deficit was shown. Then the deficit was converted into a big surplus the following week, and in the week after that the surplus was almost doubled. Last week the surplus was more than $30,000,000, and the optimists think it will be even larger this coming week. Nor is there any great fear over an unwonted expansion in loans. The big speculation of the last two days, odd as it may seem, is not supposed to have had any unusual effect on the loan account.

⁂

Trading in Heavy Volume.

Trading on the New York Stock Exchange amounted to 1,506,534 shares. This is the heaviest recorded since Aug. 8, when the turnover was 2,050,950 shares. There is this difference between the two markets: that of early August was one of liquidation, while the market yesterday was one of accumulation.

Baldwin the Feature.

Baldwin Locomotive shares advanced 16 points, with the close only a fraction below the high for the day, which was 130. This issue has been in the limelight recently, with fairly sizable advances, but they have never approximated anything like that which was recorded yesterday. Until well after noon the market action of the stock was what might ordinarily have been expected in view of the strength throughout the general list, but it was in the last hour and a half that the startling move took place. A turbulent scene was enacted around the Baldwin post on the floor of the Stock Exchange as the shares moved rapidly upward. A climb of 10 points was accomplished without a check of any consequence, and the run of prices on the ticker showed how spirited the bidding was, the jumps being at times in large fractions, with now and then one of a full point. There was undoubtedly heavy speculative buying of the issue as well as a large amount of short covering.

⁂

Demand for Steel Increases.

Many of the Southern steel plants are said to be flooded with orders, and a condition akin to this prevails throughout the industry elsewhere. It is significant that the Carnegie Steel Company, one of the subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation, according to word from Pittsburgh, is operating at 90 per cent. of steel ingot capacity. The labor situation has quieted down so much within the last few days that steel companies are moving into higher production figures than have prevailed since the first of the year. The threatened labor difficulties caused only a slight setback, and this was in orders rather than in actual production.

Crucible Near 200.

Crucible Steel moved rapidly into higher levels, the net gain amounting to 17⅛ points, and closed a fraction above 194. The advance last week amounted to 24⅝ points, whereas the gain so far this week has been approximately 30 points. On Feb. 2 of this year Crucible sold as low as 52⅛, so that the gain since then has been, roughly speaking, 142 points. The covering by shorts continues to be held accountable for the rapid upturn of the last ten days.

⁂

Copper Production Increases.

Reports of August production of copper by both the Phelps-Dodge and Anaconda companies show a pronounced gain over the July figures. In the case of the first named company production increased from 11,122,000 pounds to 12,600,000 pounds. The Anaconda July production was 9,755,000 pounds, as compared with an August production of 10,572,000 pounds.

⁂

Two Provisional Dividends.

The Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. on the preferred and 1¾ per cent. on the common stocks, payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 8, provided necessary funds are received from the Railroad Administration by that date. Regular quarterly dividends on the preferred and common stocks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad have also been declared with the same provision.

⁂

Corn Prices Break Sharply.

The market for corn broke sharply as the result of selling by the professionals. While there was some improvement in prices toward the close when shorts took their profits, the grain markets closed with nervousness apparent.

⁂

Rails Irregular.

The market in the railroad stocks was somewhat contracted, although in those issues where the turnover was more than nominal the trend was downward. There were exceptions, however, in the case of one or two of the low-priced rails which have been picked out by the speculative element as offering inducements other than those of the day-by-day developments in the railroad situation, which made gains. Atchison, Reading, Southern Pacific, and Union Pacific all sold lower, with fair recoveries, before the close. The biggest gains were made by those issues which were dealt in only to the extent of a few hundred shares each.

⁂

The Cummins Bill.

The consensus of opinion in railroad circles seems to be that the Cummins bill for new railroad legislation tosses property rights into the discard. If the bill is enacted railroad men believe that railroad shareholders need no longer seek executives who are good business-getters and at the same time can operate their properties with the highest degree of efficiency. Realization that, no matter how carefully the property is operated, all the earnings above a certain indefinite "fair" return to stockholders will go to a transportation board to disburse in various ways leaves no reason for the consideration of efficiency. Railroad men think that the effect of this on properties which have been carefully and successfully managed for years would be disastrous, and they believe that wasteful practices never before tolerated would creep in without opposition.

Artificial Coal Market.

Conservative coal operators have about reached the conclusion that the unprecedented demand for anthracite coal in recent months, which has resulted in the creation of premiums for the delivery of domestic supplies, has been due to an artificial stimulus. Because of the shortage of the Winter of 1917-1918 the householder has placed his order with the local dealers many weeks before he would ordinarily buy his supply for the coming Winter, and the premiums have been a natural result. In some quarters it has been predicted that anthracite dealers and producers will be unable to find a market before the close of the year. There is no shortage, according to some of the big producers, and there will probably be a big carry-over.

WILLYS CORPORATION PLANS

New Company Will Promote the Expansion of Combined Concerns.

The recently formed Willys Corporation, which is to manufacture a new six-cylinder automobile, it was announced last night, would be in effect a combination to promote the expansion of the Electric Auto-Lite Corporation of Toledo, the New Process Gear Corporation of Syracuse, and the properties of the Duesenberg Motors Corporation of Elizabeth, where the six-cylinder car will be manufactured. Both the Auto-Lite and the gear corporations will continue to act as distinct units and will not lose their identity in the new corporation. The general automobile parts business of both companies will be broadened. They will also supply lighting and starting systems, gears and transmissions for the new car which the Willys Corporation will put out.

The capitalization of the corporation will be $15,000,000 8 per cent. cumulative first preferred stock, $10,000,000 7 per cent. cumulative second preferred stock, and 5,000,000 shares of common stock of no par value. In addition to the companies mentioned, the corporation will own securities of the Willys-Overland, Fisk and Federal Rubber, Bridgeport Crucible, and other corporations, which, together with all other assets, will indicate a value of about $25,000,000 for the common stock over and above the first and second preferred.

AMERICAN MARCONI PLANS FOREIGN DEAL

GENERAL ELECTRIC TO BUY

Under New System American Capital Will Control the Organization Absolutely.

American interests identified with the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America are negotiating for the purchase of a large block of stock in the American company which is now held by the Marconi Wireless Company of England. The British interest is not by any means a controlling one in the American company, but is said to amount to 20 to 25 per cent. If the deal for the purchase of this stock is completed it is probable that there may be a reorganization of the American company.

The General Electric Company, it is understood, will become a stockholder in the company when the deal is arranged, but it is asserted positively that the wireless copmany will in no sense be a subsidiary of the General Electric. The latter became interested in the project through its having developed the Alexanderson alternator, which was installed at the New Brunswick station of the Marconi Company. This type gained high approval from the Navy Department.

The financial details of the negotiations and the plans for reorganization if the deal is completed could not be learned yesterday. It is understood, however, that if a reorganization is undertaken American capital will back the enterprise, so that control will rest absolutely in this country.

The Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America was incorporated under the laws of New Jersey on Nov. 22, 1899. In March, 1912, the company acquired the assets and patents of the United Wireless Telegraph Company. Through the formation in 1917 of the Pan-American Wireless Telegraph and Telephone Company, in which the Marconi Company of America holds a large interest, the zone of the latter's activities was greatly extended.

The original capitalization of the American company was $6,650,000, the 66,500 shares having a par value of $100. In 1910 the par value of the shares was decreased to $25, making the capitalization $1,662,500, and in 1910 the capitalization was increased to $10,000,000 and the par value of the shares reduced to $5.

Throughout the United States the company owns 60 land stations and has equipped about 600 American merchant steamships. In 1917 the Navy Department took over all of the coast stations as well as the high-power stations in New Jersey, California, Hawaii, and Alaska.

HEAVY DECLINE IN EXPORTS.

Biggest Shift Was in Trade Movement with Asia.

The figures showing July's overseas trade by grand divisions became available late yesterday and attracted a good deal of interest in the financial district. The display showed where the greatest contraction in exports from those of June had occurred. The falling off in exports to Europe was $238,834,000 on the month, while imports from Europe increased $5,220,000. Proportionately, however, the greatest shifting in trade was with Asia, where exports in July were $47,068,000 below those of June, while the imports from Asiatic countries increased $31,014,000.

July's exports to European countries, according to the detailed report by divisions, amounted to $405,770,000, as compared with exports of $644,604,000 in June. The imports from European countries in July totaled $58,614,000, against June's imports from Europe of $53,385,000.

Asiatic countries took goods valued at $33,295,000 in July, and in June they took $80,363,000 of our produce. The imports from Asia, which amounted to $72,987,000 in June, mounted to $104,001,000 in July.

Exports to North American countries were $87,871,000 in July, against $119,591,000 in June; the exports to South America in July were valued at $26,854,000, compared with exports worth $43,790,000 in June; exports to Oceania in July were $10,309,000, against $21,581,000 in June, and exports to Africa were $3,980,000 for July, and amounted to $8,336,000 in June.

Imports from all of the continents increased in July over June. North American countries sent us $100,305,000 in merchandise in July, against $97,361,000 in June. South American countries increased their exports to us from $52,162,000 in June to $56,339,000 in July; Oceania increased exports to us from $8,622,000 in June to $9,331,000 the following month, and Africa, which had exported to the United States goods worth $8,552,000 in June, increased this to $15,407,000 in July.

3,500 of Railroad's Shareholders in New York State.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad's list of stockholders as of June 15, 1919, shows that in 1918 there were 12,613 shareholders, with an average holding of ninety-six shares, according to a statement made yesterday by E. E. Loomis, the President.

In 1919 there were 15,689 shareholders, with an average holding of seventy-seven shares. Of this number 5,765 were women, or nearly 37 per cent., and 2 per cent. was held by fiduciary corporations. About 3,500 shareholders live in the city and State of New York. There are 3,800 shareholders in Philadelphia, and 8,200 in Pennsylvania.

COTTON AGAIN DROPS AFTER GOOD START

RAINS DID LITTLE DAMAGE

West Started Selling After Heavy Break in Chicago Grain Market.

Several factors combined to break yesterday's cotton market in the late trading. Early in the day there had been some buying, coming mostly from ring and Wall Street sources, with the result that first prices were generally up a few points, and at the end of the first hour the market stood at 26 to 33 points above the previous day's closing figures. Then the Government's weekly weather report came out and the bulls failed to find in it the inspiration they had counted upon. This diminished buying support, for it was shown that the recent rains had not hurt the crop to any noticeable extent.

After this development had damped the bull ardor, the West started selling, mainly because Chicago's grain and provision market suffered a heavy break, which ran to 5 cents in corn, about as much in rye, and into some sharp losses in provisions.

Wall Street, which had been supporting cotton in sympathy with the rise in stocks, appeared to lose interest in the former after the turn into the afternoon, possibly for the reason that the performance on the Stock Exchange was so dramatic as to monopolize all of the Wall Street speculative attention, and with this support withdrawn and with Chicago and other Western interests unloading, the cotton market simply collapsed.

At the lowest prices of the day March was down nearly 130 points from its high of the morning, while December and January were off about 120 points each, and all other options were down 100 or more. This decline took December to 30.25, January to 30.20, and March 30.30.

In the last few minutes there was a slight recovery, so that the market finished the day off 60 to 65 points from Tuesday's closing. From the high prices of last week to the low of yesterday the market had shown declines of more than 200 points, or about $10 a bale.

This performance, quite aside from whatever surface factors have been responsible, is very much like the way the market has acted after each previous Government condition report this season. There has been a rise in anticipation of each report, and apparently each rise has been sufficiently overdone to upset the market and leave it in a position which has been vulnerable for any adverse influence, no matter how slight and unimportant, that might come along.

AIDS SOUTHERN SHIPPERS.

Hines Levels Class and Commodity Rates to Gulf Ports.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Class and commodity rates upon export traffic from the Middle West to South Atlantic and Gulf ports were decided upon today by Director General Hines. They will be substantially the same as the rates to New York on domestic freight and will equalize charges so that Southern gateways to South and Central America can compete on equal terms with the East.

Decision to establish the rates is the successful outcome of a long fight carried on by Southern interests for their share of the nation's commerce. The official announcement says:

Director General Hines has today issued instructions for the preparation of tariffs which will provide for class and commodity rates upon export traffic from points in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, including cities located on both banks of the Mississippi River from Dubuque, Iowa, to St. Louis, inclusive; also from points in the Southern Peninsula of the State of Michigan to South Atlantic and Gulf ports from Wilmington to New Orleans, inclusive. When the tariffs have been prepared the matter will receive final consideration in Washington. Special consideration is to be given to export traffic when destined to Mexico and Central America, because of the generally low ocean rates from Gulf ports to those countries.

Origin of Oil

Petroleum and natural gas are hydro-carbon compound. It is the consensus of opinion that they are "fossils" of either plant or animal origin. It is generally accepted that petroleum and gas are diffused in strata of shale and limestone. A "sand" is any porous stratum to which the oil and gas have migrated, usually through the agency of salt water.

It has been claimed that oils having an asphaltic base are derived from animal matter and that oils with a parrafin base are derived from vegetable matter. It is a remarkable fact, however, that while it concerns one of the great basic industries of the world there is still much that is obscure as to the origin of oil.

HYLAN ORDERS BURR TO STAY FARE RISE

READY FOR A REHEARING

Commissioner Willing to Open the North Shore Case Again—Answers Mayor Curtly.

Mayor Hylan continued his fight to prevent Public Service Commissioner Nixon from granting increased fares to traction lines in the city by asking Corporation Counsel Burr yesterday if it were not possible to obtain from the courts a writ of prohibition "restraining this man from making these increases where he very clearly has no authority under the decision of the Court of Appeals." The Mayor, in his letter to Corporation Counsel Burr, charged that increasing fares seemed to have become an "obsession" with the Public Service Commissioner.

Commissioner Nixon said he had not received any request from the Corporation Counsel for a rehearing on the application of the North Shore Traction Company to institute a zoning system and increased fares, but would grant the request if he should receive one.

On receiving the Mayor's letter, Corporation Counsel Burr issued a statement, announcing that he would apply for a writ of prohibition without delay as soon as he had been notified that Commissioner Nixon proposed to entertain an application to increase the fares of the Manhattan and Queens Traction Company.

The Mayor's Letter.

CITY OF NEW YORK,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR.
Sept. 3, 1919.

William P. Burr, Esq.,
Corporation Counsel,
City of New York.

Dear Mr. Burr:

Evidently cheered by the success of the North Shore Traction Company in having its fare increased, the Manhattan and Queens Traction Company now announces that it is about to apply to Public Service Commissioner Nixon for an order permitting it to increase its fare and charge eight or ten cents carfare, notwithstanding its franchise contract with the city requires that no more than five cents shall be charged for a continuous ride on its railway.

Increase of fare really seems to have become an obsession with the Public Service Commissioner, and he is apparently prepared to grant an application of this character on the slightest provocation.

You will remember he had not been appointed more than twenty-four hours before he commenced to tell in the public press of the necessity which he thought existed for helping the poor traction companies, and said he was determined not to have any more receivers appointed if he could prevent it. These statements from a quasi judicial officer appointed to sit as a judge in the case between the people of the city and the traction companies without having heard a scintilla of evidence in the case showed plainly the trend of the Commissioner's mind.

So it is plain that you must reckon with this undoubted disposition on his part to grant these applications to the railway companies. He heard the application of the New York Railway Companies for a charge of 2 cents for transfers, and after sitting all day listening to the testimony and the arguments he pulled out of his pocket the decision in the case, deciding against the city and in favor of the companies.

Now, under these circumstances, is it not possible to obtain from the court a writ of prohibition restraining this man from making these increases, which he very clearly has no authority under the decision of the Court of Appeals?

You are reviewing the actions of this Public Service Commissioner by appeal and by writ of certiorari, but I wish you would examine carefully and see if he may not be peremptorily stopped by a writ of prohibition.

The Manhattan and Queens Traction Company is the same company that refused to carry out the provisions of the franchise to construct its line as it agreed under its franchise and has enjoined the Board of Estimate, notwithstanding this, from rescinding the franchise, so anxious was it to be allowed to continue to operate what is claimed to be a most profitable line.

Very truly yours,
JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

Rehearing Tomorrow.

Commissioner Nixon instructed his office to communicate with the Corporation Counsel in reference to the report that a request for a rehearing was to be made. They learned, it was said at the office of the Commissioner, that the request was being drafted and would be sent today. Commissioner Nixon said he would probably set tomorrow as the day for the rehearing and hold it in the Town Hall at Flushing. He said he hoped Mayor Hylan would attend, adding that he would be glad to answer any question the Mayor might desire to ask. When shown a copy of the Mayor's letter to the Corporation Counsel, Mr. Nixon said:

"A favorite method of escaping the consequences of libelous and irresponsible statements is to employ them in letters to appointees. All my acts are open to review by the courts. In the meantime I shall not descend to the level of personal altercation with the Mayor of this city."

Counsel Burr, in his statement, said that a writ of prohibition seemingly was the only thing that could now restrain "the enthusiastic and active efforts of Commissioner Nixon to treat the contracts between the city and the railways as a 'scrap of paper.'" Citing again the Quinby case, he said the Court of Appeals distinctly held that the Public Service Commission had no jurisdiction to increase rates fixed by municipal franchise.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 8,610 packages. Active trading has caused an advance of a full cent on the top grades of creamery butter; medium grades show some improvement, though trading at the higher prices quoted is quieter. Low grades of creamery selling slowly. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 58½@59c; extras, (92 score,) 58c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 54@57½c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 50@53c; lower grades, 48½@49½c; unsalted, higher than extras, 61½@62c; extras, 60½@61c; firsts, 55@60c; seconds, 52½@54c; State, dairy tubs, finest, 57@58c; good to prime, 53@56c; common to fair, 46@51c; ladles, current make, firsts, 48@49c; seconds, 46½@47c; lower grades, 45@46c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 46½@47c; No. 2 46c; lower grades, 43@45½c.

EGGS.—17,767 cases. Demand is moderate and of a selective character. Most receivers report a pretty good call for really prime to fancy qualities, and for these values are steady to firm. On the medium grades there is considerable pressure to sell and rather a dull market with a disposition to accept easy prices. Full range of values shows no material change. Little doing in storage eggs; sales now are mostly on the basis of the seller paying storage charges to expiring dates and quotations are changed to this basis of trading. Only occasional sales are reported. Fancy qualities are generally held above present quotation, but without reported movement. Nearby white eggs are scarce, and strictly fancy qualities still tend in sellers' favor. No fresh Pacific Coast express lots on the market and values uncertain. A car in by freight but not yet on the market. Fresh gathered, extras, a dozen, 55@56c; extra firsts, 52@54c; firsts, 47@51c; seconds, 42@47c; undergrades, 35@41c; dirties, No. 1, 39@40c; No. 2 and poorer, 30@38c; checks, good to choice, dry, 34@36c; undergrades, 25@33c; refrigerator firsts, storage paid, 47@48c; seconds, 45@46c. Nearby white and duck eggs, State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 72@74c; fair to prime, 60@71c; common to prime, 55@72c; other Western and Southern gathered whites, 50@65c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, fancy, 60@65c; gathered brown and mixed colors, graded fancy, 54@57c; fair to prime, 48@53c.

FAILURES SHOW INCREASE.

Liabilities Smaller, However, Than for Any Time in Two Decades.

A slight increase in the number of commercial failures is shown for August, as compared with July figures, according to compilations made by both R. G. Dun & Co. and by Bradstreet's. This was the first time that an increase has been shown over the preceding month since January. Dun's will say on Sept. 6:

"With 468 insolvencies in the United States, exclusive of banking and other fiduciary suspensions and personal bankruptcies, last month's exhibit betters that of any preceding month except July, when only 452 defaults were reported to R. G. Dun & Co., and the $5,932,393 of liabilities in August, although about $400,000 above those of July, are less than in any other month in nearly two decades. On but half a dozen occasions since monthly returns were first compiled, in fact, has so small an indebtedness been shown, while June, July, and August of this year are the only months in which the number of failures has fallen below the 500-mark."

Bradstreets will say:

"Failure statistics have quite promptly reflected the hesitation shown in trade in August as a result of labor unrest and the high price agitation, and for the first time since January the monthly total shows an increase over that for the preceding month. The increase is comparatively small, the August total being 457, and that for July 413."

LIMITS PIER PASSES BY TREASURY ORDER

SOME EXCEPTIONS ARE MADE

Says Under Old Rule Inspectors Were Crowded and Smuggled Goods Could Be Passed to Friends.

Byron R. Newton, Collector of the Port of New York, said yesterday that the refusal of his office to issue pier passes for friends and relatives of passengers on incoming steamers was the result of a Treasury Department order prohibiting passes except in the case of persons on official business, press representatives, or to meet persons who were seriously ill.

This order, Collector Newton asserted, was not a wartime order, but was made necessary because of the limited space which is provided for the examination of baggage by the customs officials. The Collector said that he had made no exceptions to this rule.

"We have reason to believe that there is much smuggling being attempted," Collector Newton said. "This fact alone is sufficient reason for careful control of the small space allotted to us for the examination of baggage. Far instance, a woman having a trunk opened could easily pass diamonds to a friend, if that friend were in a crowd of persons admitted to the pier.

"Our inspectors complained frequently of conditions before the present order was put into effect. The pier is jammed with baggage, and in the case of a large steamship there are 600 or 700 persons on the pier who have business there. These include inspectors, appraisers, immigration officials, and hundreds of persons employed by the steamship companies for unloading, &c.

"I have issued absolutely no passes to any one for personal reasons or because that person had political or other influence. We allow friends and relatives up to the gate in the middle of the piers. If it is necessary, any one on the boat may go out to talk with them. In the case of illness, we send friends or relatives down on a cutter, with a nurse if necessary. We will take letters and deliver them at quarantine for any one coming in."

OIL DIVIDENDS INCREASED.

Mexican and Pan American Companies Raise Rates.

The Directors of the Mexican Petroleum Company and the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company, the latter the holding company for Mexican Petroleum, yesterday increased the quarterly dividends. In the case of Mexican Petroleum there was a declaration of 2½ per cent. on the common stock, payable Oct. 10 to stock of record of Sept. 15. This places the issue on a 10 per cent. annual basis, as compared with 8 per cent., which has prevailed for some time. The declaration on Pan American was 3 per cent., payable Oct. 10 to stock of record Sept. 15. Heretofore the common stock has been paying 2½ per cent. quarterly, so that the annual rate is increased from 10 to 12 per cent. The Mexican Petroleum Company also declared a dividend of 2 per cent. on the preferred stock, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record of Sept. 15.

The annual report of the Mexican Petroleum Company has been prepared and it is expected will be ready for distribution within a few days.

More Leather Deliveries.

One of the many things the agitation in official circles against the high cost of living has done is to liberate stocks of leather that apparently had heretofore been stored "against the time to come." As yet this has not had the effect of reducing prices on the kind of leathers that go into the better grades of shoes, but the fact that deliveries are not only more frequent than they have been for some time, but larger as well, is enough to satisfy the shoe manufacturers for the time being. It was said that a reduction in the price of shoe leathers at this time might actually prove a bit embarrassing to manufacturers who had booked advance Spring orders with the prices specified.

⁂

Have Appointed a Leipsic Agent.

The first step toward the re-establishment of trading in raw furs between the United States and Germany was taken yesterday by the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, when it appointed as its Leipsic agent Willy Eisenbach of Eisenbach & Stern. This firm has been doing business in Leipsic for about half a century, and Mr. Eisenbach is known to the fur trade on both sides of the Atlantic. Representatives of the corporation also confirmed rumors current here that the Leipsic fur dressers and dyers, in an endeavor to regain the prestige that city held before the war for the preparation of furs for manufacture, are already offering in this market such furs as seal-dyed muskrats, dyed and dressed foxes, broadtails, caraculs, and seal-dyed coneys. The corporation also announced yesterday that its sales in 1920 would be held as follows: Midwinter, beginning Feb. 9; Spring, April 12, and Fall, Oct. 18.

Gray Goods Sales Light.

The position of cotton did not help demand any in the local gray goods market yesterday. Both first and second hands were among the sellers, the most interesting transactions of the day, including sales of October-November lots of 39-inch 80-squares by first hands at 24½ cents. Second hands sold 39-inch 68-72s at 19¾ cents for delivery during this month and next, and also sold September shipments of 38½-inch 64-60s at 15¾ cents. They day's activities in the other branches of the market were featureless for the most part.

⁂

Drug Prices Are Advancing.

American crude drugs are growing scarce, Drug and Chemical Markets will say today, and prices are rapidy advancing. It will also say that camphor and menthol are higher, and that the salicylates have gone up. Quicksilver, on the other hand, has fallen off sharply under the bearish influence of heavy imports. The heavy chemical market is firm, with prices tending upward as a result of the limited stocks in hand. Coal tar intermediates are active. Makers of aniline oil and salt are sold far ahead. Prices of essential oils are tending upward, but there has been an easy undertone during the last week to the market for vegetable oils. The foreign exchange situation hampered exports.

⁂

After Practical Effects.

The era of the slim-waisted, elongated figure of a woman in the advertising of materials and apparel seems to have passed, judging from the efforts of those handling such publicity for women's wear manufacturers. Photographs of known personages, generaly those who have become famous on the stage or in the motion pictures, are supplanting the rather curious art of the fashion illustrators. The leading and long-established houses, however, are finding some difficulty in getting advertising material that they consider as dignified as their product. They have not much use for stage celebrities, but would rather picture the fashionable leaders of society. This, of course, is not easy to accomplish. One house has made arrangements whereby it secures the desired pictures, and they are used, but no names are mentioned.

Interested in Today's Auction.

Traders in the local dry goods market yesterday evinced more interest in the Government's auction sale of surplus cottons, which will be held today at the Manhattan Opera House, Thirty-fourth Street, near Eighth Avenue, beginning at 10:30 A. M., than they did in the general run of business. The offerings at this sale, which will be the second of its kind ever held, total more than 16,000,000 yards of assorted fabrics and about 3,700,000 towels. The only staple gray goods that appear in the cloth offerings are over 2,000,000 yards of 36-inch four-yard, 56-60 sheetings, the market quotation for which was 18 cents yesterday. At the last sale many of the fabrics put on the block brought full prices but, in view of the market changes that have taken place since then, there was some speculation yesterday as to just how today's prices would show up in comparison.

Openings Put Off.

Some of the most representative houses in the silk trade have put off their opening of Spring lines. One of the largest concerns announced yesterday that the new season will not be started until the middle of next month. Staple silks are the principal offerings of this house. Some of the makers of novelty goods have already made a good start on Spring merchandise. The unsettled condition of the trade, both as regards labor and raw material, is the chief reason given for delaying their Spring operations by the manufacturers who have put off their openings.

Will Have Plenty Goods.

The opinion is quite generally expressed in the local piece goods market that the middle of the Spring manufacturing season should see plenty of goods for the cutting-up trade. Although many of the mills will show very little for Spring, it is predicted that when Fall operations having been completed time will be found to produce a certain quantity of lightweight goods to help the clothiers out on their requirements. Another aspect of the case is the possibility of fair sized imports reaching this country. This may serve to fill in the gap and enable the clothiers to meet reorders from the retailers toward the close of the Spring season.

Tendency Toward Wide Stripes.

As a development toward large effects which was started by the creation of big plaids, materials are now being put out by silk and dress goods manufacturers that show about the widest stripes ever seen in the market. Brilliant color combinations are being used, and, while these designs are considered in an experimental stage, they are said to be meeting with quite some favor. Fabric styles of this character will be utilized chiefly as skirtings, with the stripe in the made-up garment running horizontally.

Demand Blocks New Styles.

One of the leading manufacturers of men's neckwear stated yesterday that new styles which have always been a big feature, have to take third place at present to production and mounting costs. He intimated that because of the sold up condition of the market his concern was not making any effort in the direction of creating new styles. Staple goods, he said, seem to be considered most desirable at the present time, and the best investment for retailers who are just as uncertain as the manufacturers how the consumer demand will work out.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Malven S. Cohen, 3 West Twenty-ninth Street, resident buyer for women's specialty shops throughout the country, has added a new branch to his business that will operate under the trade name of Livingston & Cohen. Under this name merchandise of all descriptions will be bought for department stores. Stanley A. Livingston, who for the last ten years was connected with Leon Fellman, New Orleans, will buy piece goods, domestics, &c., while Mr. Cohen will handle the millinery and ready-to-wear. Until larger quarters can be procured the business will be carried on at the present address.

The Liberty Textile Corporation, handling towels, bedspreads, sheets, pillow cases, and diaperings, has gone into business at 16 Thomas Street. The corporation is headed by Frank M. Bennet, who was formerly associated with the Jefferson Department of the Hunter Manufacturing and Commission Company. It will handle the lines formerly carried by the latter concern.

Announcement was made yesterday at the offices of the Retail Research Association, 225 Fifth Avenue, that Bullock's, Los Angeles, had been admitted to membership.

The business of the Louis L. Ginsberg Company, Incorporated, 28-32 West Twenty-seventh Street, which for several years was conducted with Louis L. Ginsberg as its President, will be continued under the same firm name, with Sam Ginsberg at its head. Louis L. Ginsberg died on Aug. 19.

FEDERAL LAND BILL PASSED BY SENATE

CURB PUT ON STANDARD OIL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Without a record vote the Senate tonight, after a twelve-hour session, passed the bill to make possible the leasing of public lands having deposits of oil, coal, gas, phosphate, and sodium.

An amendment which would have authorized the President to fix and control the prices of coal, oil, and other products derived from Government lands leased under the measure, was rejected by 48 to 10. It was offered by Senator La Follette, Republican, who has spoken twenty hours on the bill, and it met strong opposition from Western Senators.

Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, said the plan was unworkable, while Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, declared the amendment would "further perpetuate the control of the Standard Oil Company," and would result in fixing the price of oil refined by independents while the "Standard Oil Company would go free."

Senator Pittman, Democrat, said that while he was willing to grant power to the President to fix prices if necessary, the effect of this amendment would be to control the price of only one-tenth of the oil produced in this country.

Senator La Follette in urging the amendment again assailed the Standard Oil Company and said that unless some steps were taken to control prices, the public eventually would demand that action be directed "even against the Standard Oil Company and the other monsters that have this country by the throat." He charged that the "Standard Oil Company and its assistants are exerting, or trying to exert, influence on the Senate" to obtain speedy ratification of the Peace Treaty.

An amendment by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, requiring oil companies to sell their product at the same price in all sections of the country, was adopted without a roll-call. Another amendment offered by Senator Harris and adopted provides that no stockholder of any corporation producing or refining petroleum or by-products shall control the stock of any other corporation when both have been created in compliance with a court decree of dissolution or in avoidance of prosecution previously initiated under the provisions of the anti-trust laws.

Explaining these amendments as the outgrowth of his experiences as Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, Senator Harris said that the restriction upon the sale of the stock of the constituent companies of the Standard Oil Company provided for would within a comparatively short time cause these companies to become independent in ownership in fact as well as in name. Under the amendment no stockholder can sell or transfer his holdings to any person holding stock in any of the other companies.

LESS FEAR OF STEEL STRIKE

Trade Papers Agree That the Labor Situation Is Clearing.

The strike menace in the steel industry is considered to be temporarily out of the way, according to The Iron Age in its weekly survey of conditions. Evidence, it believes, points to a strong sentiment among the workers against a test of union strength.

In discussing the situation the publication says:

> So far as wage advances are concerned, there is a widening circle of thinking workers who realize the impossibility of reducing living costs with continual wage advances and at the same time little consideration to increasing unit production. The more cheerful outlook comes largely from the President's proposal for a conference of employers of labor and labor officials, whatever may be the disposition of the "putting the whole question of wages upon another footing."
>
> August's steel output will closely equal that of July, but shipments could have been greater but for car shortage. The future, with the coming grain movement, does not hold much promise in this particular. Bookings generally exceeded capacity, and it is getting more difficult to place business with the mills.
>
> August's production of pig iron, 2,743,388 tons, was as much greater than that of July, 2,428,541 tons, as July exceeded June. The daily output in August was 88,406 tons, against 78,340 tons in July. The blowing in of furnaces kept up through the month, 266 being in blast on Sept. 1, as against 239 on Aug. 1.
>
> The rate of pig iron production on Sept. 1 was 93,360 tons per day, or at a yearly rate of about 34,500,000 tons. The 1918 output was 39,400,000 tons. The daily rate a month ago was 85,635 tons.
>
> The pig iron market is strong. The tendency toward higher prices, especially in Eastern Pennsylvania and the Cleveland district, where advances of 50 cents to $1 have been made, is pronounced, despite a very conservative policy, especially as to sales for delivery into next year. Evidence of increasing foundry melting adds to the strength of the market.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> Diminished importance is ascribed to the labor factor in iron and steel trade conditions as the result of the week's developments. While at no time have the rank and file of producers and consumers permitted themselves to entertain serious misgivings over the general strike threats, the acute stage for even partial dislocation of output is believed to have been passed. Manifestly the more radical elements in union circles have been forced to yield to wiser counsel, after having attempted to paint for public consumption some absurd and untruthful pictures of working conditions. Plant operations, as respects labor disturbances, are more nearly normal than they have been in weeks. Producers, nevertheless, are being bothered in some degree by a shortage in working forces which renders it impossible to obtain the capacity yields demanded by current orders for some products.

WILL PUZZLES SURROGATE.

Official Asks State to Test Bequest of Morris Goldberg.

Surrogate Fowler yesterday dismissed a proceeding brought by the executors for a construction of the will of Morris Goldberg, who left his estate of $225,000 to be devoted, after the death of his wife, for the organization of the "Morris Goldberg and Rachel Goldberg Home for Jewish Female Minors." Mrs. Goldberg died in July, 1918, and the Trustees, doubting the validity of the bequest for the organization of the home, asked the Surrogate for advice.

The Surrogate decided that because of the language used, there is some doubt as to the validity of the bequest, but he added, "too many charities are permitted to fail in this State. I hesitate to make a decree in so important a matter without a formal trial or testimony, and on a mere petition for the construction of the will."

The Surrogate suggested that the State Attorney General, who asked that the bequest be upheld, take steps in the Supreme Court, "as the general conservator of charities and public trusts," to compel the Trustees to form the corporation mentioned and to turn the estate over to it. This action will be taken.

Marseilles Strike May Stop Factories

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The dock strike at Marseilles continues without disorder, but oil refineries and soap factories will soon run short of raw materials. The Executive Committee of the Federated Trades Unions of the Department threatens to call a general strike.

STAFF COLLEGE MARKS NEW ORDER IN ARMY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The General Staff College of the United States Army came into official existence this morning. It is the successor of the old War College, and as General March, the Chief of Staff, today expressed it, the staff college marks the transition from the old to the new order of things. Major Gen. James W. McAndrew, who was General Pershing's Chief of Staff in France, is the first President of the Staff College. The opening exercises were attended by virtually all of the higher ranking officers on duty in Washington.

"The opening of the General Staff College," said General March, who made the principal address at the opening, "marks the transition from the old order of things to the new. This group of instructors and officers of the student class are all marked men. Men who have served with distinction during the war with Germany, and have had important duties in connection with the development and success of our army program. The War Department plan contemplates using the experience of this class in war to start the Staff College on modern lines; to put at the disposal of the army what has been learned under the stress of war; to lay a firm foundation upon which to build a modern institution which will be the last word in the military training of selected officers as a preparation for high command and general staff work in war.

"It is unnecessary for me to call upon you for your best efforts in connection with the development of this course, the fact of your selection indicates that the War Department has found you always willing and able to cope with the military problems which have confronted you.

"You enter upon your duties at a time when public opinion is disturbed concerning military education and training. Assaults have been made upon the system at West Point, at the Leavenworth Schools, and upon the general system which has produced regular army officers in the past. We who know so well the value of the West Point training, not only to the army but to the country at large; who know how splendidly the Leavenworth training laid the foundation for the successful work done by the graduates of that institution during the war, and who realize how the handful of regulars scattered throughout the great army which was organized during this war, leavened the whole mass, are impatient of such wholesale and destructive criticism. No system of education and training, however, can stand still and be successful.

"In connection with your work here this group of officers can perform a valuable service to the country in crystallizing army thought in the direction of a sound military policy. The essentials of such a policy are simple and concrete. The insistence on details not fundamental in character gives to civilians, and to Congress, the idea that the army is divided against itself, and divided we fall. You can do much to further a get-together policy between the different arms of the service, an avoidance of inter-arm strife, usually based on a scramble for promotion, and can help to establish firmly for all time the principle that efficiency must be the sole reason for success and advancement, not pull nor old age.

"We are entering upon a period where the unrest prevalent throughout the world makes imperative a broad vision of the military problems which may confront the Government. In working out a military policy which will permit the United States to solve such problems the training of officers as is here contemplated has an important part. We are not likely, in the future, to have the opportunity to give such advanced training while a war is in progress, secure behind such a wall of defense as was built by our Allies in this last war.

"Let us all therefore throw ourselves into the development of a modern army well balanced, well trained, capable of rapid expansion and with the unity of purpose and devotion to duty and country, which has so strongly characterized our army in the present war."

450 FRESHMEN FOR YALE.

Prediction of Record Enrollment Is Made for the College.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 3.—Reports of students intending to enter Yale this Fall indicate that the freshman class of the academic department will equal any of its predecessors. Some estimate the number of prospective students at 450. This would be a record enrollment.

In the Sheffield Scientific School figures are less certain because of the fact that for the first time the class which enters this Fall will take a four years' instead of a three years' course and because students in the academic department may attain the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy, the Sheffield Scientific School devoting its activity exclusively to scientific subjects hereafter.

When Yale reopened its doors as a university last January it had only about 1,800 students. The number grew till it had registered 2,300.

BRITISH WATCH OUR YARDS.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—On his return from a visit to several American shipbuilding yards, including the vast Hog Island establishment, Sir Joseph Davies said to the Directors and shareholders of J. Samuel White & Co. of Cowes, at their annual general meeting:

"I should like to mention one thing in regard to America, where I had the opportunity of seeing shipbuilding in the old yards and new yards, and that is, I come back satisfied that we can always hold our own in shipbuilding unless a great change is brought about on the other side."

On the other hand, Sir G. B. Hunter, of the Wallsend Shipyard, in a letter to the newspapers, writes:

"Sir Herbert Rowell is right with regard to the serious effect American shipbuilding will have on the British industry. It is a great mistake to say or to think that American shipbuilders cannot build or are not building ships as good as we are building in England and Scotland. They were building both cargo and passenger steamships of the highest class and the highest efficiency long before the war. This I know because I have inspected and admired them, and I repeat that this applies to passenger vessels as well as those for cargo. We shall have to work harder and spend less if we are to hold our own with America."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Prediction that rising costs of construction eventually would prevent Japan from acting as a competitor of the United States in shipbuilding, even for her own people, was made here today by T. Hirota, manager of a Japanese shipping company, who has arrived here from Kobe. Mr. Hirota said it now costs $187 a ton to build steel ships in Japan, and that increasing living costs were forcing up the wages paid workmen, and consequently the cost of constructing ships.

DENIES TRADE AGREEMENT.

Germany Not Bound to Buy Supplies from Three Entente Nations Only.

BERLIN, Sept. 2, (Associated Press.)—The Foreign Office has denied a report attributed to the American press to the effect that England, France, and Italy had secretly agreed with Germany that the latter would procure raw materials and finished products from only those three Entente countries.

Information has been received from Wilhelmstrasse that "such an agreement is neither in existence nor contemplated," and that "the obvious purpose of the report was to scare American business men arriving in Germany in increased numbers to investigate conditions and to resume commercial relations."

A $35,000 ESTATE FOR $25,500

Having moved permanently to the Middle West, owner will sacrifice Jersey suburban home to quick buyer for $25,500. $5,000 cash, balance on mortgage, takes it. The grounds comprise more than an acre, shaded by many fine old trees and beautifully planted with flowers and shrubs. The house is only three years old, of the most modern type of Italian architecture; is complete in every detail and READY FOR IMMEDIATE OCCUPANCY. The place has been kept in the pink of perfection, and not an extra dollar need be spent on it. There are 15 big rooms and 4 bathrooms, the latter being completely tiled and provided with built-in tubs, showers and the best fixtures money can buy. The kitchen is also tiled, as well as a washroom off the main hall on the first floor. The grounds occupy the crest of Sunset Hill, in the heart of the Kittatinnies, a nearly 1,000 feet elevation; only 29 miles from Broadway, Manhattan. The local environs comprise one of the finest purely residential sections of New Jersey. The place can be reached within an hour via D., L. & W. R. R.; excellent commuting service, or by auto over splendid roads almost as quickly. This is an ideal gentleman's estate at a fraction of its real value. Views equal to those of the Berkshires spread out for 20 miles in several directions. Details can be obtained by writing SUBURBAN, P. O. Box 529, City Hall Station, New York City.

Education Notes.

Members of the Board of Education and representatives of the Board of Estimate continued their consideration of the 1920 school budget yesterday. The most important action taken was the elimination of an appropriation of $65,000, which was to be used for the organization of three new high schools. These were the proposed Brownsville High School, the Girls' High School of Commerce in Brooklyn, and the Washington Heights High School. In nearly every case where money was requested for new activities, or an extension of the special activities, the appropriation was turned down or held in abeyance. This was the fate of the agricultural course which was to be introduced into the high schools, even though it was shown that the United States Government would defray four-fifths of the expense. The appropriation of $5,000 for three teachers of speech improvement in the high schools and one in the training schools was eliminated, despite the fact that Superintendent Edson showed that the need was most urgent in order that stammering, stuttering, lisping, and the use of a foreign accent might be cured.

The final item considered in the afternoon session was the teachers' salary accruals. Frederick D. Chambers, deputy auditor for the Board of Education, who explained the method used to determine the probable saving from this item next year, was subjected to heckling on the part of the Board of Estimate representatives.

Registration for new pupils began yesterday in the elementary schools and will continue today and tomorrow. Reports from various parts of the city showed that it was much lighter than on the first day last year. At Public School 103, Madison Avenue and 119th Street, but twenty-five new pupils had been registered, whereas on the first day last year 200 were enrolled. Final figures on registration and on the first day's attendance on Monday will not be reported until Tuesday, and the total for the city will be available on Thursday.

The Bureau of Education has issued an announcement of the eligibility requirements for the Rhodes scholarships. A scholarship is of the value of £300 a year, and is tenable for three years, subject to the continued approval of the college at Oxford of which the scholar is a member. A candidate to be eligible must (a) be a citizen of the United States, with at least five years' domicile, and unmarried; (b) by the first of October of the year for which he is elected have passed his nineteenth and not have passed his twenty-fifth birthday; (c) by the first of October of the year for which he is elected have completed at least his sophomore year at some recognized degree-granting university or college of the United States of America. For each State, or in some cases for a group of States, there will be a Committee of Selection, in whose hands, subject to ratification by the Trustees, the nominations will rest. Candidates may ascertain the name and address of the secretary for his State, and any further information, by writing to the American Secretary to the Rhodes Trustees, Professor Frank Aydelotte, Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.

Special credit will be given for courses pursued in recognized colleges of commerce and business administration involving the study of export trade technique and international commerce relations. Applicants must also have had three years' responsible administrative experience in connection with sales promotion either in foreign or domestic commerce. Persons whose sole experience has been in routine clerical positions, or with establishments where the volume of business is small, will not be considered.

Under the second subject applicants must submit with their applications a thesis on the subject of "Export trade promotion as exemplified by governmental and private agents with special reference to the selection and assignment of personnel and the choice of suitable fields for exploitation and development." In lieu of the thesis the applicant may submit any publications of which he is the author, and which relate closely to the subject of export trade development.

Applicants must have reached their twentyfifth but not their fiftieth birthday on the date of the examination. Applicants should at once apply for Form 2118, stating the title of the examination desired, to the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

CALLS TENANTS' ROW CASE OF BOLSHEVISM

RENTS HELD UP, OWNER SAYS

Declares That Tenants' Soviet Had Been Formed in Two Tenements.

The formation of a tenants' soviet was charged for the second time within a week in the Harlem Court yesterday, when Harry Kannensohn of 709 West 169th Street alleged that the tenants of his two six-story tenements at 115 and 117 East 104th Street had organized cooperatively and were not only refusing to allow the landlord a voice in the direction of his property, but were collecting the rents themselves.

Kannensohn brought into court on summons eight women whom he had selected from the forty-four tenants who have been on a rent strike for the last three weeks. The women gave their names as Mrs. Anna Harris, Mrs. Rose Popkin, Mrs. Lena Amos, Mrs. Minnie Rothberh, Mrs. Rose Feinstein, Mrs. Margaret Delinsky, Mrs. Sarah Friedlander, and Mrs. Sarah Alexander.

According to the landlord, the eight tenants formed an organization of the strikers and affiliated themselves with the Tenants League which has its headquarters in East 107th Street. He charged them with conspiracy, and alleged that the Strike Committee had collected $1,200 in rents from the tenants, and that they had refused to turn this money over to him. He further said that they intimidated prospective tenants, thus preventing him from renting twelve vacant apartments. He said they had refused to go to the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering for a hearing on their grievances.

The landlord showed the court a letter from Nathan Hirsch, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, to Justice Leopold Prince of the Sixth District Municipal Court, in which Mr. Hirsch stated that it was his opinion that the tenants were to blame, and that they were trying to take undue advantage of the landlord. To all the charges o fthe landlord, Mrs. Harris, who is said to be the leader of the strikers, answered that as far as she was concerned she was no Bolshevik. "I am 100 per cent. American," she told the court. "My husband and I are members of the Wichita Democratic Club."

After hearing the story of the landlord Magistrate Schwab adjourned the case until tomorrow afternoon with the following statement:

"This appears to be nothing more than a case of Bolshevism such as seems to be running riot over the city at the present time. You have no right to prevent this landlord from running his houses, or to prevent him from collecting his rents. He is a taxpayer and through his paying taxes you are afforded police protection and a good many other things. If I am informed by him that you interfere with him in the slightest degree I will issue a warrant for you and put you in jail. I am a tenant myself, but I hold that the landlord is entitled to protection as well as the tenant."

In a letter addressed to President Riegelman of the Borough of Brooklyn, and forwarded by him to the Mayor's Committee, T. H. Ralston of E. H. Clarke, Inc., 27 William Street, suggests that one solution of the rent situation would be the passage of an ordinance making it a misdemeanor for janitors of apartment houses to receive bonuses for installing tenants. He asserts that in the house in whcih he lives the janitor tyrannizes over the present tenants because there is a large waiting list, and that unless a good bonus is paid he will create disturbances and then get a dispossess for the tenant on the ground that he is undesirable.

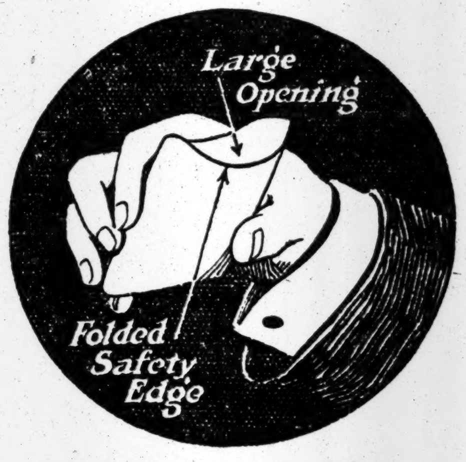
Danger and Disease Lurk in Your "Office" Drinking Glass

Recent investigation established the fact that the drinking glass or cup commonly used in offices and factories, is one of the most dangerous means of spreading Colds, Influenza and Disease.

It is now known that the "common drinking glass" is the greatest germ carrier in public life. In fact, there is a rigid law that forbids its public use and the penalty is imprisonment and

A Fine of $250

Both the criminal law and the moral law demand that you use clean, sanitary, individual cups in your office and factory. Don't risk arrest and a fine by continuing the use of the "condemned public glass."



Royal Cups are made of heavy waterproof paper. The folded "Safety" edge will not cut the lips.

Use Royal Cups

and give your customers and employees clean water in clean cups. Your customers don't like to endanger their health by drinking from a germ-breeding glass that has been used by everyone.

You cannot afford to permit one employee to endanger the health and lives of all your employees by spreading colds, influenza, etc., through the "condemned glass." Don't weaken the efficiency of your organization—especially these busy days.

It is more economical to use Royal Cups than to supply your entire force with individual glasses (which, by the way, are never sanitary.)

Nine people out of ten rinse a glass before using—and they should. Bottled water is too expensive to waste. Royal Drinking Cups are clean and require no rinsing—they help to cut your water bill in half.
